COURSE OF GALE BELIEVED HEADED TO FLORIDA KEYS

STRICKEN CRAFT LEFT IN WAKE

Three Vessels in Distress—Crews of All Are Thought Safe—Key West May Be Hit Today.

Miami, Fla., September 27.—(AP)—Miami and vicinity was struck by a 58-mile an hour squall tonight during which the barometer dropped to 29.65, the lowest reading here since the tropical hurricane was reported off Florida east coast several days ago. Miami Beach was thrown into total darkness when power lines there were blown down. Electric light service in many sections of Miami also was disrupted and property damage was reported.

The electric light company reported scores of calls from all sections of Miami and Miami Beach were received stating that lines had been blown down and emergency crews were rushed to the affected districts to prevent accidents from persons coming in contact with the wires.

"Advisory northeast storm warning continued 10:30 p. m. Miami to Jupiter. Tropical storm central one hundred miles southeast of Miami, apparently moving very slowly westward attended by strong shifting gales and probably winds of hurricane force.

Caution advised vessels Florida straights and off southeast Florida coast. Wind will likely reach gale force greater part area Jupiter to Key West within the next 12 hours."

While meteoroiogists chased the elusive center of the tropical storm in the Bahamas islands tonight, the group nearest the lower East Florida coast were swept by gale winds. Ships found the going heavy.

Barometers were falling rapidly during the early evening at West End and Bimini, opposite Palm Beach and Miami, respectively, and barometric pressures on the main land had a lowering tendency. Some rain squalls with gusty winds were experienced at Palm Beach and Miami, but were of brief duration.

Radio reports from Bimini said the barometer dropped .07 of an inch from noon to 4 p. m., and that the wind velocity at the latter time had reached 60 miles. The barometer then was 29.48. Bimini is about 40 miles east of Miami.

Barometer Falls.

West End, the same distance offshore as Bimini, saw the barometer fall .20 of an inch during four hours, the reading at 4 p. m., according to radio reports, being 29.60. Wind velocity was given as 48 miles, east by north. The wind at Bimini was easterly.

The steamship Lake Gaither, ten miles off Miami at 3:20 p. m., radioed the wireless station WOE at Palm Beach that she was ploughing through a high wind and confusing seas, with the barometer at 29.57 and falling slowly.

The weather bureau advisory at 2 p. m. stated that the center of the storm at that time apparently was "a short distance west and south of yesterday's position." The center yesterday was indicated off Andros island. The bureau continued its northwest storm warnings south of Miami to Key West, stating that north winds were likely to reach gale force within the next 24 hours.

Vessels Cautioned.

Vessels were cautioned to exercise care in the Florida strait which separates Cuba and the lower Bahamas from Florida, and also in the waters off the southeast coast of Florida.

No indication was given as to how the storm center was moving, if moving at all, and all meteorologists described the disturbance as a peculiar phenemon. Belen observatory at Havana, Cuba, thought the most probable future course of the center would be to the north in which event it might again pass over or near Nassau,

TWO MINERS DEAD, SIX IMPRISONED IN SHAFT BLAST

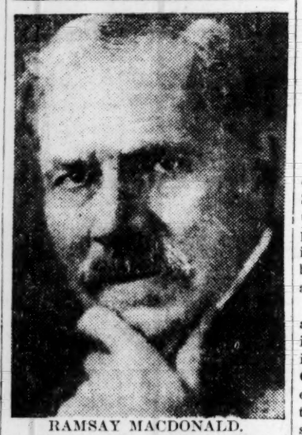

Shady Point, Okla., September 27. (AP)—Two men were dead and six others were imprisoned in a coal mine on the Covington lease here early tonight as the result of a gas explosion which hurled one of the men 200 feet from the opening of the slope.

Rescue crews immediately started efforts to reach the entombed men. It was not known whether they still were alive.

Mine officials tonight were unable to tell the extent of the explosion.

Ginning Report Inquiry Ordered By Senate Vote

RAMSAY MACDONALD.

BRITISH PREMIER EN ROUTE TO U. S.

Dawes, in Dress Suit and High Silk, Elbows Way to Train for Final Hand-Clasp.

London, September 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald tonight started on his historic mission to the United States with a parting warm handclasp from United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes to speed him on his way.

General Dawes, meticulously clad in evening dress, with a shiny silk hat, elbowed his way through the huge workaday crowd which had gathered at Waterloo station and energetically shouted "Good old Mac," "Good old Ramsay." He found the prime minister standing at a Pullman door on the boat train, surrounded by friends and with his three pretty daughters hovering in the background.

"I am off in the hope of being able to do something to narrow the Atlantic," Mr. MacDonald said. He wore an ordinary business suit and fedora hat and appeared quite serious during the leave-taking.

As the time neared for the train to depart, Ishbel MacDonald, who alone of the three girls was accompanying her father to the United States, reached from the door of the car and nervously plucked him once or twice by the sleeve, urging him to step aboard. Her flushed face betrayed excitement; her eyes sparkled in anticipation.

Imposing Figure.

She made such an imposing picture framed in the doorway of the car in her long gray coat with astrachan collar, gray hat and stockings and black shoes that she immediately became the center of attraction for a battery of photographers. In the lapel of her coat she wore a spray of her native Scotch heather.

Outside the railings of the station in full sight of the MacDonald train a group of workers clambered on the George Bitterly Flays Census Bureau; Strong Speech Wins Passage of Resolution.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

Washington, September 27.—(Special.)—Aided by a strong speech by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, the Heflin resolution calling for report from the census bureau explaining the cause of an error of 300,000 bales in the Georgia crop estimate was adopted by the senate today.

Characterizing as "wholly inexcusable" the recent action of the bureau in making an error of 300,000 bales in its report on cotton ginnings in Georgia, Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, in a speech on the floor, today, demanded the summary dismissal of "everyone in the bureau connected with the mistake, whether it be a clerical error or not."

Senator Heflin obtained consideration of his resolution after modifying the language. It was adopted after Senator George had assailed the erroneous ginning report.

Report Issued Monday.

The report, issued on Monday, showed 727,988 bales of cotton ginned in Georgia as of September 15. In the afternoon, five and a half hours later, the census bureau corrected the statement to show only 427,988 bales ginned in Georgia. The error was attributed by bureau officials to a mistake by a clerk in transcribing the report.

Declaring that such errors have occurred with "alarming regularity," the Georgia senator told his colleagues that the most recent omission, contained in the regular September 15 ginnings report issued last Monday, was "so gross that anyone would be warranted in saying that there was something more than negligence behind it."

"Errors of one kind and another have been repeated with such disturbing and disastrous regularity," he added, "until anyone would be justified in saying there is something more than carelessness behind it. The man responsible for it ought to be dismissed from the bureau without investigation. We will not coreret such error unless vigorous action is taken."

At another point in his address Senator George said: "It was an error wholly inexcusable, an error that a schoolboy ought not to have made—an error that no man can make who knows anything about the industry with which he is dealing. There should be a prompt dismissal of everyone in the bureau connected with it."

Prices Held Down.

While the cotton market failed to react materially downward on the basis of the erroneous report, Senator George pointed out that the importance of it was that the report indicated a total cotton yield for Georgia of 1,500,000 bales, or about 500,000 bales above expectations, which he said, tended to hold down prices.

He asked the senate to bear in mind that under boll weevil conditions the usual cotton production in Georgia amounted to about 1,000,000 bales, whereas the initial report corrected some four hours later, after the market had closed, showed 727,988 bales ginned in the state up to September 15.

"Sometimes production in the state runs to 1,100,000 or 1,150,000 a year under boll weevil conditions," he said. "Anyone who knows anything about cotton—and if officials over there in the bureau know nothing about it,

FEAR EXPRESSED FOR FIVE PERSONS IN FLOODED AREA

Augusta, Appling, Millen, Waycross, Wadley and Midville Marooned as Waters Sweep Bridges.

Augusta, Ga., September 27.—(AP)—Officials in charge of crews patrolling the levee here late tonight expressed fear for the safety of five persons marooned in a tree in North Augusta which was inundated by the rising waters of the Savannah river.

Levee workers said the five clung to the tree for hours, screaming for help. Darkness prevented search for the marooned persons, and the cries ceased. Levee workers said search would be made for them early in the morning.

Crews tonight were fighting two breaks in the nine-mile levee which protects Augusta from the Savannah river. A 20-foot break six miles below the city caused little apprehension, but a later break near the business section caused grave concern. Officials said it was probable the break could be brought under control.

The river stage tonight stood at 46.1 with the water still rising slowly. The stream was expected to reach a depth of 47 feet by Saturday morning. The Savannah river levee that protects Augusta was built to withstand a flood stage of 48.4.

Virtually all business in Augusta was suspended, and residents of the section behind the levee began packing household goods and moving their families to higher ground.

The levee itself extends for nine miles around the city, starting at a point two miles above the city and extending to New Savannah, a boat landing seven miles below the city.

Hamburg, S. C., a negro settlement just across the river from Augusta, was virtually swept away. Swirling waters were rushing over the housetops, but an exodus of residents began yesterday and no loss of life was reported.

Immense Damage.

In the lowlands of North Augusta several manufacturing plants have been wrecked, resulting in damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Augusta veneer plant was undermined today and the entire mill was said to be a total loss.

Huge oil tanks of the Atlantic Refining Company, adjacent to the veneer plant, were lifted from their foundations and tossed about in the water like corks.

The city is entirely cut off from any means of transportation. Every highway leading out of the city is under water and bridges have been washed out. County officials estimated damage to roads and bridges in the county alone will run around $150,000.

All railroads have ceased operations. The Southern, C. & W. C., Atlantic Coast Line and Georgia & Florida, South Carolina Extension, are under water. Heavily loaded freight cars have been placed on the roadbeds to hold them to their foundations.

Mayor W. B. Bell tonight denied a rumor that part of the levee was to be dynamited to relieve the tremendous pressure of the water.

Appling, Millen, Waycross, Wadley and Midville, like Augusta, were cut off from rail and highway communication by rampaging streams that carried away bridges and washed out both railroads and highways. Communication was badly hampered over both highways and railroads through the eastern portion of the state lying near the South Carolina line.

A murder trial was halted at Appling because of high water that marooned the judge and jury in the courthouse, while the solicitor-general was waterbound in another section of town. The defendant, Burley Adams, charged with slaying Walter L. Tolbert, a prohibition agent, was in jail in another section of town.

An undetermined number of passengers on a Georgia railroad train were marooned at Thomson, Ga., where they were being fed in the town and sleeping on the train.

Railroad officials held out no hope of restoring service for 48 hours or more, even though there is no more rain. The Central of Georgia had suspended service between Tenile and Savannah because of washouts and through trains were being detoured.

ARMLESS WOMAN FLIER IS KILLED IN TEXAS CRASH

Abilene, Texas, September 27.—(United News.)—Miss Josephine Callaghan, armless since birth, who had patiently learned to fly an airplane by means of special devices controlled by her feet, was killed near here today when she lost control of her plane while 2,000 feet in the air.

A letter found in a pocket of the girl's flying suit told how she had made futile attempts to obtain a pilot's license despite her affliction. Her home was said to be in Los Angeles.

BY ED DANFORTH.
Sports Editor, The Constitution.

Showers of footballs will pelt the southland today.

After four weeks' toil on practice fields, the strongest array of Southern conference football teams that ever donned cleats takes off in opening games.

From Maryland to Florida and across to the yellow waters of the Mississippi the 1929 gridiron campaign will be launched.

Not only the elevens at the major institutions, but the smaller fry as well are swimming on the crest of an unprecedented interest in the game. A hundred thousand people will gather to view the games where a decade ago half that number might have attended.

Conference Teams in Action.

Only two conference elevens toss their championship chances into the same ring. Vanderbilt, with a completely rebuilt eleven, plays the University of Mississippi in Nashville in a game the outcome of which is decidedly uncertain. Ole Miss has a veteran eleven coached by Homer Hazel, the Rutgers veteran. It will be a stern test for the machine assembled by Dan McGugin, dean of southern coaches; the Commodores still are in the experimental stage.

The Georgia-Oglethorpe game at Athens commands intense interest in Atlanta and the entire state. The little institution on Peachtree road is developing what promises to be its best eleven since the heroic 1926 team defeated Georgia Tech, 7 to 6, in an opening game. The Petrels, coached to the limit by Harry Robertson, the old Syracuse star, and ready to play an inspired game, hope to repeat the feat of upsetting a conference foe at expense of Georgia.

The Bulldogs, with six sophomores, ticketed to start constitute a genuine dark horse, the mystery team of the conference. Completely made over from freshman graduates, a few lettermen and a few 1928 reserves, the Bulldogs more nearly resemble an unknown quantity that Old Man Ex himself. The Bulldogs have been painstakingly brought along with a view to winning one game at a time and they will not take Yale more seriously next month than they will take these Petrels from Atlanta.

Tech Practicing Here.

Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Tulane and North Carolina State alone of the 23 conference elevens remain at home practicing. All the others hoist the first kick off today.

Alabama, favored by coaches and experts for the title, opens against Mississippi College in Tuscaloosa and Coach Wade hopes the game will be a breather.

Clemson, one of the greatly improved elevens in the field, opened a week ago against Newberry with a resounding victory and hopes to count heavily today against Davidson at Charlotte.

Atlanta Game Next Week.

The Mississippi Aggies, who help Georgia Tech open its season here a week hence, take a warm-up spin with Henderson-Brown at Starkeville. North Georgia, Tech's second opponent, opens with the traditional sparring partner, Wake Forest.

Duke, the infant member of the conference, is down at Macon to open with Mercer.

GORDEN BENNETT BALLOON CUP RACE WILL START TODAY

St. Louis, September 27.—(AP)—Ideal weather was forecast tonight for the start at 4 p. m. tomorrow of the 18th James Gordon Bennett international balloon race, one of the premier classics of aeronautics.

Nine bags bearing the colors of six nations will be unleashed at five-minute intervals from a specially prepared field on South Broadway. They will vie in the air currents for the third Gordon Bennett trophy, being placed in international competition for the first time this year by the air board of the Detroit board of commerce to replace the cup won permanently for the United States last year by Captain William E. Kepner, army pilot. A trophy must be won three years consecutively by one nation to become permanently in its possession.

Peacox Is Found Guilty of Murder In Second Degree

BY H. ALLEN SMITH.
United News Staff Correspondent.

White Plains, N. Y., September 27. Earl Francis Peacox, the fair-haired young radio technician who celebrated his first wedding anniversary by choking his wife, Dorothy, to death, must spend from 20 years to life in prison for his crime.

Peacox was convicted of second degree murder by a jury in Westchester county courthouse tonight. He was sentenced a few seconds after the verdict was announced.

The jurors filed into the packed courtroom just six and a quarter hours after the case had been placed in their hands. It was learned subsequently that they took only four ballots. At the outset, six of the jurors voted for first degree murder verdict.

The courtroom was so crowded that Justice Tompkins, when he arrived, couldn't get in. Somewhat irked, the gruff old judge ordered court attaches to eject about 150 spectators.

Peacox Is Pale.

Peacox, as pale as a phantom, was brought over from the jail. He took his place before the bench. His mother sat talking with a group of girls. As Peacox entered the courtroom he nodded slightly to her and she nodded back. Peacox bit his lip.

The jurors filed into the room and took their places in the box. The court clerk intoned the formal question. The jury foreman answered.

"What is it?" asked the clerk.

"Guilty—" said the foreman, Edward Rossmassler, and for some reason hesitated before completing the sentence. Peacox jerked nervously and started forward.

"—of murder in the second degree," finished Rossmassler.

Crowd Cheers.

The crowd cheered hilariously. Nobody knows what they were cheering for. Perhaps because Peacox had escaped death. Perhaps because Dolly Peacox's death was avenged.

Justice Tompkins pounded furiously for order. Court attendants dashed back and forth. Two women standing near one of the doors went into fits of hysteria. They were taken out of the room and order finally was restored.

In the hustle and bustle, a court officer had snatched Peacox away from his mother when he bent over to kiss her. The officer led him before Justice Tompkins and sentence was pronounced almost before the debonair young defendant knew what was going on.

Peacox was returned to his cell immediately after sentence had been pronounced. He will be taken to Sing Sing prison by automobile Monday morning.

The orations of counsel, for and against the pale young defendant, occupied the entire morning session and extended way into the afternoon. Justice Tompkins, deliberate and prolix in delivering his charge, laid down the law to the jurors. Then the bailiffs led the 12 men out of the courtroom.

Peacox sat with his head in his hands as the jurors paraded out of the room. His black-garbed mother, sitting directly behind him, toyed nervously with a plain white handkerchief in her lap. Her lips quivered ever so slightly as she scanned the faces of the retired liquor dealer, the building contractor, the silk manufacturer—who were going out now to write words on white slips of paper, and to haggle, perhaps, over her 22-year-old boy's life.

The case was given to the jury at 4:14 p. m.

VALUES OF STOCKS REDUCED MILLIONS

U. S. Steel Alone During Day's Decline Represents Loss of Over $50,000,000 in Capital Stock.

New York, September 27.—(AP)—A storm of selling orders, set in motion by the unexpectedly large increase of $192,000,000 in federal reserve brokers' loans, swirled through the securities markets of the country today, sent prices tumbling in spectacular fashion and wiped out billions of dollars in quoted values. Extreme declines in the active issues on the New York Stock Exchange ranged from $5 to $35 a share, with relatively little recovery from the day's low. Despite the severity of the reaction, total sales fell well below 5,000,000 shares.

The break came as the climax of a week of steadily declining prices, interspersed with rallies which generally prove abortive in character. In addition to such unfavorable credit developments as high call and time money rates, the increase in loans and the raising of the Bank of England discount rate from 5 1-2 to 6 1-2 per cent, with its threat of a withdrawal of foreign balances from New York. The market also has had to contend with such unfavorable trade news as a falling off in the output of steel and automobiles, regarded as two of the country's basic industries.

At their closing prices tonight many of the popular stocks were selling $40 a share or more below the year's high levels. These high records were established in several instances only a few weeks ago when there was every indication that the "bull" movement, which began just prior to the election of President Coolidge in 1924 and has continued, with few interruptions since that time, would carry over into the new year.

In the case of United States Steel alone, the day's decline represents a depreciation of more than $50,000,000 in the outstanding capital stock. Despite the severity of the decline, only about two score issues touched new low levels for the year, mostly in the motor and allied groups. The list included Chrysler, Studebaker, Goodyear Rubber, Goodrich, Indian Motorcycle, International Cement, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Baldwin Locomotive (new) and American Ship & Commerce.

WORST HURRICANE IN YEARS, MEAGER MESSAGES ASSERT

SWEEPING WINDS IMPERIL HAVANA

Cuba Eagerly Awaits News From Isolated Regions, Unheard From Since Tuesday.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Twenty persons were reported to have lost their lives at Nassau, Bahama's capital, in a tropical hurricane which lasted nearly three days and was described as "worse collectively than ever before."

Radio reports described how boats were crushed against the shores, houses wrecked, vegetation whipped into shreds, the city flooded and left in darkness by disrupted power facilities.

Several islands of the group, known to have been visited by the hurricane, still were isolated and fears mounted that the storm may have raked them furiously.

The 20 deaths were reported to the Miami Herald late tonight in a dispatch received here by the Tropical Radio station.

City Is In Darkness.

Nassau is flooded and in darkness, with telephones out of commission, the dispatch stated. The water system, however, remains intact.

Nassau's famous hotels were reported not to be damaged to any great extent. The dispatch ends with the statement, "We have had no communication with the outside world since Wednesday."

The seawall was broken in several places by the force of the wind-lashed sea, which also wrecked practically all small vessels anchored inside. Grantstown suffered severely with many houses unroofed and wrecked.

Other islands in the Bahama group have been silent.

The dispatch to Miami states "the poor suffered most at Nassau," and continued with, "vegetation is whipped to shreds and Nassau's famous ceiba tree is branchless. The governor's house is badly damaged as are all churches. The Baptist church on Shirley street is leveled with the cathedral the least damaged."

The dispatch, giving the first comprehensive news of the extent of the hurricane in the Bahama islands was filed by R. E. Murphy, representative of the Miami Herald at Nassau. Further reports from him were expected here momentarily.

An additional message received by the Tropical Radio company from Nassau stated that no news had been received in that city from the outer islands of the Bahama group, but

Danforth and McGill Cover Big Games Today

ED DANFORTH, Sports Editor of The Atlanta Constitution, is in Athens today to cover the Georgia-Oglethorpe game for readers of The Sunday Constitution. Georgia's untried eleven meets one of the strongest teams ever sent out from the little Peachtree road institution; Danforth will give you a vivid picture of the struggle that means so much to both these teams.

RALPH McGILL is in Nashville, where Vanderbilt meets Ole Miss in the first Conference game of the season. The fate of the rebuilt Commodore eleven hinges on the outcome of the clash with the greatly improved team from Mississippi. Vanderbilt alumni and football fans in general will be keen to read his colorful report of the game.

The Constitution, through the Associated Press, the United News and a corps of special correspondents, will watch every big game for you and report it fully.

Illness of Bride Halts Sisson-Morrison Wedding

:: ATTENDANTS WAIT IN VAIN AT CHURCH ::

Memphis, Tenn., September 27.—(AP)—While attendants awaited her arrival at the church for a high noon wedding, Miss Mary Nelson Sisson, Winona, Miss., was stricken seriously ill here today. She is the daughter of the late T. U. Sisson, Mississippi congressman. She was to have married Theodore Morrison, Atlanta.

The wedding will be held as soon as she recovers, relatives said. She was stricken 15 minutes before the hour for the ceremony.

Both Mr. Morrison and Miss Sisson are well known in Atlanta. Mr. Morrison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Morrison, of this city. He received his B. A. and M. A. degrees from Oglethorpe university and his LL.B. from Emory university. He is now engaged in the practice of law.

Miss Sisson is the daughter of the late Congressman and Mrs. T. U. Sisson and granddaughter of the late Captain J. C. Purnell, of Winona, Miss., and is very popular socially. She attended Agnes Scott in Atlanta and graduated from that institution last May.

The ceremony originally was set for October 16, and Dr. Bryan K. Vann, of Atlanta, was to have been Mr. Morrison's attendant. When the ceremony was moved up Dr. Vann could not be present and the groom's father took his place.

The young couple had planned to spend a honeymoon in New York and other cities and then to return to Atlanta to make their home.

DURKEE'S Salad Dressing

Its spicy sparkle adds new and keener relish to salads and meats.

Durkee's is a complete salad dressing of the mayonnaise type, full-flavored and appetizing. Many prefer it just as it comes from the bottle. Men who cannot be coaxed to touch salad with ordinary dressing, relish the savory zest of Durkee's.

BUS REGULATIONS ARE AGREED ON BY SERVICE BODY

A tentative agreement between members of the Georgia Public Service commission has been reached as to the rules and regulations which will govern motor bus operations.

The busses come under the jurisdiction of the commission on October 1. The commission has been in executive session the last several days formulating the rules, which Friday were being placed in typewritten form.

PLEA THAT HE SOLD LIQUOR FOR 'IN-LAW' WINS MAN'S LIBERTY

"Yassuh, judge, I sold the whisky but I did it for my mother-in-law."

Thus did James Swinney answer charges of violating the prohibition law when arraigned Friday before United States Commissioner Griffith. Judge Griffith was so impressed with the straightforward testimony of the defendant that he was allowed liberty on his own bond.

Blood Transfusion Bureau at Emory Begins Second Year

A unique organization, the Emory University Blood Transfusion Bureau, has just started on its second year of activity.

The bureau, working in connection with Wesley Memorial hospital, furnishes blood for any patient who may be in need of a transfusion. Since its organization last year it has supplied blood in 108 cases. In 16 instances the blood has been given free, while in all other cases the donors have received compensation.

All of the blood givers on the list at Wesley Memorial, 40 in number, are Emory university students, and most of them are boys who are working their way through school. The list of these students is on file at the hospital at all times, day and night, and the boys enrolled stand ready to answer a call at any time. Although the transfusion bureau has its headquarters at Wesley Memorial hospital, all the hospitals in the city have availed themselves of the service.

Tender Vegetables

IN the vast Stokely vegetable gardens, trained overseers watch the crop with practiced eye. Almost to the hour, they know when the different varieties are just exactly right for picking—full flavored, tender.

Then the word is given; the picking begins. A quick haul to one of Stokely's canneries and, presto, within an hour from the time it was on the vine, this particular Stokely vegetable may be packed and on its way to you. No time to toughen up. No time to dry out. No premature picking possible. Naturally, Stokely's vegetables offer the utmost in tenderness and freshness of flavor.

Better still, they are canned under the Stokely packing method assuring the retention of most of the vitamin value that is lost when fresh vegetables are cooked at home by the open vessel method.

Ask your grocer for any of these Stokely products.

SAM AIKEN'S FATE WILL BE DECIDED BY SUPREME COURT

A bill of exceptions and writ of error to carry the case of Sam F. Aiken, who was convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of his wife, to the state supreme court was served on Solicitor-General John A. Boykin Friday. Aiken's trial and conviction occurred in July. Judge John D. Humphries signed the bill of exceptions. The appeal will be heard during the October term of supreme court. Attorneys Claud Brackett, of Atlanta, and J. R. Hutcheson, of Douglasville, represent Aiken.

38-YEAR-OLD DEED IS HELD VALUELESS BY SUPREME COURT

Thirty-eight years ago, on June 28, 1891, Seaborn Rainey executed a deed of gift to his son Cleveland, then 1 year old, conveying to him a farm in Telfair county.

The old conveyance was forgotten and later another chain of title, conveying the property to others, came into existence. The last owner is T. G. Whatley.

Then Cleveland Rainey discovered the old deed. He moved onto the farm and claimed possession.

But the Georgia supreme court Friday refused to confirm his claim. Where others have held title through a claim having the color of right, as in the present case, the real owner loses his land after seven years, it held.

W. A. Sutton Declares Vaccination Is Cure For Whooping Cough

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, announced Friday that vaccination has proven a cure for whooping cough, and added that investigations have shown that a child recovers from the malady more quickly when moved from the room in which it slept during the first stages of the disease.

There has not been a case of smallpox in the Atlanta schools for 29 years, he said in referring to the general health of students of the local system.

JAMES C. TYLER DIES IN SAVANNAH; LAST RITES TODAY

James C. Tyler, 41, of 145 Woodland avenue, was found dead Friday morning in a Savannah hotel. Death was attributed to natural causes at a coroner's inquest.

Surviving Mr. Tyler, in addition to his wife, formerly Miss Madye Forrester, of Leesburg, is a son, Redmond. Mr. Tyler was born in Perry, S. C., and for the past six years resided in Atlanta with his family. He was southeastern representative of the Ford Flour mills, of Nashville, Tenn.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Wagener, S. C.

Shipbuilders and Experts Of U. S. Navy To Follow Shearer Before Probers

Those Who Fail To Come Forward Voluntarily Will Be Summoned by Committee.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, September 27.—(AP)—Awaiting the story from William B. Shearer of his activities at the 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference as the $25,000 representative of American shipbuilders, the senate naval investigating committee today put the shipbuilders and American naval experts to that conference on notice to be ready to follow him.

Credited by some of the foreign press as the man who broke up the Geneva parley, Shearer has promised to tell the committee on Monday about his work for the firms he is now suing for an additional $250,000 he alleges is due him for the Geneva job.

The committee expects to receive a request for a hearing by the naval experts on the staff of the American delegation to Geneva, who were named yesterday as associates of Shearer during that conference by Drew Pearson, newspaper reporter at the Geneva meeting.

If those named do not come forward to answer, the committee will call them. Rear Admiral J. M. Reeves was singled out by Pearson as one of the experts he heard openly express the hope that the conference would not succeed. He said Reeves associated frequently with Shearer.

Meanwhile, the senate investigators also are preparing to look into the past record of Shearer and into his activities in Washington with the shipping board, to which the shipbuilders said they sent him late in 1926 "to co-operate" in formulating a merchant marine campaign.

Pearson yesterday told the committee that Albin E. Johnson, Geneva correspondent for the New York World, showed him a document purporting to be a Scotland Yard record of Shearer. Later, he said, Shearer told him of taking the document away from Johnson in his hotel room at Geneva.

MORRIS AND HUCK TO SPEAK SUNDAY AT LOCAL CHURCH

Dr. S. L. Morris, executive secretary of the Presbyterian general assembly's home mission committee, and Dr. William Huck, executive secretary of the Atlanta Presbytery, will participate in the special religious program planned for Sunday by the Oakhurst Presbyterian church, in observance of the first anniversary of the church's new structure on East Lake drive and Second avenue.

Dr. Morris, who is widely known in church circles for his mission activities, will speak at the morning services. Dr. Huck will talk at the evening services which begin at 8 o'clock.

The scripture lesson will be read and prayer offered by Dr. J. B. Ficklen, head of the home mission work of the synod of Georgia. Special music for the night services has been arranged for the choir under direction of George R. Rusk. The program will include selections by the Electrical Workers' quartet.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY

Program Arranged at North Ave. Presbyterian.

An interesting program has been arranged for Sunday school rally day, to be observed Sunday at North Avenue Presbyterian church. The exercises will begin at 9:30 o'clock and last until 12 noon, with youngsters and adults participating in the varied program.

RADIO WEATHER DATA FOR AIR TOUR PLANNED

Elaborate System Will Give Ford Pilots Prompt Information.

Detroit, September 27.—(Special)—The United States weathr bureau has planned an elaborate network system for informing pilots on the 1929 Ford reliability tour of weather conditions before them on each of the 34 legs of the tour, Norman B. Conger, senior meteorologist of the bureau, announced today. The tour starts here October 5.

The plan will be the most comprehensive one ever attempted by the bureau, Conger said, and Clarence G. Andrus, in charge at the Cleveland municipal airport weather bureau, will accompany the tour in an airplane especially fitted with radio. At all times, Andrus will be able to listen in on ground and aerial weather reports of the Washington, Cleveland and Chicago stations. Special bulletins will be broadcast on regular schedules covering the portion of the country at which the tour may be.

Charles F. Marvin, chief of the bureau, at Washington, is directing genius of the plan and experience gained on the four previous national air tours has enabled him to plan more completely to take care of the needs of this year's aerial journey from Detroit.

Andrus' plane is a new tri-motor Wasp Ford, owned by the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

EVANGELIST URGES WOMEN TO DEVOTE LIVES TO CHRIST

More than 100 mothers and daughters knelt in prayer around the altar of Wesley Memorial church tonight to dedicate themselves to Christian service after a powerful sermon in which Dr. Norman Lovein reviewed the service which he said Christ has rendered to the women of the world.

Dr. Lovein contrasted the condition of women in Christian America and Europe with that of their sex in Mohammedan, Buddhist and other lands where they are still held legally and socially as the personal property of their men, except in a few places where the influence of Christian nations has recently forced partial liberation.

The evangelist closed his sermon with an appeal to women to show their appreciation for the service Christ has rendered them by devoting their lives to serving Him, and women and girls of all ages, mothers with daughters, and many who came alone, responded, streaming down the aisles to kneel at the altar rail.

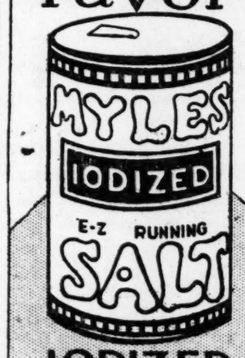

The evangelist will close his campaign here, which opened two weeks ago under auspices of the Epworth League Union, with three services Sunday, including one at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At that hour, it was announced by Dr. L. Wilkie Collins, pastor, Dr. Lovein will preach on "The Suburbs of Sodom."

DOUGHNUT EATING RECORD CLAIMED BY ATLANTA NEGRO

It developed in Recorder A. W. Callaway's court Friday afternoon that an Atlanta negro, Jones Brown, 20, is a doughnut muncher of note.

According to the testimony, Brown picked up two dozen doughnuts Thursday morning in front of a store at the corner of Hunter and Forsyth streets, which had just been delivered there. Patrolmen W. W. Weekes and W. H. Grant saw the negro leave the store. Five minutes later they overtook him, but the sack was minus 18 doughnuts, and Brown was eating when the chase ended. He was fined $26 by Recorder Callaway.

Georgia Fiddlers Gather To Fight for 1929 Title

"The next tune on the program," announced Prof. Aleck Smart, master of ceremonies, "will be 'Gray Hoss in the New Ground,' played by William Dobbs, of Towns county. All right, Bill, haven't you got that fiddle tuned yet?"

It was the opening session of the Georgia Old Time Fiddlers' Association, in its fifteenth annual convention at the auditorium Friday night. Professor Smart had laid aside the silk hat which he has worn since Cleveland's first inauguration, but his jim-swinger coat, his throat-cutting collar and the striped pants which failed to connect with his shoe tops by some three inches, were as familiar as Fiddlin' John Carson's voice. If the professor could be transferred to the vaudeville stage—but he is so much the real thing that he wouldn't get by!

The auditorium stage is big enough for the grand triumphal scene in "Aida," but it was hardly large enough to seat all the fiddlers and banjo players and guitar pickers who had assembled here.

Four Georgia fiddling champions, past and present, were there Friday night, and will fight it out again tonight. There was Gid Tanner, of Dacula, the red-faced boy who now holds the title, and whose phonograph records are known throughout the nation. There was Fiddlin' John, himself, just home from a record-making trip to the east; A. A. Gray, of Tallapoosa, and Earl Johnson, of Atlanta, all past champions and aspirants for the 1929 title. And besides these stars of the fiddling firmament were a score or more of newcomers, each a local celebrity, determined to win the medal or make the oldtimers strut their best stuff.

More than a thousand men, women and children took a chance on the treacherous weather to hear the fiddlers, and twice that number are expected for the championship match tonight. It is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, and will be followed by a country dance, with Ed Watkins, of Ellijay, calling the figures, and the Lick Skillet String Band, of Gainesville, providing the music.

A special session at 2 o'clock this afternoon, has beeen arranged for the old folk and children who rarely venture forth at night. Veterans of the Old Soldiers' Home will be guests of the association.

ATLANTA MAN KILLED FIGHTING POLICEMAN

Cincinnati, Ohio, September 27.—(Special.)—A man identified as Edward Moorehart, 26, reecently of Atlanta, Ga., arrested as he was leaving the store of the Kroger Grocery & Baking company early today was killed during a struggle with Patrolman Wayne Monroe, 25, according to Hugh C. Smith, proprietor of a garage. Moorehart had worked for him as an extra automobile mechanic at various times during the past year. Smith said he came here from Georgia.

As Patrolman Monroe passed the store, he saw a glass in the door broken, and then he said he saw Moorehart come out carrying cigarettes and some groceries and a bottle of milk. Moosehart threw the milk at the officer and ran, but was caught. While being taken to a police call-box, he suddenly knocked Monroe to the ground, the officer said.

During the struggle on the ground, Monroe attempted to draw his pistol, which Moorehart also tried to get. As each fought for possession of the weapon, it was discharged, the shot missing both.

MOCK MARRIAGE CHARGE IS LAID TO COLUMBUS MAN

Columbus, Ga., September 27.—(AP) Charley Hubbard, 25, was held to the Muscogee county grand jury today by the municipal court on a statutory offense which involved an alleged mock marriage. He was released on bond of $500.

The complaint against Hubbard was made by A. T. Smith, father of the girl implicated. The girl testified at today's hearing that Hubbard took her to Opelika, Ala., last February and they went through with a ceremony she said she then believed was a marriage rite. After the ceremony they returned to Columbus and lived in a local rooming house.

Hubbard denied the charges.

BOOTLEGGER WINS LIBERTY BUT LOSES AUTO AND LIQUOR

The fleetness of a bootlegger won him freedom Friday afternoon in the Capitol View section, although his dash for liberty lost him 77 gallons of corn whisky and his automobile.

Captain Oliver and Officers Wells, Neal, Hornsby and Camp chased the bootlegger all over the neighborhood, through backyards, over fences and through briars, but eventually lost the trail.

EUGENE R. BLACK IS HONOR GUEST OF THIRTY CLUB

Eugene R. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve bank, was an honor guest at a regular monthly dinner meeting of the College Park Thirty club at 7:30 o'clock Friday night in the auditorium of the Woman's Club building. A large crowd heard Mr. Black talk on his recent trip to England and the continent.

MAN IS ARRESTED AND 46 GALLONS OF LIQUOR SEIZED

H. G. Henderson, of Orange, Ga., was arrested late Friday night on Peachtree road by County Patrolmen Webb and Patrick in alleged possession of 46 gallons of whisky. Henderson is being held in Fulton Tower for $500 bond.

Sacred Harp Singers To Entertain Sunday At Old Soldiers' Home

Major B. F. White's sacred harp singing class has accepted an invitation to sing at the old soldiers' home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Governor Trumbull Unable To Attend Georgia-Yale Game

Governor John Trumbull, of Connecticut, father-in-law of John Coolidge, will not attend the governors' day event at the Southeastern fair, nor will he be present at the Georgia-Yale game when the large new stadium of the university is dedicated, he informed Mayor I. N. Ragsdale today.

The governor declared it would be impossible for him to make the trip south as he had planned.

Fire calls for Thursday as recorded at department headquarters follow:

11:18 A. M.—919 Drewry street, N. E.; residence, caused by trash in furnace pipe; very small damage; Companies 12 and 19.

6:32 P. M.—345 Courtland street; residence, caused by "smoking in bed;" small damage; Companies 4, 6 and 8.

More Showers To Fall Today, Forecast Says

While local meteorological conditions have taken a turn for the better, chances for occasional showers today are fairly good, according to the official forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, local weather bureau chief, who stated Friday that as long as the tropical disturbance remained in the vicinity of Florida little relief would be forthcoming for this vicinity.

"The situation does seem to be clarifying to some extent," he declared, "but we are still forced to predict more rain for tomorrow."

Reports from Augusta Friday told of nearly seven inches of rainfall there in a 24-hour period, with the prospect of record flood conditions prevailing on the Savannah river. The local bureau is of the belief that high water will be confined to the southeastern part of the state and no dangerous rise is anticipated in the Flint and Chattahoochee.

Temperature Friday ranged from 68 up to 75 and similar extremes are expected to be registered today.

With the rainfall total for the current year approximating 56 inches, Mr. von Herrmann is of the opinion that the all-time record of 65 inches is in danger of being broken before the advent of 1930. Normal rainfall for the remaining three months of this year will do the trick, he pointed out Friday, despite the fact that near drought conditions prevailed here for weeks.

ATLANTAN FREED ON ROBBERY BILL AT DOUGLASVILLE

Douglasville, Ga., September 27.—(Special)—Jesse Gunn, of Atlanta, was acquitted on a charge of robbery in Douglas county superior court here today after Foster Day, Alpharetta, alleged companion of Gunn's, yesterday was found guilty of the robbery of a filling station operator near here several months ago.

Day was sentenced to serve from four to six years in prison, for the holdup and robbery of $6 from Harold Landrum, gas station proprietor.

Life Imprisonment Sentence Affirmed By Supreme Court

The Georgia supreme court Friday affirmed a decfsion of the superior court of Clark county sentencing Robert Willingham, negro, to life imprisonment for the murder of his wife.

Willingham contended that some of the jurors had expressed unwillingness to convict on circumstantial evidence, yet had concurred in the verdict against him. He also claimed that his wife was accidentally killed in a struggle over a gun.

$3,000 FUND NEEDED FOR FORD TOUR VISIT

Chairman Walter T. Candler Issues Appeal for Contributions.

With $3,000 needed to take care of the expenses connected with the entertainment of the members of the Ford Reliability tour which arrives at Candler Field, October 12, for a two-day visit, Walter T. Candler, chairman of the tour committee of the local N. A. A. chapter, issued an appeal Friday for public-spirited citizens of Atlanta to contribute to this fund. Checks should be sent to Mr. Candler at 20 Houston street.

The statement was issued following a meeting of the tour committee Friday afternoon. He explained that $1,000 already had been donated to provide for Atlanta's contribution to the general prize fund, this amount being posted with tour officials. The money was given by four Atlanta banks, the Atlanta and Lowry, Fourth National, Citizens and Southern and Fulton National; by Atlanta Ford dealers, C. E. Freeman, Robert Ingram, Ernest Beaudry, Fulenwider Motor company and Grant-Harris-Rippey, and Harold Pitcairn, airplane manufacturer.

"We have just learned that there will be 50 planes in the tour," Mr. Candler stated, "which means that we must entertain more than 100 people from the time of their arrival, Saturday, October 12, until the following Monday morning. Rooms for about half this number have been generously donated by several Atlanta hotels and the Atlanta Athletic club. The hotels are the Biltmore, Henry Grady, Piedmont, Imperial, Ansley, Robert Fulton and Aragon. All the members of the tour, however, have to be provided with meals during their stay here. We have carefully estimated our budget and estimate that $3,000 will be required to accommodate the visitors adequately. It is my hope that when this condition becomes known, the people of Atlanta, realizing the magnitude and importance of this project, will contribute the necessary funds."

The tour committee has been working for weeks in preparation of the countless details connected with the visit here and have largely succeeded in perfecting plans for the event. The program at present, calls for a buffet supper the night of October 12 at the Atlanta Athletic club and any additional entertainment which may be provided. Sunday will be largely devoted to stunt flying at Candler field, when some of the most noted flyers in the country will demonstrate the latest developments in aircraft.

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs Will Preach Sunday At Peachtree Christian

"Can a Christian believe in evolution?" is the question that Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, will discuss in the tenth of the series of sermons by outstanding ministers at the Peachtree Christian church Sunday morning. The service begins at 11 o'clock.

The question will be linked with the subject which Dr. Jacobs has taken, "What Science Has Done for the Kingdom of God." Dr. Jacobs will take this occasion to review the various advances in the different branches of science, and will illustrate how mankind has enlightened religion and how religion sanctifies science.

"Underlying the basic structure of the progress of the sciences there is the process of change or evolution," Dr. Jacobs said. "The facts of evolution have led into a theory of evolution which has ripped open wide chasms in the beliefs of the people of the country. Especially around Atlanta during the past few years there has been considerable discussion as to the theory of evolution and religion."

The general public is cordially invited to hear Dr. Jacobs. By special arrangement he has also promised to preach on Sunday, October 6.

DR. MYERS TO PREACH

St. Philip's To Hear Sewanee Faculty Member.

Dr. George Myers, head of the department of religious philosophy of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., will fill the pulpit at St. Philip's cathedral at 11 o'clock Sunday. Dr. Myers is honorary canon of St. Philip's.

During his stay in Atlanta, Dr. Myers will be the guest of Dr. G. H. Noble, senior warden of the cathedral.

Mail schedules again suffered heavily at the hands of the elements Friday. The southbound mail plane from New York came as far as Spartanburg, the cargo being shifted to a train at that point. The New Orleans plane was held at Birmingham while the Jacksonville mail was brought in by auto from Macon.

Lieutenant W. B. McCoy, former commandant at Maxwell field, Montgomery, who was here a week or so ago to demonstrate the aerial capabilities of the fleet, product of the Fleet Aircraft Corporation, returned to Candler field Friday afternoon in the trim little biplane. He came over from Montgomery and is planning to spend four or five days here. The chances are that Sunday visitors to the airport will see several Atlanta pilots put the fleet through its paces. The Fleet, essentially a training ship, though also widely in use by private fliers, is extremely maneuverable and is said to possess exceptional stability.

The American Eagle biplane of the Southern Air Express, with L. G. Mason at the controls, arrived on schedule Friday afternoon and will depart this morning. Beginning next week, a new "winter" schedule will be put into operation by the company, which is affiliated with the Montgomery School of Aeronautics. Passenger planes formerly left Montgomery at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, arriving here at 5 o'clock and departing the next morning. Hereafter the planes will leave Montgomery at 8 o'clock in the morning, arriving here at 10 o'clock and return at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. And in the future the weekly trips will be made on Thursday instead of Friday, as now called for by the schedule.

Johnny Gill, pilot for T. A. T., will take off this morning in the company's J-6 Travel Air, a six-place monoplane, for Augusta, where he will pick up a party of marooned Augustans and bring them back to Atlanta with him. With transportatain cut off by flood conditions in the Augusta area, the airplane provided the only possible means of covering the distance between the two cities. Incidentally, this probably will be Gill's final gesture as a member of the T. A. T. staff at Candler field. He has been transferred to New Orleans to fly the mail between Atlanta and New Orelans and Houston and will report to his new headquarters Sunday, taking up his mail-flying duties on October 1.

The "Sky Fleet" of the General Tire and Rubber Company, which was scheduled to arrive at Candler field Friday afternoon, has been detained at Miami because of rainstorms and high winds, it was reported here yesterday. The squadron of eight General monoplanes is scheduled to land here Monday or possibly Sunday, if weather conditions are clarified enough by that time.

Beeler Blevins, head of the Beeler Blevens School of Aviation and widely known Atlanta pilot, and Jesse Draper, president of the Atlanta chapter of the National Aeronautic Association, were principal speakers Friday noon at the luncheon of the Atlanta post of the American Legion. The "Aviation Luncheon" of the post was in charge of D. Mackay Solenberger.

The initials "T. A. T.," which have become synonymous with air transportation throughout the south as the abbreviated form of T. A. T. Flying Service, Inc., which has been operating passenger lines for a year under that name, have been abandoned by Southern Air Transport, Inc., a part of the Aviation Corporation. So as to conform to the name Southern Air Transport, and because the flying service now operates in many states besides Texas, the name of the division has been changed to S. A. T. Flying Service.

"While no regular passenger lines are now operated outside of Texas, sight-seeing tours and taxi trips are made from all division points in the system by the flying service, and it also handles express over the Gulf Coast Airways mail line from Houston through New Orleans, Birmingham, and Mobile to Atlanta," explained C. R. Smith, vice president of Southern Air Transport, which is the second largest subsidiary of the Aviation Corporation.

INTERNES REMAIN AT WORK DESPITE THREAT TO QUIT

With no action nor formal statement fortheoming Friday and their final decision expected today, the threatened walkout of eleven junior internes attached to the main unit of Grady hospital was reported shortly before midnight "as still hanging in the balance."

The young doctors Wednesday in an ultimatum to Superintendent Steve R. Johnston warned him that they would strike "within 24 hours" if food served in the dining hall of the institution did not improve "immediately and permanently," but since that they have declined to discuss the situation—other than at a conference with the superintendent and hospital executive committee Thursday afternoon.

The committee characterized "their action in going to the press before appealing to the proper althorities as being in bad taste and as reflecting unfavorably on the hospital."

STREETS BARRED YOUNG FOOTBALL PLAYERS BY POOLE

Youthful football devotees who are accustomed to playing in Atlanta streets in the future will have to confine their gridiron activities to sandlots and backyards, it was announced Friday by Acting Chief of Police A. Lamar Poole.

"The practice is an exceedingly dangerous one, because of passing automobiles," the chief pointed out, "and the kids must find safer places than the streets to develop their athletic proclivities."

A WISE STEP FORWARD

The action of the sewer committee of council and of the bond commission in unanimously recommending the employment of a nationally-known sewage and sanitary engineer to devise an adequate sewer system for the future needs of the city is highly commendable.

The health and comfort of the citizens of the entire Atlanta area demand that this essential municipal betterment shall be carried forward without delay. It means safety to the health and lives of the inhabitants, a wise economic policy and the stabilizing of the advantages of the city for residence and the activities of modern life.

Having invested $400,000 in the making of topographical maps of the city and its environs, the next step to make those maps worth the money is to submit them, with the actual sewer system necessity of the city to the study of an unquestionable expert sanitary engineer that he may work out a scientific and sufficing system for the needs of the future city and its expansions. Otherwise the $400,000 maps will represent a foolish waste of money.

There is no more important municipal function than the keeping of clean and healthful conditions for the people. Home life, social intercourse, school comfort and safety, and business operations all depend vitally upon the proper and plenary out-carriage and disposal of the sewage of the city.

It must be taken for granted that council will promptly allocate the $25,000 asked for from the existing sewer bond issue balance, as an act of wise economy and business good sense. It will mean the insurance of a comprehensive expert study of the sanitary problem and the saving of great sums of money expended upon patching a manifestly insufficient system.

The repairing of emergency breakage is proper enough, but every dollar expended with the idea of trying to make present sewers do the work imposed upon them will be inexcusable waste and increase the fears and complaints of the people.

The council will doubtless show the old Atlanta spirit of doing promptly and doing well what ought to be done—and the efficient and adequate sewering of the city is emphatically what ought to be done.

Fortunately this all-important survey can be made without interference with the city's current budget, the bond commission having the money in hand, which it is authorized to allot for this and no other purpose than the development of the city's sewerage system.

GAMBLING FOR LAMBS' WOOL.

On the stock exchange floor in New York one day this week a billion dollars are estimated to have been mopped up by the speculative traders of that institution and a few of their bear-minded patrons. Actual values of stocks probably remained unaffected, but the ticker figures manipulated by the gamblers indicated an enormous loss to the lambs from all over the country who had taken their golden fleece into the wheel-of-fortune market.

The sensational drop in speculative prices meant little, doubtless, to the professional operators in Wall street, but it certainly means tremendous actual money losses to many thousands of greedy amateur speculators in the Main streets of the nation from coast to coast.

Local bank deposits have been stripped for many months by their owners to be bet on stocks in the brokers' offices of New York. Reading the daily quotations of booming stocks and believing the predictions of market boosters that prices "can't go down," millions of money have been taken out of savings and trade channels to swell the tides of speculation in Wall street shops.

The spectacular gyrations of the stock market supply another strong argument for the enactment of federal legislation to supervise and regulate the marketing of stock issues. Whether the bill proposed by Senator Glass, of Virginia, to heavily tax the transfer by assumed sale of stocks not held by the seller for at least 60 days prior to the ostensible sale, is the right method of stopping the orgies of gambling on the stock exchanges, cannot now be affirmed or denied.

But there ought to be in the congress of the nation sufficient financial common sense and legislative skill to devise a potential cure for the evils of stock gambling. The common view that "a fool and his money are soon parted" and nobody should interfere with a fool's throwing his money to be consumed in the fierce fires of speculation, is not the wise view of the situation.

Great economic interests of the people are deranged and necessary current capital depleted by such a stock gambling as has enveloped the nation for more than a year past. Legitimate industrial expansion, needed construction work, and fluid funds for trade necessities are all seriously affected by such financial gambling and a way must be found to stop it.

THE LADY AND THE BOSS.

Out in Illinois next year the republicans are going to have a peach of a primary fight over a United States senatorship. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of former Senator Mark Hanna and widow of former Senator Medill McCormick, and now congresswoman-at-large from Illinois, has announced that she will contest with Senator Deneen, titular boss of the Sucker republicans, to take his seat from him.

Down here in Georgia such a situation would look funny, but it is serious business among the Illini; for in the great state of Douglas, Lincoln and Lyman Trumbull they have strongly bi-sexual politics. Only last year Mrs. McCormick went out for congress-at-large and smeared the commonwealth landscape with the ballot-riddled political remains of several formidable opponents.

The poetic justice that looms in the forthcoming fight between the lady and the boss is that she may clean up over the man who defeated her husband for re-election to the senate in 1923. That rankling urge is likely to put a lot of Greek fire in her heart and add unusual fireworks to her campaign. Millions of persons in all parties and all over the Union will follow with interest her efforts to get revenge and recoup the family jewel—a national senatorship.

We have Colonel Lindbergh and John Coolidge duly married and if the Prince of Wales would choose a wife the world would begin to take up other important matters.

ATTENTION BANKERS, NERVE SPECIALISTS AND INSPECTORS GENERAL.

The main question is, not how to live without doing any honest work, for you, sirs, have demonstrated beyond peradventure of doubt that it can be done, provided one has the necessary wits. The main question is how to live long in your racket. That that is something else again. If you can give this matter your undivided attention for five minutes maybe you will learn how to attain a reasonable longevity, or at least as much as any fair-minded person could wish for a member of your guild. This is asking a good deal of one of your ponderous dignity, I quite agree, yet it is the only hope I can hold out for you, and perhaps it would be just as well, if you find you can't give anything undivided attention for five minutes at a stretch, that you gather the voluminous folds of your cloak about you and strut on along the way you are headed.

Inspired, I suppose, by the principle of easy come easy go, a Michigan banker asks how I regard the "stimulators" that are being so widely sold to gullible folk (the banker didn't word it just as I do, but it means the same thing). He asked whether I believe the gadgets really produce the results claimed for them, and finally, would I recommend the use of one by a gent who spend nearly all of his time whirling in a swivel chair. (My language but the banker's idea.)

Sometimes I get all fussed up over a trick certain bankers indulge in. They permit disreputable quacks or mail order medicine firms to use the name of the bank as reference, and in some instances the bank actually prepares a letter which the shyster uses with great effect on the huge sucker population in the U. S. A. What makes me hot around the clavicle is the way some of these bankers have the cheek to turn from this shady business to the canvassing of honest people's patronage.

So, when a banker asks me to tip him off about a proposition such as the "stimulator," my first impulse is to urge him to take it up—it would be only fair tribution. But a doctor is not a judge. No matter how a sufferer may have gotten that way, it is the doctor's sacred duty to help him or to show him the way out of the difficulty if possible.

Instead of taxing the banker with his sins, therefore, I simply tell him that in my judgment the amusing machine he contemplates buying is as desirable, as equipment for a valetudinarian, as an apparatus for turning out the latest style of greenbacks would be for a struggling young banker. But my duty does not end there. I must avail myself of the opportunity to appeal to this banker in quest of better health to do something about it instead of sitting ther whirling and smiling and waiting for something to be done for him. I even present him a complimentary ticket to the somersaultaquna, together with a copy of the "Tips to Timid Turners"—which I regret to say, is not a booklet and hence will probably not appeal to the average up-to-date banker. If by any chance the poor dumb banker gets the happy inspiration and tries out morning rolls for a short probationary period, all free of charge and without any obligation, he not only ceases the lazy, futile yearning for some passive "stimulator" or a mechanical horse or near massage machine to stir him from his lethargy, but perhaps acquires a new outlook on life or at least a more wholesome philosophy, and that, I believe, will awaken in his soul a healthy contempt for some of the sorry practices indicated.

Sermons To Live By

BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMPSEY.

Text: "For me to live is Christ." Phil. 1:21.

This is perhaps the best expression of entire consecration anywhere found within the lids of the Bible.

For this reason, it has become one of the commonplaces of Christian testimony.

There is a song being sung by our young people that gives vital expression to this spirit of a complete dedication to Christ. There are five stanzas and each speaks of some phase of entire surrender to God: Youth, mind, heart, will—all, are laid upon God's altar

"Our youth to Thee we bring,
O gracious Saviour, King:
Guide Thou our feet.
Then all the coming years
Shall know no dismal fears;
And though it brings its tears,
Life will be sweet.

Our minds to Thee we bring,
O glorious Christ, our King,
Help us to learn
The truth that makes men free,
The truth that leads to Thee,
The truth that is to be,
For which we yearn.

Our hearts to Thee we bring;
O loving Jesus, King,
To crown Thee there.
Beside Thy blood-stained cross
Life's pleasures turn to dross,
We, too, would know the loss
That love must share.

Our wills to Thee we bring,
O mighty Christ, our King,
To truly make them Thine.
We dare not choose our way
Lest we should miss the day.
O hear each as we pray,
"Thy will be mine."

Thus all to Thee we bring.
O conquering Christ, our King.
For service true.
We would help Thee to win.
Our world from blight of sin,
Made strong without, within,
Thy will to do.

RUSSIAN FLIERS LAND IN ALASKA ON WORLD HOP

Seward, Alaska, September 27.—(AP)—The Russian plane, Land of the Soviets, landed here at 3:42 p. m. today.

The Russians took off at 9:30 a. m. today from Dutch Harbor, 700 miles west of Seward. The landing at Seward was their first contact with the Alaskan mainland and their third landing on Alaskan soil.

The flight today from Dutch Harbor to Seward was the last the aviators will have to make over extended areas of water.

BANK OF WALDO, FLORIDA, REOPENS; CLOSED RECENTLY

Tallahassee, Fla., September 27.—(AP)—The Bank of Waldo, Fla., which closed during the temporary financial depression of a few weeks ago, reopened its doors today, the comptroller announced.

Plans for "freezing" deposits for the reopening under provisions of the last state banking act were confirmed by Circuit Judge A. V. Long, at Bronson, two days ago.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Valued Memories of Two Fine Tennesseans Who Have Just "Gone West."

Two notable Tennesseeans died during the past week whose passing on brought to me acute personal grief.

Each occasion when an old and valued friend yields his mortal tenure, his body returning to the earth from which it was taken and his spirit returning to the Father Who gave it, my loneliness among the sons of men grows greater. Large as is my acquaintance among the living I yet have a far greater company of familiar spirits who are on "the other side." Now these two are there also.

The first of them who went was Captain DeLong Rice, superintendent of Shiloh battlefield park and cemetery. In younger years he was the secretary and fidus Achates of Governor and Senator Bob Taylor, the famous fiddler-statesman and orator of the Volunteer state. He piloted that fascinating person in his lecture tours over the nation and then was his standby in his political campaigns for the governorship and the senatorship. Loyal to the core and of ready wit and genius himself, Captain Rice became a state official, the owner of a national lecture bureau and finally the superintendent of the Shiloh battlefield reservations of the nation. He was in every way a fine friend and admirable citizen.

* * * *

How Bob Taylor Came to Lecture.

The story has never been publicly told of how the famous Tennesseean, ex-congressman and ex-governor, came to go upon the platform as a public lyceum and chautauqua attraction.

He retired from his first term as governor financially broke. He located in Chattanooga and set out his shingle as a lawyer, but clients did not flock to his office so that you could see them. Bob was decidedly in the doldrums.

One day he was standing on the sidewalk in front of his office-stairway showing a downcast aspect when Sam Jones, our great Georgia evangelist, walked up and greeted him cordially. Sam and Bob had had several ripping tilts at Nashville, Sam criticizing hotly from the pulpit some of the governor's acts and Bob handing him back some hot bricks in return. Yet they were jovially good personal friends and mutual admirers.

"Bob, how are you getting on?" queried Sam.

And Bob frankly confessed that he was in a bad way; in fact, he said he was then expecting a court officer to come and seize his office furniture and law books with a rent distress warrant.

Sam said: "Bob, if you'll do what I tell you to do, I'll get you out of that hole and put you to walking on velvet."

"What must I do?" inquired the astonished ex-governor.

"Let me put you on the lecture platform and your fortune will be ready-made for you," replied Sam.

Didn't Think It Would Work.

The governor balked at the proposition. He said he knew how to make a political stump speech well enough and get away with a little after-dinner talk, but to go upon a platform to deliver a formal lecture to a big audience of strange people—"I couldn't make it work," he protested.

But Sam Jones was insistent. He told Bob to go up home in east Tennessee and put all the good ideas and eloquence he could conjure up into a lecture, and then report to him when it was finished and ready to be fired off.

"But what will I lecture about?" asked Bob.

"Oh, about human nature, how it acts and what fine and funny stunts that you have known it to be guilty of. Call it 'The Fiddle and the Bow' and that will make everybody curious to hear it."

Sam handed Bob enough money to clear him from Chattanooga and then arranged with the Southern Lyceum Bureau, at Louisville, to date Taylor for 100 lectures at $100 apd expenses for each lecture. The plan went through a-whooping and Bob Taylor was a premier attraction on the platform until he went to the senate.

Incidentally, let me record that Sam Jones did a similar and equally successful favor for General John B. Gordon when the general needed such help mighty much.

Andrew Johnson's Liaison Officer.

The other deceased Tennesseean to whom I have referred was Colonel Elbert C. Reeves, of Johnson City, Tenn. He died last week, aged 90 years. He was a lawyer and a publicist of fine abilities.

He served in the Confederate army and when the war was ended had the courage to go back to east Tennessee, where hatred and persecution against "rebels" and democrats were equally fierce. He went to Greeneville and opened a law office. The first visitor to his office, as I recall, was ex-President Andrew Johnson, who welcomed the younger man and offered him assistance should he need any.

Colonel Reeves became a devoted adherent to Mr. Johnson, became editor of the local "Andy Johnson organ," the Greeneville Sentinel, and liaison officer for the ex-president and his political friends over the state. When I joined Mr. Johnson as his private secretary in 1872, Colonel Reeves and myself did the campaign work for Mr. Johnson in the famous fight for congressman-at-large.

No more gallant and loyal man can be imagined than that stalwart, big-hearted democrat and champion of education and religion. His passing will give sorrow to many thousands of hearts all over Tennessee and the south.

Bond Commission and Sewer Commission Acted Wisely on City's Sewerage Problem

Editor Constitution: Your editorial of Thursday, "Atlanta's Biggest Problem," was noted by the writer and it is timely and shows that you are looking at the situation in a very broad sort of way.

The bond commission and council's sewer committee has acted wisely in taking your advice.

The writer does not claim to know very much about the sewerage situation but anyone who has given the situation any thought, whatsover, can arrive at one solution and one only, that is this: The sewerage problem is neither the city's business nor is it the county's business. It is the business of both. It is the business of every community or area which contributes to the pollution of streams in the whole physical area as defined by the topography of the land and not by any political boundaries. This we must face in a comprehensive way. How shall we do this? First, we should make immediate use of our topographic maps, made for this very purpose, and define just what area should comprise this physical area and work out a metropolitan sewerage district and have this ready for the next session of the legislature. This could and should have been done at this past session. This sewerage district would, for sewerage purposes, be a separate government with powers to first design a comprehensive sewerage system for the whole metropolitan area, then to float bonds for trunk sewers and assess against abutting property for lateral sewers; also to construct and maintain sewerage disposal plants.

Certainly this appeals, immediately, to the citizen who can readily see the economy and business in such a scheme rather than overlapping work by several governments which can only result in waste and more taxation.

Engineer-Secretary of the Atlanta Planning Commision.

PEACOX IS FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

York's murder-case-of-the-season were as different, as contrasted, as hot and cold, or as perihelion and aphelion.

Sydney A. Syme, loquacious lawyer for the defendant, might have been a fourth of July platform orator of 20 or 30 years ago. He might have been Disraeli before parliament, or Patrick Henry on a soapbox. Syme very nearly burst the old courtroom asunder with his adjectives.

As for District Attorney Frank Coyne, he might have been the president of a national bank, addressing his board of directors and telling them the inside story of that phoney check for $20 that got by the eyes of the teller.

Syme called upon all that is good and pure in the breast of mankind for an acquittal. He screamed and shouted and waved his arms. By the time he was well warmed up his coat sleeves had worked up nearly to his elbows and he was perspiring like a conscientious section hand.

Syme demanded a verdict of not guilty. His theme was: Either acquit this boy or send him to the electric chair.

Waxes Sentimental.

The defense lawyer, waxing sentimental, quoted two love lyrics, productions of Tin Pan alley, in a tremulous voice. They were "Just a Memory" and "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses." They were the songs Earl and Dolly Peacox used to sing together before Earl strangled the life out of his bride and burned her body under a blossoming apple tree.

Syme attacked the testimony of Police Captain Silverstein, to whom Earl Peacox had confessed.

"Gentlemen," the defense attorney shouted, "if there was ever a premeditated, deliberate attempt to take this boy's life, it was through the lying, vicious testimony of Mike Silverstein. I don't know what the district attorney is going to do about it, but I know what I'd do if I were district attorney! I'd have the grand jury indict Silverstein for perjury. Gentlemen, have you ever seen such an audacious attempt to lie away a man's life?

"That's the kind of stuff they want you to convict on, a story that reeks with untruth. And Mike Silverstein wants you to take this story of his so he can strut around the streets of Mount Vernon and say that he had killed another man. If anyone told such a story about your dog, you would hold him in abhorrence until the day of your death."

Syme insisted that he has proved conclusively that Peacock did not kill with premeditation and aforethought. He insisted further, that since he has proved this, there can be nothing but a verdict of acquittal.

Prosecutor's Views.

The district attorney, in his summation, outlined the various aspects of the case, told the jurors that Peacox did premeditate the killing of his wife, asked that Earl pay with his life, and let it go at that.

"Speaking of dogs," he said, "I wouldn't treat a yellow dog the way this man treated his maimed and dying wife."

In his charge to the jury Justice Tompkins discussed and explained all the legal phases of the case. He defined legal insanity, reasonable doubt, premeditation, intent, and other factors entering into the case.

In commenting upon the manner in which Dolly Peacox's name had been bandied about during the trial, the court said:

"It is just as great a crime, gentlemen, to kill a bad woman, as it is to kill a good woman."

which remained isolated by last Wednesday night's blow.

Forecaster Gray said the probable course of the storm could not be determined. He expressed concern for Nassau which he believed experienced a heavy blow, although he did not think the velocity of the winds had been sufficient to cause a disaster. Efforts to communicate with Nassau by radio were unavailing all through the day, and it was believed the power plant had been disabled.

Ship on Rocks.

The Princess Montagu, freight and passenger ship operated by the Inter-Island Transportation Company between Miami and Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, is aground on Tony Rock near Nassau, according to a radio message received here tonight by Tropical Radio station.

The message made no mention of casualties which was interpreted in shipping circles here as meaning that the crew and passengers were rescued or had remained aboard the ship.

The Montagu is a remodeled yacht once owned by the late Julius Fleishman, the yeast king, and later by Barron G. Collier, Florida real estate developer and street car advertising magnate.

Collier is listed as president of the Inter-Island Transportation Company, present owner of the ship.

A later radio message from Nassau said part of the crew of 23 men was rescued on a life line after others from the ship had made their way to shore in a boat.

The message failed to say when the Montagu went on the rocks, but in shipping circles here it was believed that the wreck occurred as she was sailing from Nassau for Miami Wednesday, just as a hurricane that raged over the island three days, swept into the harbor.

Shipping records list a steamer Princess Montague of 570 gross tons, as owned by the Florida Railroad and Navigation Corporation of Tampa. She operates in the Miami-Nassau trade.

Ship Radios News.

The radio of the steamer Ena K, anchored in Nassau harbor, afforded the means of communication that told the outside world of the wreck of the Montagu and also of the terrific hurricane that swept over the Bahamas from Wednesday night until this morning.

The Ena K, whose home port is Miami, was ready to go into dry dock at Nassau when the storm broke.

Ten passengers and a crew of 23 were aboard the palatial yacht Montagu when it was torn from its dock at the entrance of Nassau harbor Friday morning and grounded. Among the passengers were Jacquellin Duggan Mason, woman's page editor of the Miami Daily News, and her husband, Joseph J. Mason, who were on their honeymoon in the Bahaman island capital.

J. L. Saunders, of Saunders & Mader, agents for the yacht, also was aboard.

Benjamin Hodges, Charles Sunderland, William Caraway, H. J. Smith, R. B. Smith, Stanley Ferguson and Louise Cooper.

The yacht had a length of 260 feet and a gross tonnage of 575 tons, and had accommodations for 72 first-class passengers.

Fear for Another.

Growing fear was felt here tonight for the safety of the steamer Isle of June, from which no reports have been received since she left Miami Tuesday for Nassau, the Bahamas, with a cargo of lumber and a crew of eight men.

The ship, in command of Captain R. H. Sweeting, sailed from Miami into the face of the hurricane that has been sweeping the Bahamas since Wednesday night, its master not knowing the location of the disturbance.

Among the crew of the Isle of June were R. H. Sweeting, master; William Russell, mate; Leslie Albury and Walter Albury. Names of the other four members of the crew were not available here tonight.

The vessel has a length of 92 feet and a tonnage of 115.

The Dorima, a British freighter, was the other vessel which went ashore off Great Abaco island last Wednesday, and whose crew finally managed to save themselves.

At least two other vessels, known to have been in Bahaman waters or en route there, were unreported since the storm. These were the Bahamian, also a British freighter, in service between Jacksonville and Nassau, and the Isle of June, which cleared Miami Tuesday for Nassau.

The Bahamaian had a crew of twelve, while the Isle of June carried eight men.

Planes Hold to Earth.

Ten airplanes of the Pan-American Airways ferried from Miami to Havana Tuesday to escape impending storm, remained weather bound near Havana tonight, Pan-American officials here announced.

Earlier reports had said that the planes were leaving Havana for Miami today, but tonight it was made known that threatening weather conditions caused decision to hold them at Columbus airdrome until the storm abates.

An airplane sent by Pan-American from Havana to Miami this morning, expecting to return with mail to Havana today, was held here tonight. It was reported that the plane had returned to Havana, but Pan-American officials here said they did not dare dispatch the ship on its return journey in the face of the storm.

WARNINGS ISSUED TO KEY ISLANDS

Key West, Fla., September 27.—(AP)—Upon advices from Washington the government weather bureau here tonight broadcast a warning to residents of the exposed islands among the Florida Keys that the tropical storm was moving slowly westward from the position it had occupied near the eastern end of the Florida Straits.

At 11:45 o'clock, the wind in Key West was almost directly out of the north and had attained a velocity of 25 miles an hour. It was gradually increasing in strength, the barometer reading at that time was 29.66.

It was believed should the course of the storm be over Key West that the center would not reach here for at least 12 hours.

Ferry service between Matacumbe Key and No Name Key, constituting the connecting link in the overseas highway was discontinued tonight until further notice. The depth of the water over the forty-mile stretch was such that it was feared the wind might force it out of the channel and cause the ferry to run aground.

Watchful and Waiting.

The keys, from the mainland to Key West, tonight were pursuing in their turn a policy of watchful waiting with regard to the tropical storm which apparently has hovered all day at the eastern end of the Florida Straits.

Following the example of the lower east coast, residents and business establishments here had started preparations to cope with the force of the wind in the event the disturbance approached this section during the night. Although windows had been boarded up only in scattered instances, special precautions were being taken to protect shipping in this vicinity.

Late today the coast guard cutter Tallapoosa, which had been outside, entered the harbor and anchored, while all small craft were securely lashed and battened down.

Larger vessels continued to ply cautiously in the straits where heavy rain squalls and a shifting northeast wind of 35 miles an hour were reported by captain of the Peninsular and Occidental steamer Governor Cobb. The Governor Cobb arrived here at 5 o'clock today from Havana, reporting the barometer reading on their departure from Morro Castle as 29.76. The vessel's barometer read 29.64 at 6 o'clock. The naval radio station, however, reported a reading of 29.69, a drop of seven points since noon.

Unofficial advices received from Tavernier, Islamorada, Long Key, Pigeon Key and other points among the numerous fishing camps between here and the mainland also indicated a gradual fall in barometric pressure during the afternoon.

H. B. Boyer, meteorologist at the government weather bureau here, said it was impossible yet to make a positive statement as to the future movement of the storm.

He added, however, that it was most unlikely that the full effect of it would be felt in the keys tonight, as the center of the disturbance was 190 miles due east of Key West this morning and there was no indication that it had materially changed its position since that time. Mr. Boyer concurred in the opinion of other experts regarding the storm, stating that it was the most erratic he had observed in 48 years.

A northeast wind was blowing here early tonight, although its velocity had dropped to 15 miles an hour from a maximum of 22 miles in the afternoon. The sky was overcast and there were frequent rain squalls and heavy gusts of wind.

HOUND DOG WITNESS

Black Rabbit Chaser Put On Stand in Court.

Thomasville, Ga., September 27.—(Special)—A black hound-dog was brought into Thomasville city court yesterday and put on the witness stand. The dog was the subject of a case at law between Alonzo Miller and Jim Reichert, the question of ownership being the issue.

On the stand the hound was viewed by persons who were witnesses in the case. Mr. Miller claimed he had owned this dog from a pup, and loaned him for one year to Mr. Carter, a dog-trainer. Mr. Carter returned the dog, and a week later Mr. Miller saw the dog in question in the yard of Mr. Reichert's brother, and promptly claimed it.

Mr. Reichert, on the other hand, was equally sure that this was his own dog, and so the matter got into the court. The jury eventually decided that ownership rests in Mr. Miller.

20 ARE REPORTED KILLED IN BAHAMAS

that they "must have been as hard hit as Nassau."

A dispatch from Bimini received here at midnight said that city was being lashed by a 70-mile-an-hour wind and that the barometer had dropped to 29.47. No mention of any property damage was made.

Richard Gray, government meteorologist at Miami, said Nassau "without a doubt" experienced winds of 100 miles an hour velocity and probably considerably more throughout most of the three days. He said he suspected the damage there had been great.

The meteorologist said it was quite unusual for hurricanes to blow for as long as three days in one vicinity, as it did at Nassau, but added that "this is a most unusual hurricane."

He explained that the reason for such a long blow was due to the fact that the disturbance moved with unusually slow progress through the Bahaman group and at times remained stationary. All of the islands in the vicinity of Nassau, he said, undoubtedly experienced an equally long blow.

The barometer at Nassau at 8 o'clock tonight stood at 29.70 and winds of gale proportion, reaching probably up to 70 miles an hour, prevailed tonight in that vicinity, he said.

"From now on, however," he declared, "the wind should decrease very rapidly as the storm now is moving forward southwestward at normal hurricane speed through the Florida straits."

Mr. Gray said the position of the hurricane tonight was east and south of Key West, almost due south of Miami. In a telephone conversation with his representative at Key West tonight, the meteorologist was informed that the steamer Muskogee reported its position latitude 24:45 and longitude 80:12, which is the same longitude as Miami and 15 minutes east of the latitude at Key West. The vessel radioed that the barometer there was 29.47 and was falling rapidly and that winds of hurricane force, blowing from the north were being experienced. The message stated that the storm center was moving west to southwest toward the Florida straits.

Mr. Gray said winds of gale proportion would prevail at Miami all during tonight. Their direction he said would be north northeast shifting to east and probably southeast. Whether or not they would increase or diminish here tomorrow, Mr. Gray said he was unable to say tonight.

The hurricane raged for three days. The first radio messages from there since noon Wednesday said the sender of the Nassau message was operating with a gasoline engine to generate power. He did not expect that electric power would be restored for possibly a week.

The Tropical Radio Company, which picked up the message, was endeavoring to obtain additional information from the island capital.

The wind still was blowing hard there Friday night, said the message. West End and Bimini, others of the Bahama group nearer to the Florida coast, also were experiencing high winds.

Barometers along the lower east Florida coast were affected by the storm in the Bahamas but the populace at Miami and vicinity was assured by Forecaster Richard W. Gray that the section would experience nothing more severe than strong northeast winds during the night. He said the wind probably would reach gale force on the extreme lower part of the coast late last night.

Gray fixed the position of the storm center at about 100 miles southeast of Miami and much farther east of Key West. He said the probable course could not be determined but that the movement was slow.

The radio message read:

"The hurricane began Wednesday night and continued until Friday morning. Center, two hours duration, passed over city 9 to 11 o'clock Wednesday night. No loss of life reported. Property and shipping damage considerable."

HAVANA MENACED, FORECAST SAYS.

Havana, September 27.—(AP)—The next 24 hours were forecast tonight as the most menacing for Cuba. The possibility of receiving a lashing from a hurricane located approximately 140 miles east of Key West, was seen in its deflection to a westerly direction.

Dr. Carlos Millas, chief of the Cuban National Observatory, reported at 9:15 p. m. that he placed the center of the hurricane at 140 miles east of Key West with all indications of an inflection in its projectory which would carry it over the Santaren channel.

He added that should his forecast prove true that the storm probably would move across the Florida straits toward Mexico following a southwest direction and threatening Havana.

Dr. Millas said there was no certainty in the report upon which he was then working but that up to 9 o'clock his observations pointed to further veering of the storm to the south.

Father Gutierrez Lanza, meteorologist at Belen Jesuit college, said tonight that reports from Sagua la Grande, Santa Clara province, the point in Cuba nearest the storm, were that the 40-mile wind from the west which had blown during the day had subsided and that the barometer had shown a tendency to rise from its mark of 29.53. From these reports he believed that the town was 60 miles southwest of the disturbance.

At Havana the wind had a force of 22 miles from the northwest and drove before it clouds that threatened rain. There had been little change from the conditions that prevailed all day.

Chattooga Meeting.

tops of taxicabs and began singing "The Red Flag," but as departure time neared everyone became a little less political and little more mellow and the tune changed to "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Finally as the train pulled out for Southampton, from where the MacDonald party sails early tomorrow on the Berengaria, the entire crowd began to sing "Auld Lang Syne."

Arrives October 4.

Shortly before he left 10 Downing street for the train he received a message from King George.

"On the eve of your journey, I wish you Godspeed," said the message. "It is a departure that will be surrounded with good wishes for it is a contribution to those happy relations between two great peoples which must be an article of faith among all men of goodwill. (Signed) George R. I."

Mr. MacDonald withdrew from the bustle of getting ready for departure to dictate a message of thanks to his majesty, saying, "with my humble duty to your majesty, I am deeply grateful for your majesty's gracious and kindly thought in sending me good wishes for a journey which will indeed, I trust, be a fruitful innovation. (Signed) Ramsay MacDonald."

To Renew Friendships.

To the newspapermen who swarmed about him at Waterloo station, Mr. MacDonald said: "I am looking forward very much to my visit to the United States and Canada and to the renewal of old and the making of new friendships there, but of course this is an official visit and is concerned with public affairs.

"I do not, as I have already said, expect my stay in Washington to lead to spectacular developments as the result of continued negotiations.

"One reason of this is that the current negotiations concerning naval disarmament have been carried so far that they have now to be brought to a wider international stage. Before there could be any progress in naval disarmament it was necessary for Washington and London to devise means for terminating a deadlock, which had arisen between them at the Geneva conference in 1927.

"I am glad to say we have made such good progress in this work that the moment has, we hope, come when the five naval powers who signed the Washington treaty can be invited to join and insure in common a happy issue to a conference. If all goes well, a five-power conference will be held early in the year."

INQUIRY IS ORDERED ON GINNING REPORT

they ought to be removed—knows that on September 15 we have not gathered one-half of the crop in Georgia or in any other state in the southeast. The effect of the report, therefore, was to give Georgia an indicated production of 1,500,000 bales for the year. With the production indicated everybody who had cotton on hand after the market closed Monday wanted to get rid of it before the market opened the following day.

"Every man," he added, "who had cotton on hand was anxious not to have the next day's trading find him with that cotton in the face of the indicated production.

Other Mistakes Cited.

"During the marketing of each crop of cotton, such mistakes in the census bureau have occurred. I have not engaged in condemnation of any service of the government. It has not been my practice heretofore, but this bureau has given a carry-over which no sensible man could find. Subsequently the department of agriculture, basing its statement upon the figures of the bureau of economics of the department, has indicated what the price would be to the grievous injury of the cotton growers.

"Now, here in the midst of this marketing season, there is made in the morning an error of 300,000 bales and four hours later it is corrected. It cannot be excused upon any possible basis or ground. A scape-goat is found, just as one is always found by the bureau. Somebody has made a clerical error:

"But here is the bureau handling cotton statistics. It has been engaged for many years in estimating and in furnishing the reports and in making public the number of bales of cotton ginned up to certain dates. That bureau or the men in it, are supposed to know something about the commodity on which they are reporting. If the man who made that report had used ordinary diligence he would have known that the state could not have ginned three-fourths of its possible production under boll weevil conditions up to September 15. Any school boy ought to know better.

"This is not the first mistake that has occurred, but it is the first grievous clerical error which the bureau itself has been compelled to admit. There should be a prompt dismissal of everyone in the bureau connected with it."

FLOODS ISOLATE SIX GEORGIA CITIES

Almira, by airplane. The Georgia & Florida, Statesboro & Northern and Central of Georgia had suspended service out of Midville, where the Ogeechee river was rising rapidly.

In the vicinity of Waycross torrential rains ruined a large portion of the crops still in the field and several streets in the city were flooded because of overtaxed drainage mains. The Saltilla river and smaller streams were rising and threatened to inundate lowlands.

SAVANNAH, BRUNSWICK NEAR ISOLATION.

The traffic division of the state highway department here Friday said that Augusta, Savannah and Brunswick were virtually isolated, as far as highways were concerned. Motorists were advised against attempting to reach these cities without first determining whether the way is open.

Emergency crews were held ready to go to work on damaged roads as soon as conditions permitted or made necessary, it was said.

Little trouble was reported on roads north or west of Atlanta.

OCMULGEE ABOVE FLOOD STAGE.

Macon, Ga., September 27.—(AP)—The Ocmulgee river was above flood stage here late today and indications were that the stream would go to 19.5 feet during the night, the weather bureau announced. Flood stage is 18 feet.

Four inches of rainfall during the night in the vicinity of Vidalia, Ga., caused further damage to the roadbed of the Macon, Dublin & Savannah railroad, which suffered one washout yesterday. It may be several days before that road is able to operate through trains.

ALL WAYCROSS ROADS CLOSED.

Waycross, Ga., September 27.—(AP) Continued heavy rainfall today, following the downpour of Wednesday and Thursday, has flooded all the streams in this section, inundated a number of streets, and virtually isolated the city from highway communication with the rest of the state.

GAS TAX LOAN ACT TAKEN INTO COURTS

Friendly Suit Instituted To Test Constitutionality of New Law.

Test of the new Georgia statute allowing the state to anticipate 40 per cent of the gas tax revenues was instituted Friday when mandamus proceedings were begun against the comptroller general to compel him to affix his signature to a warrant drawn under the new law.

The hearing of the mandamus was set for today, but attorneys indicated that the case would not come up before next week.

The attorney-general, Seward M. Smith, and Fermor Barrett will represent the governor and the state in the case, while the comptroller general will be represented by Troutman & Troutman, Atlanta attorneys.

Under arrangement made for the friendly test of the law Governor H. G. Hardman drew a warrant for $920.67. The joint signature of William B. Harrison, comptroller general, was required. He refused to sign and the mandamus proceedings were begun to compel him to do so.

The case will be carried to the supreme court, where constitutionality of the laws will be decided. If the law is held valid the highway department and the governor plan to borrow $2,000,000 with which to match an equal amount of federal aid amounts, hypothecating 40 per cent of the future revenues of the gas tax for payment of the loan.

Greater Atlanta Mayors To Plan Big Celebration

Mayors of the boroughs of Greater Atlanta have been invited to discuss plans for celebrating a Greater Atlanta Day on October 8 at a meeting to be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the office of Mayor Ragsdale, Joe W. Ray, general chairman of the event, announced Friday.

The occasion, which has been set aside for special observance by the Southeastern Fair Association, will be featured by a parade participated in by the 122d infantry, 1,400 R. O. T. C. students of local colleges and bands from Oglethorpe, Emory, G. M. A., Tech High, Boys' High, Marist, 122d infantry, Georgia Power Company and the police department.

According to Mr. Ray the parade will be six or seven blocks in length. It will comprise a large entry of floats, including one from the city of Atlanta, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Georgia State Industrial college and the Southeastern Fair Association.

The mayors who are to meet with Mayor Ragsdale are Scott Chandler, of Decatur; Eugene F. King, of Hapeville; J. O. Ragsdale, of East Point; E. D. Barrett, of College Park, and C. R. Tyburn, of Avondale.

WESTERN HEIGHTS BAPTIST CHURCH TO GIVE FISH FRY

Plans for a great fish fry at the Western Heights Baptist church, beginning at 11 o'clock this morning and continuing until 7 o'clock tonight, were announced Friday by James E. Bowden, chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

Members of the Atlanta police band will play beginning at noon and will continue on the job until about 2:30 o'clock.

"We are going to stage a real fish fry, and I want to say that if any patron of the event feels he does not get his money's worth all he has to do is to say so and I'll refund the face value of the ticket," Mr. Bowden said.

PLAN TO ELIMINATE COURTLAND OFFSET AT NORTH AVENUE

Regrading of all intersecting streets crossing the newly created traffic artery formed by widening and repaving of the cross thoroughfares was announced Friday by Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction.

Linden, Pine and Currier streets and Merritts avenue have been regraded to meet the new grade established on Courtland street and Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward, has announced he will take steps to eliminate the offset where Courtland crosses North avenue to expedite movement of traffic.

Attack on One-Party System Is Continued by Col. Palmer

Pounding away on his contention that evils, firmly entrenched and far-reaching, grow out of a one-party political system like Georgia's, Colonel James Hill Palmer, independent progressive candidate for congress from the fifth district, hammered into the consciousness of an East Point audience at Odd Fellows' hall Friday night the fact that only under a two-party system can the ring that rules the state be routed, and politics be elevated to a plane where principles of government and methods of administration will lure the interest and win the votes of the people.

"Jefferson, patron saint of old-time democrats, quoted in public and scorned in private by present-day false leaders of the democratic party in Georgia, had confidence in the virtue and wisdom of the people," said Colonel Palmer. "He was an ardent advocate of a two-party system, declaring that it enabled the people to choose their leaders from groups of men whose principles were their own; and that it promoted public discussion of pertinent issues which informed the masses and induced them to vote for measures rather than for personalities often petty though sometimes picturesque.

Bill to Foster Vice.

"Would you vote for a bill to foster vice? Would you vote for a bill to promote graft and spread corruption through various departments of the state? Would you vote to waste the public funds so that your taxes might be increased and the benefits of government reduced?

"Of course you would not knowingly do anything so senseless and unrighteous. But that is exactly what you are doing when you continue to vote the ticket the bosses frame for you. For the fruitage of graft and vice and wastefulness of the public funds is the food that fattens the framer of tickets and the controllers and manipulators of the ballot boxes in our beloved but badly abused Georgia.

"What must free men do to right the wrongs in government? Often they have had recourse to arms, but in this day men of America need only a free ballot to lay low the traducers and plunderers of the people. But you cannot have a free ballot while you are tied to the flagpole of a single, selfish party organization. The independent progressive party is the instrument that will enable you to sever connection with the deteriorated democratic party that was once the glory of the south, but has become a broken and bespattered shell of its old-time self.

Attitude Misrepresented.

"Running true to form, the democratic machine of this district, through its representative in this campaign for congress, grossly and maliciously misrepresents my attitude toward the DePriest incidents and some others. We knew it would. Concerning the congressional tea at the White House I have not voiced approval. I have said the tea was given in accord with a custom inviting to the president's home each session the wives of congressmen; that the custom was established by Martha Washington and had been followed since the founding of the republic; and that it was a custom you and I could not control.

"Congressman DePriest took his oath of office with a mental reservation, though he swore he was taking it 'without mental reservation.' He swore to uphold the constitution of the United States, but declared in an Ohio speech this summer that he would not uphold it in its entirety unless Uncle Sam made certain appropriations to please him. He said he would not vote to appropriate funds to enforce the 18th amendment unless similar sums were set aside for the enforcement of the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments, which he said the south, 'a barbaric people,' refused to enforce.

"Georgia congressmen have raised a great furore over the tea incident, but they have let the violation of DePriest's oath of office pass without opening their mouths. They haven't had the gumption to get after him. If I go to congress in October from the fifth district I shall offer at an early opportunity resolutions to impeach this congressman for his serious offense."

New Evidence in Sabotage Claims Against Germany Soon To Be Given Commission

Five Volumes of Papers and Documents Produces State of Tension Unmatched in History.

Washington, September 27.—(AP)—New evidence in the $40,000,000 sabotage claims against Germany, based upon alleged responsibility of German agents for the Black Tom and Kingsland, N. J., disasters of 1916 and 1917, shortly is to be laid before the mixed claims commission.

The evidence tells how Theodore Wazniak, who worked at the Kingsland foundry and had been widely sought for more than 12 years, appeared at the office of the German agent of the commission in Washington several weeks ago, admitted that the Kingsland fire started at his work bench, denied that he was in the service of Germany and told how he had lived in New York while the search for him was in progress.

Five Volumes.

Tender of the evidence—a mass of documents and papers filling five volumes—produced in the commission a state of tension virtually unmatched in the history of the body, immediately after it was offered. The American agent submitted objections to its admission. This move brought a reply from the German agent, and now the commission must decide what parts if any of the new material is to receive consideration.

The new evidence also purports to meet United States charges implicating directly two other alleged German agents—Kurt Jahnke, admitted head of the German secret service in this country during the war, who has now returned to his home and become a member of the Prussian diet; and Lothar Witzke, the only German who ever was convicted and sentenced to be hanged as a spy in the United States, having been tried at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. His death penalty was muted.

Never "Disappeared."

Wazniak is said to have declared he never "disappeared," as the United States agent holds he did after the first investigation. The German agent has produced hospital, army draft and court records in support of this statement. The United States' contention is that Wazniak was seen during this period confraternizing with other known German spies in Mexico.

Other records included in the new evidence purport to show that Jahnke, said by the United States to have set the Black Tom explosion in New Jersey, across the harbor from Governor's Island, N. Y., signed a time sheet only two days earlier while working as a watchman at the Anglo-London and Paris National bank of San Francisco.

Of Witzke, the evidence offers to show that he wrote, from California, a letter to his parents, dated two days before the explosion, for which the American case holds him, with Jahnke and one Mike Kristoff, responsible. Kristoff died last year.

MRS. ALLEN ANSWERS TWO DAMAGE SUITS

Denies Responsibility for Auto Crash in Which Two Were Killed.

Answers to two damage suits aggregating $125,000 in federal court against Mrs. Bona Allen, of Gwinnett county, were filed here Friday afternoon, in which the defendant denies all allegations charged by the plaintiffs in connection with the death of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Smith near Lawrenceville the first part of June.

The suits charged that Mrs. Allen ran into the Smiths' car, throwing the occupants out and causing injuries which resulted in the death of both. In her answer Mrs. Allen claims that she was driving along a public road which intersected with Route 8 on which the accident occurred, and that after entering Route 8, instead of undertaking to cross it as she had a right to do, she pulled her car to the extreme side of the road and stopped it. The Smith machine, it is stated, approaching from the opposite direction, running at a speed of 60 to 65 miles an hour, struck the defendant's car and turned over.

The answers further set forth that Mrs. Allen had noticed the other car approaching and had pulled to one side for the specific purpose of letting it pass. The driver of the Smith car either did not see her or misjudged the distance between the two cars, since it swerved sharply just before the crash, striking Mrs. Allen's car a glancing blow, it is alleged.

The answers were filed by I. L. Oakes and A. O. Nix, attorneys, of Lawrenceville.

STATE FORESTER TO ATTEND MEETING AT ASHEVILLE, N. C.

B. F. Lufburrow, state forester, will attend the 10th annual convention of the National Association of State Foresters at Asheville, N. C., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Among other matters which will come up for discussion is state acquisition of federal forests. A growing movement in this direction is on foot which has claimed the attention of the 38 state foresters in the association.

TWO ARE INDICTED FOR AIDING ESCAPE OF AUBREY SMITH

Leonard Smith and Virginia Smith were indicted Friday by the Fulton grand jury on a charge of aiding the escape of Aubrey Smith from the state prison farm on July 25. The indictment alleges that the defendants transported Aubrey from Wayside to Atlanta, knowing that he was an escaped convict.

Edna Smith and Jack Livingston were indicted recently for aiding Smith's escape, and were given prison terms on pleas of guilty.

Boykin Planning Drive To Enforce Securities Law

A vigorous campaign against violation of the Georgia securities law was being mapped Friday afternoon by Solicitor General John A. Boykin, after a jury in Judge John D. Humphries' division of Fulton superior court had convicted G. M. Saunders, a New York broker, of selling class D stock without first obtaining a license. Saunders drew a sentence of from three to five years.

Mr. Boykin said that he would devote a great deal of attention in the near future to investigation of alleged violations of the securities law, and that wherever evidence warrants he will present new cases to the grand jury. In addition, he said he intends placing indictments already returned on the calendar for trial on dates within the next few weeks.

The state will place Saunders on trial on other indictments soon, Mr. Boykin said. "We are going to show people that the Georgia securities law has teeth in it, and that Georgians are going to be protected by our blue sky law," Mr. Boykin declared.

The specific count on which Saunders was found guilty alleged that the defendant sold to L. D. Adams securities in class D without first obtaining a license from the securities commission. Saunders sold 150 shares of stock in the Intercity Radio Telegraph Company, while trading as Phillips & Company, the indictment charged.

Saunders is under indictments jointly with Jerry Tiffany. In the trial Friday, Saunders claimed that he tried to comply with the law. It was alleged that he filed an application to sell classes A, B and C stocks, but no class D stock.

BARKER CORRECTS REPORT OF SPEECH AT WEST END CLUB

B. S. Barker, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Friday corrected a report on his address at the West End Woman's club Wednesday night. Mr. Barker was quoted as saying that "Atlanta is the only city in America to build nine miles of business streets in ten years." His comparisons were with cities in the south entirely, Mr. Barker said. "I had reference to Atlanta's achievement in changing three of our streets from residence to business streets and my statement was 'No city in the entire south had converted nine miles of residence streets to business streets,' and I referred to the change, in the last 10 years, in Peachtree, West Peachtree and Spring streets."

40 LOCAL DEALERS ARE FACING TRIAL UNDER TOBACCO ACT

Forty cases of alleged violation of the state cigar and cigaret stamp tax act will be heard in criminal court of Atlanta next Thursday, it was announced Friday. The cases were made during a recent crusade conducted by officers from the state revenue department.

FIND THE TWINS

MAIL YOUR ANSWER TODAY

At first glance all the young ladies look alike; but you are asked to find the Twins that are clothed exactly alike. Now then: upon closer examination you will find a difference in their wearing apparel. Have they all earrings or necklaces? How about their coats and hats? Are they trimmed the same? Some have bands on the brim and crowns, others have not. Maybe the difference is just the buttonhole in the lapel of the coat.

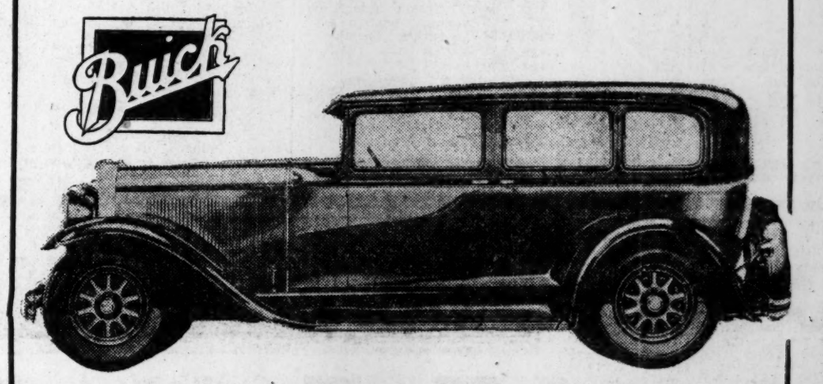

It takes real care and cleverness to point out the difference and find the two real Twins, because two and only two are identically the same.

When you have found the twins, write the numbers in the coupon below, fill in your name and complete address and mail at once to the Puzzle Manager, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. In the event of ties in the final awarding, prizes of equal value will be given.

$9,000.00 IN PRIZES

$2,500.00 in Cash

100 POINTS WINS 1st PRIZE

You will be given 90 points for finding the Twins. Immediately on receipt of your correct answer to the Twins we will send you particulars for winning the big cash prizes and the magnificent $1,500.00 Buick Sedan for promptness. No words to build—no dictionary to refer to. Everyone has an equal chance. All you will have to do then is to earn the final ten points required for the first cash prize or prizes.

Any man, woman, boy or girl, resident of Georgia or adjoining states, who is not an employe of The Atlanta Constitution, or a member of an employe's family, may submit an answer. When you have made your selection of the Twins, send in your answer.

The whole family may co-operate in this competition, but only one prize will be awarded a member of a family, or any one of a group outside of the family where two or more have been working together for a prize in any one prize group; but one person may win one prize in each of the three prize groups and also have a chance of winning the $1,500.00 automobile for promptness. This contest is conducted by The Atlanta Constitution.

You Have As Good a Chance to Win As Anyone

Just look closely—make sure that you have found the Twins, then send in your answer. Somebody who finds the right Twins is going to win a big cash prize of $500.00, $1,000.00, or $2,500.00—or better still, $4,000.00 cash and a $1,500.00 Buick automobile for promptness, a total of $5,500.00—and that some one may be and can be you if you will only try.

Think of it—you can win as much as $4,000.00 cash and a $1,500 Buick four-door sedan! Yes, sir! $7,540.00 in cash prizes may be won in this interesting puzzle contest plus the $1,500.00 Buick Sedan, and these prizes will be awarded after the close of the contest, November 12th, 1929.

Vandy and Ole Miss Risk Title Chances This Afternoon

PETRELS OFFER HARD TEST FOR GEORGIA

COMMODORES AND OLE MISS BATTLE TODAY

Defeat Would Eliminate Either Team—Hazel's Team Favorite.

By Ralph McGill,
Staff Correspondent.

Nashville, Tenn., September 27.—(Special.)—One of the floors near the top of one of Nashville's leading hostelries sagged dangerously here tonight. Homer Hazel's ponderous pachyderms from Ole Miss had arrived for their game Saturday with the Vanderbilt Commodores.

The staid old conference with its fine old traditions has never seen anything like this before, two teams just deliberatey hauing off and endangering their entire season with the very first game of the year. No, sir. This is a new act.

Homer Hazel, as large as any man on his squad, looked as solid and as placid as one of these here Bhudda things one sees sitting in the art store windows. Yet beneath that cold exterior his nerves had donned ice skates and were zipping and skimming around with all the speed of water bugs. Once in a while Homer Hazel's nerves jumped out on his coat sleeves and had to be brushed off.

WANTS VICTORY.

Homer Hazel would rather win this football game from Vanderbilt than sit at ease in the Elysian fields forever. He has pointed for it, all his early practice being devoted to the idea of taking Your Uncle Dan McGugin's Commodores over the jump in this first game of the year for the Southern conference.

And Your Uncle Dan is more than mildly concerned. The Nestor of southern coaches has had secret practice for the first time in his 25 years at Vanderbilt. Fathers of players and prominent alumni argued in vain at the gates.

HEAVY ELEVEN.

Homer Hazel returns a veteran eleven that will probably outweight any team in the conference. He lost two backfield stars. Tadpole Smith graduated. Gerald Walker, the Great Gerald, was lured away by professional baseball.

Hazel returned Woodruff and Wilcox, two veteran backs. And good ones, too. They will be aided by Brown, a sophomore, and Kyser, who was on the bench last year. It is the largest backfield in the conference. It takes brawn to farm down here in Mississippi and the boys at the Oxford school have it.

The line looks like something John Ringling will have in the big rings when the circus comes to Atlanta next month. Bowles and Jones, guards, weigh in at 210 and 195 respectively. Barnett and Morris tackles, are each over 200. Boutwell center, is a light little fellow as Ole Miss goes. So are the two ends. They weigh only 185 each.

LINE ATTACK.

Hazel has always stuck to a furious line assault with an end in motion. The line attack is directed largely off tackle with the line unbalanced. Reports out of Oxford have Hazel experimenting with a pass attack that has reached respectable proportions. It is difficult to believe he has gone in for passes. Hazel has always believed the air game to be just a gamble and a rather foolish one. He was developed in the old slam-bang school when the boys took the ball and lugged it.

Hazel's eleven is a favorite over the south. Such prominent dignitaries as Josh Cody, of Clemson, and H. J. Stegeman, of Georgia, picking Ole Miss to win the football game. Only W. A. Alexander, of Tech, has expressed an opinion that the Commodores will win.

VANDY'S BACKS.

McGugin's backfield is uncertain. It is likely to include three new players. Benny Parker was ineligible last fall. He is expected to start at quarter. Amos Leonard and Jess Thomas, freshmen last season, will run at fullback and halfback, respectively. The other half will be taken care of by Paul McGauhey, or Gene McIlwaine, both veterans.

This is the probable line-up. It may be changed by game time. Your Uncle Dan is unusually reticent this fall.

In the line he is experimenting with Lokey, an end of last year, at guard, as running mate for Captain Bull Brown. Center gives him a problem. He has three men, a 1928 reserve and two sophomores, who will get a trial. Howell Warner, the reserve, will be in there at the start. Bill Morehead,

Smithies To Open With Cadets Today

Tech High, southern prep football champion, will play G. M. A., at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spiller field in one of the hardest games of the local prep season. It will be the first game for both.

Coach Claude Tolbert has worried no little during the past three weeks over his line. Six stars were lost last year and only Morris at tackle, Captain Hutt at quarterback and Beans Haldley at fullback are veterans to return.

Hammond, one of the best defensive backs in prep circles last year, was injured more than a week ago and will not be able to play for several days. His place will be taken by Ralph Cobb, a speedy back.

G. M. A. will start a strong backfield in Norman Mackey, all-area quarter of 1928, Degarimore and Captain Relton Clark at halves and Quinn at fullback.

Rival Captains as Bulldogs and Petrels Open Season Today

Georgia and Oglethorpe meet at Athens, Ga., this afternoon in the first game of the year for both elevens. Joe Boland, centering the ball, is leading the Bulldogs. At right is Charlie MacLaughlin, captain of the Oglethorpe Petrels. Both are star players and they are expected to be much in evidence this afternoon at Sanford Field. A large number of Atlanta football fans will make the trip to Athens today. Photos by Rogers and Holloway.

MAWNIN'

By Ed Danforth

Get your train space for the Georgia-Yale game today—if you can.

Drop everything and hustle.

There is very little more space left on the plush cushions of Mr. Pullman's best cars for October 12.

Plenty of day coach transportation, but very, very few pink slips entitling the bearer to be rubbed on the shins by the man in the seat opposite.

This was the summary of a tour of railroad offices yesterday. Excited telephone calls from Athens that all Pullman space in Atlanta was sold out inspired the investigation.

THE DATA.

The Georgia railroad, operating trains via Madison and the Central of Georgia, report their entire consignment of 26 Pullman cars completely sold out.

The Seaboard, operating directly to Athens has 49 Pullman cars sold out from top to bottom and the prospect of dynamiting only TWO MORE standard cars from the Pullman Company for October 12.

The Southern Railway operating via Lula, has 20 Pullmans partially sold out and seats were going fast. The man was telegraphing all over the country for more Pullman cars yesterday and hopes to increase his supply.

All agents insist that reservations not taken up by October 1 will be sold; all have waiting lists of several hundred.

Enough day coaches have been mobilized to haul any number of people but the Pullman supply suddenly has run short.

18 SPECIAL TRAINS.

The three railroads will operate a total of 18 special trains out of Atlanta alone. That means that at least 15,000 people will be transporated by rail from Atlanta—maybe more. There is almost no limit to the number that can be hauled by day coach.

Railroad officials assert they have drained all the possible reserve supply of Pullman cars available for this date and that the number secured has exceeded any previous rail movement in the south.

All of which means that the Georgia-Yale migration will be the most impressive spectacle the south has seen and that the big venture of the university will undoubtedly be a smashing success.

WHERE ANGELS, FEAR, ETC.

As an example of staple and fancy score guessing, a young lady signing True Blue Lou sends in the following estimate of the prospects of Georgia Tech and Florida, with comment:

"As a sport fan of Atlanta, especially anything concerning football, I wonder if you would take the time to look over some of these scores

BARONS RE-OPEN SERIES TODAY

Birmingham Riding Crest With Two Opening Victories Over Dallas.

Dallas, September 27.—(AP)—One riding the crest, the other down but grimly determined to fight its way back, the Birmingham and Dallas clubs reached here late today after their long jump from Alabama and prepared to resume the battle for Dixie baseball supremacy tomorrow.

Triumphant in the opening tilts at Birmingham, Johnny Dobbs and his Barons rated excessive favorites over the Texas league champions. The Steers, their pitching staff frayed about the edges and the fine competitive spirit that marked their victory over Wichita Falls in the playoff apparently dimmed, were accorded only an outside chance of beating back.

In order to bring this circuit its ninth victory in ten series against the Southern Association's best, the Herd would have to win four out of its next five starts, including at least one in Birmingham. So far the club has displayed little aptitude at beating the Barons anywhere.

Any illusions the Stockmen might have entertained as to the Barons' weakness were banished at Birmingham. They looked over some poisonous pitching in the first fray, when Ludolph let them down with two hits, and they found the Barons could match them blow for blow in the second, when five Steer chunkers were shelled for 16 hits.

Whitey Glazner, the only Dallas hurler who did not see service at Birmingham, was considered a certain starter. While Glazner will be favored to ward off the Barons tomorrow, providing his mates come to life with the hickory, Stock faces a shortage of mound talent for the games Sunday and Monday.

Dobbs has Ray Francis, a southpaw sharpshooter, to pit against the Steers tomorrow, and Ludolph ready for another go-round Sunday. Francis won 14 and lost 10 games for the Barons.

Duke Prepared For Bear Test

Macon, Ga., September 27.—(Special.)—Jimmy DeHart and his Duke University "Blue Devils" arrived here early this afternoon and engaged in a short signal drill as the final preparation for the opening game of the season Saturday afternoon with Mercer University.

Two teams ran signals while a large crowd of spectators looked on. After the Duke team completed its afternoon's work the Mercer Bears took the field for a brief signal drill.

Although both teams have been hampered in the week's practice because of the steady rain, the players appear to be in good shape and are ready for the struggle.

Auburn Ekes Out 7-0 Win Over Southern

Hatfield Snakes Through Line, Reverses Field and Scores Touchdown for Plainsmen.

By R. T. Dozier,
Constitution Staff Correspondent.

Montgomery, Ala., September 27.—(Special.)—Under the glare of Pittsburgh's best artificial daylight Auburn revenged herself upon Birmingham-Southern here tonight when Lindley Hatfield, sophomore pony back, playing upon a field with which he is as familiar as Bobby Jones is with East Lake, dashed 17 yards to a touchdown in the final quarter of a game that was devoid of all thrills. It was a beautiful broken field exhibition and came with such startling suddennesse that a crowd of eight thousand hardly had time to cheer.

Smarting under a defeat of last season, Auburn came to Montgomery determined to win or to be carried from the field. And the players from the beautiful village of the plains, did win—in all departments. They won by 7 to 0, but they outgained the Birmingham team in every department.

Tonight, Auburn started out running pony backs against a line equally as strong as her own. But a kid from Montgomery, a sophomore who weighs a pound less than 140, got his signals crossed and actually ran around left end to victory.

Birmingham-Southern was offside at the try for point and the score was 7 to 0.

Birmingham-Southern either had nothing or preferred to keep it under cover for some other foe. Threatening only once during the full hour, they lacked the necessary punch and wilted, never to recover.

MISSED CHANCE.

After eight minutes of play Birmingham-Southern had the chance to score. Crawford, who punts a football in the most accepted manner, averaging something over 45 yards, missed one and placed it out of bounds on Auburn's 47-yard line. Pilgreen, enormous fullback for Birmingham, crashed into the line for six yards. Smith galloped off tackle and Carraway added ten to place the ball on Auburn's 15-yard line, where Harkins intercepted Smith's pass and the boys from imperial Jefferson were done for the evening.

Auburn's touchdown came from a punt by Crawford, which struck a Birmingham player and was recovered by Egge on Birmingham's 35-yard line. Pate struck center for five yards and the crowd, totally Auburn, groaned as they saw the battering tactics inherited from Mike Donohue and his five fullbacks brought into play. Crawford, however, passed 15 yards to Jones, and then Hatfield skirted the end and down the side line to paradise.

Crawford kicked like a mule throughout the contest, with the exception of his one effort which was misguided and fell almost in the lap of Governor Bibb Graves, who was sitting in a box at the sideline. He hit

NATION PAYS HUGGINS HONOR

New York, September 27.—(AP)—In a service as simple as the life Miller Huggins led, New York this afternoon said its prayer for the manager of the New York Yankees and his body left with an escort of baseball players, officials and writers to rest in the soil of his native Cincinnati.

Flowers from all parts of the country, from his adopted home, St. Petersburg, Fla., and as far away as California banked the chancel of the Little Church Around the Corner, where the service was held. Almost every well known organization in baseball was represented and some were from the great rank and file, "just fans."

Every bat and glove in the American league was idle today by order of President Barnard as a tribute of respect to the manager of the retiring world champions.

The Episcopal funeral service was read by the Rev. W. H. Weigle, chaplain of the Episcopal Actors' Guild, assisted by the Rev. B. A. E. McLaughlin, rector of the Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. J. E. Price, pastor of the Washington Heights Episcopal church, a close friend of Huggins, delivered the eulogy.

Speaking in intimate vein, Dr. Price drew a picture of a weary Miller Huggins finding rest at last. The speaker first paid tribute to his friend as a baseball manager and then as a man.

"Huggins never quiet," he stated, relating the story of Napoleon's retort to a general who brought tidings of a lost battle. "Yes, we have lost this battle, but it is only 4 o'clock. There is time to win another before nightfall."

Edward G. Barrow, secretary of the Yankees, could not attend the services for his friend and colleague, breaking under the strain of the Yankee manager's illness he was confined to his home by sickness.

Followers Regard Opener as Most Important Game

Victory for Inexperienced Red and Black Team Today Will Fortify It for Long and Hard Schedule.

By Ed Danforth,
Constitution Sports Editor.

Athens, Ga., September 28.—Athens vibrates with excitement tonight. A tensity that perhaps never before was noted on the eve of a September game pervaded the corral at Costa's.

The Georgia Bulldogs are to play the biggest game of the season Saturday. The Bulldogs open the 1929 campaign against Oglethorpe university on old Stanford field—little Oglethorpe—yet the conflict is the major contest of the year.

The Bulldogs will take the field at 3:30 o'clock escorted by a squad of mounted uncertainties and wearing blankets of mystery. Only five veterans will be in the varsity line-up. Six sophomores who never wore a red jersey into battle will take their places for the first kick-off. What such a team will do against tough opposition none can tell. Defeat might be fatal to morale and victory might mean everything to the untried team still fumbling, no doubt, for the proper places to take a stance as the quarterback calls the numbers.

Hence the importance of this opening tussle. Hence the excitement. The stir in Athens tonight would do credit to the eve of a November game against a cherished conference foe.

Oglethorpe's eleven this year is tipped as one of the best that ever fared forth from the little institution on Peachtree road. Coach Harry Robertson thinks highly of them. With more than the usual number of good football players to draw from he has switched most of his capable sophomores to the bench as reserves and has selected a starting lineup of veterans. That was the word this afternoon in Atlanta. The Petrels are keyed to the pitch; they are gunning for Georgia and just confident enough to give the Bulldogs running fits if the breaks happen to be favorable for an upset.

COACHES WORRIED.

Not all the unrest is manifest in fan circles, it seems. Coach Robertson is counting heavily on his Petrels to bring the game back home to Atlanta. And Coach Harry Mehre, of Georgia, frankly is uncertain as to what his untried boys will do against the sort of inspired opposition he expects Oglethorpe to put up.

Ever since the first cleat was planted on Sanford field this fall, Coach Mehre has been pointing his men for this very game. No other course was open to him. Heavy losses in varsity men by graduation left his nucleus riddled; and although the Petrels do not belong to the conference, a defeat in the opening game would be a load for his men to carry on into the second game with Furman and the third gave with Yale.

The Bulldogs have been so carefully coached from a mental standpoint that they seem to have ignored the approach of the Big Blue team from New Haven; all they have seen for these weeks of practice has been the Gold and Black of Oglethorpe.

GEORGIA STARTERS.

Indications are that the following rush line will start for Georgia: Captain Joe Boland, veteran center; "Red" Leathers and "Tiger" Bennett, two stalwart sophomore guards; Vernon Bryant, the veteran, and "Buster" Lynn, a sophomore, at tackles; "Red" Smith, the veteran, and Vernon Smith, the sophomore, at the ends.

The backfield selections probably will find Austin Downs at quarter; John Davidson and Jim Patterson at halfbacks, and Benny Rothstein at fullback. Downs and Petterson are sophomores, while Davidson was on the reserve squad last year.

Many old Georgia men already are here; more are coming tomorrow. The clan is consumed with curiosity not unmixed with anxiety as to what the new team will do. The game is the most important opening game ever played in Athens, be sure of that.

Petrels Set For Georgia.

Oglethorpe's Petrels leave this morning on a special train for Athens where they encounter the Georgia Bulldogs this afternoon.

The rain that fell Friday is nothing new to the Petrels as they have been practicing on soggy turf and with a wet ball every day for the last week. They are set for anything.

If the field in Athens is muddy and the ball is wet the Petrels have an offense that is good. Cy Bell will be at the fullback position and promises to show something in the way of broken field running. He is scheduled to start, wet or dry. There are such proven mud-horses as Herrin.

DIXIE TEAMS START TODAY

Many Elevens Face Stiff Competition While Others Have "Breathers."

Vanderbilt and Mississippi will clash today at Nashville in the feature game of the Dixie football schedule.

Homer Hazel, the former all-American fullback, is taking the best Mississippi team in years to Nashville. It is big and strong and fast and is generally counted or to toss around a few surprises between now and Thanksgiving Day.

Mental Hazard.

But Ole Miss faces a terrific mental hazard. A Mississippi team has scored only two points against Vanderbilt in 25 years. If the Oxford boys can overcome this, the experts give them a chance to take a fall out of Dan McGugin's team this afternoon.

Georgia Tech, the 1928 champion; North Carolina State and the University of Kentucky are the only S. I. C. teams not scheduled today. They will play their openers next week.

The Florida Alligators play Southern at Gainesville, but Coach Charles Bachman, who has V. M. I. and Georgia Tech ahead of him the next two weeks, is not expected to show more than he has to against the Lakeland outfit.

Scouts Out of Luck.

Neither will those scouts who attend the Duke-Mercer tilt at Macon get fat on what they see. Jimmy Dehart, the Duke coach, is pointing to the University of Pittsburgh next week and has indicated he will play almost a sophomore team against Lake Russell's S. I. A. A. Bears.

Tennessee will make its first 1929 start against Centre at Knoxville with Captain Howard Johnson, demon tackle, out of commission with a broken foot. Nevertheless, the Vols are expected to win almost as they please.

Bernie Bierman's Tulane Green Wave opens with Louisiana Normal at New Orleans. North Carolina takes on Wake Forest at Chapel Hill with a flock of regulars on the injured list. The Mississippi Aggies play Henderson-Brown at Starkville and Louisiana State entertains Louisiana College at Baton Rouge.

Powerful Attack.

Last week the Clemson Tigers flashed a powerful attack to rout Newberry, 68-0 and this week the followers of Josh Cody will attempt to carry on against the plucky Wildcats of Davidson college at Charlotte.

South Carolina, with Williams, a guard, on the casualty list, faces the Erskine Seceders at Columbia and the highly-regarded Crimson Tide of Alabama plays Mississippi college at Tuscaloosa.

The Georgia Bulldogs, figured one of the several mystery teams, must tackle an Oglethorpe eleven that has been pointing to the Georgia game for three weeks. This game will be played at Athens and in view of the coming of Yale two weeks hence, is attracting a lot of attention.

In the northern end of the conference, all four Virginia teams and the Maryland Old Liners will be busy.

Jackets Will Play Night Game Monday

Georgia Tech's night football practice has been postponed from Saturday afternoon until Monday afternoon.

Officials at Georgia Tech were eager to hold the scrimmage before officials of the Southern Conference who will meet here and it was for this reason that the practice was postponed. Through a mistake in dates it was announced that the conference heads would meet on Saturday. It was later discovered that Monday was the date.

The practice scrimmage will begin at 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at Grant Field with the field illuminated with the battery of 48 lights. Tech is the only university in the south with equipment which illuminates the entire stadium as well as the field. Night games will be played by Tech in 1930. Probably the first two or three on the schedule will be played with the starting hour set at 5:30 o'clock.

A number of southern institutions have athletes whose eligibility will be considered at the meeting of the conference heads on Monday. There is no question of rule violations coming up—merely some technical points to be decided.

LaGrange Defeats Five Points, 6 to 0

LaGrange, Ga., September 27.—LaGrange High opened its football schedule this afternoon with a 6-to-0 victory over Five-Points (Ala.) High.

The locals made repeated gains and kept the ball deep in the visitors' territory throughout the game. LaGrange carried the ball to Five-Points' one-yard line four times, but each time fumbles stopped the march.

For LaGrange, E. Whittin, Frosolono, Harris and Harmon were outstanding. Saunders, Finney and Haddox starred for Five-Points.

The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

Not Quite Yet.

They will be coming soon enough, sooner than many leading universities would like to have them come, but this date in football seems to be a trifle early for the annual upsets to break out in a rash. Any number of big teams take a pot shot at some humbler opponent this afternoon and there is hardly a possibility that any one of them will be bowled over.

Yet Stanford has the toughest sort of a game with the Olympic Club of San Francisco and West Virginia found that Davis-Elkins was no part of a cripple a year ago. The Olympic Club, made up of former stars, is stronger than usual this season and even a strong Stanford team will have a busy afternoon.

The Army meets Boston University and the Navy tackles Denison and there is no great trouble ahead for the two service teams in this menu, as far as one can see.

It will be different quite soon. Within two weeks more than tall pine or rugged oak of the gridiron will be lying low, cut down unexpectedly.

Michigan takes on a double header, but neither Albion nor Mt. Union is expected to arrive with any concealed packages or TNT.

What Is An Upset?

In many of these so-called upsets the better team wins, at least the better team for that afternoon, which is the one that counts.

An upset is merely the defeat of the popular favorite by some one who may be stronger but not so well known. This matter of publicity has a lot to do with football upsets, and practically all other matters connected with football. There's nothing like being in the neighborhood of a publicity center. As Mr. Gray almost said:

"Full many a star of purest ray serene
The unknown, unsung colleges may bear;
Full many a Grange is born to run unseen

Greater General Interest.

There will be greater general interest in football this season all around the country than ever before. Too many sections interlock to let local interest have too much sway. Notre Dame will occupy the headlines in nine different cities, east, west and south. Florida is coming to Harvard and Harvard is moving to Michigan. California is coming to Pennsylvania and the Army is going to California for another crack at Stanford. When you have Oregon moving to Miami the tour of the Covered Wagon looks like a stop around the next corner.

Somebody ought to be able to prove something in the way of an inter-sectional argument before it is all over, but probably not to the satisfaction of any particular section that isn't the favored one. Football has a habit of working the human soul into something approaching a frenzy, where much of the outward peering is done through red mists. Which is well enough, as an emotional debauch is at times a fine clearing house.

One of the great difficulties is giving something like 300 football teams a flock of prominent mentioning in the space of six or seven weeks.

Playing Out the Schedules.

The two major leagues have now spent the better part of a month going through the act of playing out two schedules that were practically over around Labor Day.

This has been rather an unusual case, but even so there is always too much wasted space near the end of the season. More action should be crowded into less time. It doesn't help the cause of baseball a lot to have the word get around that many major league teams for weeks have been playing to 300 or 400 fans. Or less.

No baseball schedule should run beyond the final week in September. When you figure the training season opens late in February and the pennant season starts in April, late September is quite long enough to hold any general public interest.

World Series Interest.

World series interest, in spite of the delayed start, will be up to past standards and perhaps a trifle beyond because there is a new deal, new teams and both have been strong enough to almost wreck their pennant races.

The tradition connected with Connie Mack will also help out the sentimental side. And it so happens that both lineups have more than a normal share of star ball players with national reputations.

In this list are Hornsby, Cuyler, Foxx, Hack Wilson, Simmons, Grove and Cochrane. Also Stephenson.

MARIST DOWNS RUSSELL, 7-0, ON MUDDY GRID

Bean Boys March 55 Yards in Second Quarter To Score.

By Roy White.

Marist College opened the 1929 prep football season Friday afternoon on the rain-soaked Spiller field with a well-earned 7-to-0 victory over Russell High.

Marist scored the only touchdown of the game early in the second quarter following a succession of end runs and line plunges intermingled with two forward passes.

Marist made 12 first downs against five for Russell High but failed to make them count with the exception of the first part of the second quarter. Four of the first downs were made in succession and resulted in the touchdown.

Russell fought much harder in the second half and played Marist on even terms. A long Russell forward pass was intercepted by Van Houten, Marist quarterback, who ran it back 50 yards but was overtaken by a Russell High back. Marist failed to make the first down and punted back to midfield.

MARIST STARS.

Van Houten, May and Hancock were the shining lights in the Marist backfield while Ogle, Harrison and DeGive played good ball in the line. The end running of Van Houten and his interference was a bright feature of the game. He also made the most spectacular play of the game when he intercepted a forward pass in the fourth quarter and ran it back 50 yards before being overtaken.

The entire line, particularly Callahan at tackle, played good football for the losers. Time after time the line held Marist for downs, only to lose possession of the ball on a fumble. The Russell High line bore the brunt of the burden in the first quarter and its good work prevented a Marist touchdown as play was under the shadow of the East Point goal during the entire quarter.

In the first quarter Marist had a decided advantage due to two recovered fumbles but lacked scoring punch and lost the ball on the five-yard line due to a strong Russell High line. In the second quarter Marist received the ball on its own 45-yard line and drove through to a touchdown. Two first downs were made on well executed line plays. Another first down resulted from a long end run by Van Houten. A forward pass was good for another.

TOUCHDOWN.

Marist was not to be denied this time and off tackle bucks by May, Van Houten and Hancock placed the ball on the seven-yard line. Two line bucks carried the ball to the one-yard line and Holt, who had been substituted for Hancock, on a delayed tackle buck carried the ball across for the touchdown. He again bucked it across for the extra point.

In the third quarter both teams played on even terms and fumbling was frequent on both sides. A slight drizzle made play slow and the ball was hard to handle.

Again in the fourth quarter play was not as spectacular as in the first half. The Russell High line was holding much better and the backs were hanging on to the ball, but could make no headway through the two lines. The long run was the only bright spot of the quarter.

The lineups:

MARIST (7)	Pos.	RUSSELL (0)
Stephens	l.e.	Wood
DeGive	l.t.	Callahan
Harrison	l.g.	Bell
Murray	c.	Fisher

Hug Gained Peak In Giant Victory

Veterans of Baseball Recall Hug During Days He Was One of Hardest in Game.

By Bozeman Bulger,
Friend and Confidant of Miller Huggins.
(Copyright, 1929, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

This is the second of a series of six consecutive articles which are telling the dramatic life story of Miller Huggins, a famous manager of the New York Yankees, who died yesterday. The writer of this biography was Huggins' close friend, this friendship giving him a knowledg eof Huggins which makes the series of extraordinary interest.

New York, September 27.—The high spot in the career of Miller Huggins—his moment of proudest achievement—was in 1923, when he beat the Giants for the world's championship. It meant tenfold more to him than beating either the Pirates or the Cardinals four straight games in later years.

Twice Huggins had won the pennant with the Yanks, only to be beaten in the big series by the Giants, their keen local rivals. These losses bore down on Huggins severely. But with a brave smile he tried to pass them off as mere fortunes of war. They were hard blows, nevertheless.

"Do you think you can win this time?" I asked Huggins when the Giants and the Yanks lined up for a third time.

"We ought to," he replied. "We've got the better club and I think McGraw knows it. The only thing we've got to lick is psychology. The one thing the Giants have got to beat, and may not realize it, is the law of averages."

Huggins was a firm believer in laws of nature and philosophy. For a while he would not explain his rather cryptic remark. He was saving a full discussion of it for his players.

"You know," he later elucidated, "it is not in the cards for a hitting team like the Yanks to be held down to a team batting average of something like 171. Under the law of averages that is bound to change. Those well-fixed laws are not mere guesswork.

Psychology.

"The players have agreed with me, and their frame of mind is now a big factor. Call it psychology, or what you will, but when a team no longer feels itself licked in advance it is 50 per cent stronger in fact."

To make the idea sink in, Hugins called a meeting of his players, and without any bombast he went into the matter carefully, encouraging all of them to give their views.

Before that he had heard Charley O'Leary say the psychology thing was all bunk so far as the club was concerned.

"They know now that the Giant outfit has nothing on them," Charley said.

"Right then," Hug told me, "I felt we had them licked. I went home very happy. After getting expressions from Babe Ruth, Sam Jones, Joe Bush and others I had a strong idea that old psychology was down for the count."

Hug Checks.

Then Huggins began figuring reverse psychology. He had carefully worked out McGraw's system, and in checking up with the batters he knew the Giant pitchers had used virtually nothing but curve balls in the two previous series.

"I don't believe Barnes pitched anything but a curve," Ruth told him. "It was curve, curve, curve."

"Because it worked McGraw drove home the system," Huggins said. "I don't know of anybody who will drive home an attack and keep it rolling more steadily than McGraw. That's what makes him a great manager. Once he discovers the weak spot in an opponent he never lets up on it."

Whereupon Huggins brought his knowledge of psychology into play.

Try It Again.

"As McGraw has won twice with the curve ball system," Huggins figured, "he'll try it again."

The Yank manager told his players to expect nothing but curve balls, and to prepare themselves accordingly. In batting practice he had them hitting at curves continuously. Nothing else!

Bob Meusel was particularly eager to get a cut at a curve ball in a pinch, Huggins later told a group of us, and it so happened that he hit one to win the series.

The night of that victory was the proudest in the life of Huggins. He felt that his plans had worked according to calculation.

Great Mind.

Huggins was always a great admirer of McGraw as a field general, and McGraw considered him one of the keenest minds in baseball, even when Huggins was a player. They had many battles of wits while playing in the National league, and knew each other's mental trend pretty well.

"In trying to outthink men like McGraw and Connie Mack," Huggins often observed, "you'se simply got to figure on what the smartest man in baseball would do under given circumstances and act accordingly. You may rest assured that they will be sizing you up just as keenly."

Huggins enjoyed these mental moves and counter moves, much as a chess player gets a kick out of trying to probe the brain of his opponent. He was convinced firmly that in the long run intelligent leadership would tell, provided the playing material was of equal class.

Good Ones Last.

"You can pull most anything on a green or slow-thinking fellow," he used to say, "but you've got to watch your step against a wise old bird. Intelligent leadership is the deciding factor over a long pull. If you don't think so just go back over the records. Good managers last longer than good teams."

It is surprising how many of the modern fans do not remember Huggins as a player. It is hard to understand how anyone who had seen him play could ever forget that little shrimp of a lead-off batter for the Reds, who gave the pitcher about 18 inches of space in which to pitch. All the time the pitcher knew Huggins was trying to force him into a hole. Miller had an eye like an eagle, was rarely upset and virtually never deceived.

Johnny Evers and Huggins started in the big league as players the same year—1904, I think—and both became managers in 1913. Huggins went to the Cardinals and Evers led Chicago.

"The first time I met Huggins face to face," Evers said to me two days ago, "I slid into second and he thought I had purposely spiked him. He didn't

CRACKER HEAD TO OPPOSE JOE AS DIRECTOR

Claims Washington Management Did Not Treat Him Fairly.

Rell J. Spiller, president of the Atlanta Baseball Club, said last night that he would oppose the election of Joe Engel to the board of directors in the Southern league in the event Engel purchased the Chattanooga club.

Spiller's hostility dates back to last spring when the Washington club officials: Joe Engle, scout; Clark Griffith, president, and Eddie Eynon, secretary, appeared in Atlanta and purchased the Atlanta club. The purchase was later repudiated.

Washington officials claimed that Spiller could not deliver the club with the assurance that the new owners would be welcome in the Southern association. Griffith also asserted that he had discovered that District of Columbia law forbade the purchase of stock in another state by any corporation in the District.

Spiller claimed damages and threatened suits and injunctions. None of them materialized.

"I will oppose Engle's election to the board of directors," he said last night. "I do not think they have done me right about the matter. If they can buy that club they can buy mine. I believe Tom Watkins (Memphis president) will vote with me. If he does that will keep Engle off the board. Friday night Watkins refused to make a statement.

Engle will probably have no trouble except from the Atlanta owner. He is buying at Chattanooga as an individual. The Washington club is not officially connected with the purchase. He will not likely meet any opposition from Watkins, his veto of the Atlanta sale being based on opposition to major league ownership.

Hitch Develops At Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 27. (AP)—Sale of the Chattanooga Baseball Club was all but closed here tonight when the contract was drawn up and all details agreed to but not actually signed. Joe Engle, Washington scout, announced he would take the document back to Washington to be signed.

Engle and E. B. Eynon, Jr., secretary and treasurer of the Washington Club, announced they would leave Sunday morning.

The hitch in the deal developed when Engle failed to secure local capital to build a new grand stand at Andrews field, one of the conditions in the sale contract. That necessitated finding the money elsewhere, and Engle, it is understood, turned to Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators.

Annual Football Show Makes Nationwide Premier Today

Several Big Fellows May Be Surprised, Defeated by Nightfall.

By Alan Gould,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

New York, September 27.—(AP)—With the debate still on over the latest heavyweight punch and the world's series yet in the conversational stage, Old Man Football leaps into action tomorrow to further complicate the sport scene.

It will mark the first general rush of the major teams across the gridirons from coast to coast. Though light skirmishes are forecast for the most part, the big fellows will have an opportunity to display their stuff in actual combat, with the chance that some of them may find unexpected opposition from the little fellows.

BIG THREE IDLE.

Major conference teams north, south, east and west will figure in tomorrow's play with a few exceptions, including the old eastern big three, Harvard, Yale and Princeton, and six members of the Big Ten—Michigan, Ohio State, Northwestern, Chicago, Minnesota and the championship Illinois eleven. These aggregations make their debut next Saturday, October 5, but the warfare is on a widespread scale otherwise.

All the Pacific Coast conference teams, all members of the Southwestern conference and 20 of the 23 Southern conference outfits are slated to play, but the Big Six of the Missouri valley area, where Nebraska is the present ruler, have another week of practice. Georgia Tech, which had the best claim of any to national championship honors last year, is one of the few southern elevens making a belayed getaway.

The east has not much prospect of early excitement although there will be interest in the opening exploits of the Army's all-American, Red Cagle, as the Cadets take on Boston university. The Navy meets a little foe from Ohio, Denison university. West Virginia was upset last year by Davis and Elkins but is not likely to be caught napping again. Syracuse has an eastern innovation in its night game with Hobart.

Grid Opening Brings Fans' Best Worrying

By Ben Cothran.

They should call it the day of doubt, this Saturday when the football teams begin to play their part in the annual fall disturbance.

This is going to be what is commonly known as "one of those days." Football teams will be hauled out on gridirons from one end of the land to the other for first performances, with millions of eyes anxiously watching them.

It is now an established fact with the fan in the street that the day of the set-up is almost gone. Opening day games are getting to be as important as any tiff in mid-November with a rival of many years' standing.

Opening-day is rapidly becoming a day of worry. Next to a football coach, who can worry himself gray headed in one-quarter, Joe Alumnus can worry more over one football team than an international committee on disarmament.

If a 200-pound tackle has had his great toe stepped upon two weeks before the opener, he worries about that and wants points when the talk shifts around to wagering.

So they'll be sitting up there this afternoon watching and waiting for the worst. Biting fingernails, sliding up and down the seat, stepping on people's toes.

TIME TO WORRY.

It is a time to worry. Nowadays you can't get knocked off but once. When you do, you're out of it. They're all patting the boys on the back that come through undefeated and each year one of the team manages to do it.

There'll be some first-class jobs of worrying done within the confines of the conference this afternoon. They held a caucus—the alumni did—over at Athens last night and got all organized for this afternoon when the sophomoric Bulldog goes out on Sanford field to play Oglethorpe.

Georgia has a tough schedule and an inexperienced team that holds out prospects of being a good one. It's a certainly going to be a good one in 1930. But this is 1929 and there is Yale to be played, not to mention Tulane, Florida, Alabama and Tech among other tough ones.

IMPRESSIONABLE SOPHS.

And sophomores being young and impressionable, they have figured that the result of this afternoon's game means everything. They figure that defeat will wreck them for the year and that victory will send them right up there. Perhaps that's true, but there'll be a large amount of worrying before either result is obtained.

Up in Nashville Vandy and Ole Miss are sticking their heads out for the other to knock off. Coach Hazel is intent upon stopping the Commodores and the Commodores must stop Ole Miss. A season's happiness depends upon it.

All over the country they are perturbed. It's a part of the game and your average football follower enjoys it, although he doesn't know it.

Hicks Vanquishes Glenna Collett

Ancaster, Ont., September 27.—(AP) Helen Hicks, long-driving New York girl, marched into the final round of the Canadian women's open golf championship today and left by the wayside Glenna Collett, United States champion.

The 19-year-old Long Island star outlasted the American champion in a thrilling 20-hole match and will meet Edith Quier of Reading, Pa., in a final round tomorrow. Miss Quier eliminated Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, 2 and 1, in the other semi-final round match.

The downfall of Miss Collett, coming as it did on the eve of her defense of the United States championship at Detroit next week, was a shock to golfdom. Although Miss Hicks has been playing sensational golf for the last few months, few believed she could halt Miss Collett's march toward her third Canadian crown.

As a mater of fact the United States championship appeared a certain winner as late as the 13th hole, when Miss Hicks was 3 down. The Long Island girl, however, never quiet trying and an amazing 33 on the incoming nine enabled her to square the match and then to win it on the second extra hole with a four to Miss Collett's five.

The Carlyles.

Cleo and Roy Carlyle, outfielders, are making merry with the pitchers of the Pacific Coast league. Both are hitting over .350.

Ferrell Compared.

JACKETS GET LONG SESSION IN MUD, RAIN

"B" Team Given Scrimmage as Varsity Is Sent Through Paces.

By Herb Clark.

With weather conditions making anything else impossible, Tech got first-hand knowledge Friday afternoon in the handling of a wet, slippery football on a muddy field.

Alexander sent the varsity through a long session of punting, passing, kicking off and running with the ball. The Jackets got along exceptionally well in their work and handled the ball as though they had worked in the mud all their lives.

The rest of the Yellow Jacket squad scrimmaged and make a very good showing.

Bud Weatherford, Sam Colvin, Gene Hauck, and Pat Barron composed the offensive backfield and though they slipped and skidded in the mud and wet, they were usually traveling in the right direction. The play of the offensive line was also good.

ALEX CHOOSES.

On the defensive, Coach Bill Alexander picked and chose till he had evolved what he thought was the right combination. It was essentially the "B" team which had the field in Thursday's work. The work of the firm of Fincher and Millians, was indeed gratifying. Each was prone to slip away from where he was and bob up at the spot occupied by the ball. And each stopped many a play in which he had no real right to have a part.

Friday's session was naturally light for the varsity squad which scrimmaged Thursday. It is expected to take the field in this afternoon's scrimmage, which will start at 2:30, the night session having been postponed until Monday.

Cain Stars in Rat Scrimmage.

Kid Clay, mentor-in-chief of the Junior Jackets, sent his charges through their second scrimmage of the season on their half of the Rose Bowl field Friday afternoon.

The Jacket frosh had it hot and heavy back and forth over the sward, with the first string squad on the offensive during the entire session, pushing to touchdowns almost at will.

Led by Tom Cain, the Bucking Broncho of the Texas plains, the frosh varsity hammered and passed to gain after gain. Cain carried the ball almost exclusively on split bucks, ripping the defensive line to ribbons and slipping around the secondary for nice runs.

McArthur, the triple threat man from Chattanooga, was also stepping in the backfield, as were Bomans and Argo. Argo, weighing but 155 pounds, is a fullback with much the same drive as Bo Read had in past years. He is also a good broken-field runner, shifty, fast, and a quick thinker.

Mac Tharpe's find, a 258-pound tackle named Moore, also showed well in the scrimmage. Moore has had no previous grid experience, but has learned fast and is expected to prove valuable.

Phillies To Train At Winter Park

Winter Haven, Fla., September 27.—(AP)—The Philadelphia National league baseball team will come here next spring for its third annual training season in Winter Haven, according to word received here by Secretary G. F. Sampson, of the Chamber of Commerce from President W. F. Baker, of the Philadelphia club.

Boys To Honor Rogers Hornsby

Chicago, September 27.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby will receive a "most valuable player" trophy.

The award will be given the Cub second baseman by members of the American Boys' Commonwealth, who put together their dimes and nickels to purchase a silver plaque. The Rajah was voted the most valuable player, receiving 319 out of 894 votes. Hack Wilson was second with 152, with Riggs Stephenson, Charlie Root, Kiki Cuyler, Charlie Grimm, Zach Taylor, Woody English and Guy Bush all receiving support.

Time Extended In Muny Meet

Qualifying rounds in the annual city municipal golf tournament have been extended through this morning and all first round matches are scheduled to be played this afternoon. The announcement of the extended time was made Friday night by J. C. Jackson, professional at the course.

Rain has prevented many players from entering the tournament and the limit has been extended twice in order to allow more entries. Eighteen holes in the qualifying rounds can be played this morning and every entry is requested to communicate with Jackson of Ivy 8948 at noon or be at the course by 1 o'clock in order to complete the first round today.

Second round matches will be played Sunday and semi-finals and finals will be played next week, at the convenience of the players. All flights will be formed with eight players and prizes will be given to the medalist, winner, and runners-up in each flight.

Minnich Wins, 5-4.

Bill Minnich defeated Dr. Armstron, 5-4, Friday afternoon over the Capital City Club course in the semi-finals of the third flight of the annual president's tournament. Minnich will play M. B. Crosby Monday afternoon for the flight honors.

Rome High Beats Commercial, 33-0

Rome, Ga., September 27.—Rome High school defeated Commercial High, of Atlanta, 33 to 0, here this afternoon on a rain-soaked gridiron, in the opening of the local football schedule.

A feature of the game was the line play of Rome High. Bowman and Tyson played well in the Rome line and Sandiford and Davis played best for the losers.

Marion Wins, 1-0 When Foe Forfeits

Marion, Ala., September 27.—The Thomasville Alabama All-Stars forfeited to Marion institute Cadets here this afternoon, 1 to 0. The Thomasville gridsters failed to make their appearance in a scheduled game here.

Coach Williams staged a game between the scrubs and varsity after the visiting team failed to show up. The varsity won, 27 to 0, and showed much improvement since the Howard game. The Cadets play in Montgomery Thursday night.

CRIMSON TIDE OPENS SEASON WITH CHOCTAWS

Suther and Bush Out as Alabama Starts for Heights.

University, Ala., September 27.—Alabama's Crimson Tide lashed through a light final workout Friday in anticipation of Saturday's battle with the Mississippi Choctaws.

The Wademen showed plenty of pep and go when they trotted through their first signal drill on the new Denny stadium field.

Only two Tidemen, Jeff Bush and John Suther, are entirely unavailable for service in Saturday's game. Bush, reserve back, is out with a dislocated shoulder, and Suther, whose injuries have achieved southwide notoriety, apparently is out of play for the season.

The Choctaws came in town late today and ran signals on the new field.

Alabama's probable starting line-up will be: Hicks, Holm, Campbell and McRight in the backfield; Moore and Elmore at the flanks; Sington and Whitworth at the tackles; Miller and Howard, guards, and Sharpe or Eberdy at center.

Injured Tarheels Meet Wake Forest

Chapel Hill, N. C., September 27.—With two of their injured right guards swathed in head bandages and back in togs, the Tarheel football men today concluded with a light drill their training program for the game tomorrow with the Wake Forest mystery team. The kickoff will be at 2:30 o'clock. The injury jinx this week took four right guards in a row.

Ellis Crew, 187-pound reserve, has been shifted from left to right guard and will start tomorrow. If he comes through he'll stay. Otherwise the coaches will send into the game the bandage-swathed Bud Eskew and Jimmy Hudson, both veterans.

Fulton, Griffin Play to 0-0 Tie

Griffin, Ga., September 27.—Griffin and Fulton High, of Atlanta, played a scoreless tie this afternoon in the opening game of the season. Neither team got within the other's 25-yard line, a defensive game being played throughout. The Fulton quarterback was the big star for the visitors and Shivers and McKneely starred for Griffin. The game had to be played at the East Griffin park due to the heavy rains that had made a sea of mud out of the high school field here.

'Gators Engage Southern Today

The University of Florida 'Gators will meet Southern college's Moccasins in the first game of the season.

Today was the second successive day rain postponed the 'Gator squad practice on Fleming field. Coach Charlie Bachman used the gymnasium for light drills.

The Moccasins arrived tonight from Ocala, where they stopped off en route from Lakeland, to indulge in a light workout. They were serenaded by the Florida student body, led by the university band.

Florida is favored to win tomorrow's contest, but Bachman is insisting that his outfit not become over-confident. He will open the game with his shock troops, or second team on the field, a method he usually employs, and which proved fairly successful last season when his outfit ran up the surprising total of 326 points to lead the nation.

"Red" McEwen will be in the signal calling post for the opening part of the game and crafty Clyde Crabtree probably will relieve him for the second half. Both teams are in great condition for the first fracas.

One-Hit Game.

In a game between Danville and Terre Haute the box score showed a total of only one hit. Al Grabowski, of Danville, allowed none while his opponent, Gliatto, yielded one.

EAST AWAITING OPENERS TO GET LINE ON STARS

Speculation Rife as To What Names Will Flourish.

United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, September 27.—Saturday's scheduled eastern football games are more than opening contests for many of the elevens. They are to give the first real indications of dinner table and brass rail topics for the fall and early winter season.

The east just now is woefully shy of football stars over which to rave or to belittle. The most that anybody has heard of many of the potential stars is based on the "canned" output of college publicity organizations. It will take at least one game to learn who may be the Ken Strongs and Howard Harpsters of the 1929 conversational circuit.

Of course, a lot of last year's stars are back with their respective elevens. Chris Cagle, of West Point, is one. Cagle is sure to be one of the brilliants of the season unless misfortunes are suffered. Princeton has Wittmer, who was a star of considerable sorts last fall. Harvard could use a brilliant back to advantage. Eliot Putnam, quarterback, may get the job.

N. Y. U. SEEKS STAR.

New York university drew so much publicity last year on account of Ken Strong that the Meehan Violets will want a successor. Early this fall the name of Beryl Follet was heard often and loudly. Follet, it was said, was to be Coach Meehan's one ace ball-toter. But that boom has drooped. The fans are certain, however, that if it isn't Beryl it will be somebody else, for Meehan builds his offense around one carrier, using his other backs for interference.

Dartmouth expected to see the name "Marsters of Dartmouth" in lots of headlines last fall, but the boy who had been such a brilliant the year before was sidelined because of hurts. Now he's fit and strong again, and his ears may burn this fall, figuratively, almost any hour of the day.

The conversational topic from New Haven will be Albie Booth, if what the boys who have paid their respects to Coach Mal Stevens know what they have set down.

Pennsy's Paul Scull of 1928 is gone. Penn has a flock of speedy backs and maybe one or two of them will do the correct thing by his school. Masters, Wilner and the somewhat fragile Dick Gentle have been early nominees.

AMATEUR TEAMS BATTLE TODAY

Whittier and Exposition Mills will meet at Almand Park Saturday afternoon for the amateur baseball championship of Atlanta, and incidentally settle the rivalry between the cotton mills out Chattahoochee way.

Whittier has had a season of mixed fortunes this year. The boys started out by losing every game in the first half of the City league. The team underwent a complete change and came back in the second half and won every game, tying with Grinnell for the City league title. In the playoff of the City league Whittier defeated Grinnell two out of three games and entered the city championship series. In this series Whittier defeated the A. H. Turner crowd and won the right to enter the fin'ls with Exposition.

Exposition Mills had a run of 13 straight victories in the Trammell Scott league, winning the pennant without a struggle. In the city series Exposition first defeated the Inman Park Cardinals, and then the Joy Class, champions of the Y. C. A. A.

The teams have selected "Tubby" Walton, Cousins, and Hanna to do the umpiring for this game.

The winning team will be presented with a huge silver loving cup which is on exhibition at Trammell Scott's store.

GA. FACING TEST TODAY

Martin, McLaughlin, Woodward, Milton and Fox, with the aid of Sypert, Meyer, Anderson, Boone, Appling, Gardner and Selman, who are the sophomore backs, ready to enter the battle at any time.

The line has proved, during the scrimmages of the last week, that it is capable of performing effectively on a wet field. In big Asa Wall and Harold Coffee the Petrels have two tackles that pass the 200-pound mark and should be able to give anything that Georgia has to offer plenty of trouble. The guard positions are taken care of by Curley Fulton and Hoke Bell, both veteran linemen. At the wings are Goldsmith and McKissick. McKissick played fullback last season, but has recently been made into an end and has been performing at this position like an oldtimer. Goldsmith is the only sophomore that has found his way into the first string line. The physical condition of the squad is excellent. There is only one man on the injured list and that is David Therell, who is out with an injured hip. Therell's hip is coming along nicely and he may see service before the 60-minutes has elapsed.

Bulldog Work Light.

Athens, September 27.—Coach Harry Mehre and his Georgia Bulldogs are ready for the opening act in the University of Georgia 1929 football drama. The Georgia head mentor and his assistant, Coach Frank Thomas, have led their men through four weeks of hard training, and feel that they are ready for the opening game with Oglethorpe tomorrow.

The work this afternoon was light, and for the first time this week did not call for a scrimmage. Signal drill took up most of the practice and the rest of the time was used in punting and practicing kicking the extra point. In the game tomorrow Davidson or Vernon Smith will probably be called upon to do the punting against the Petrels. Both were booting them long and high today. Smith especially was getting good distance.

Theodore Frisbie is the only player on the casualty list. The big Georgia tackle is rapidly recovering from a dislocated shoulder and is expected to be ready for action against Furman a week from tomorrow. Jack Roberts, plunging sophomore fullback, is back in action and will probably see service in the opening game.

At the half Auburn threw in its pony backfield, Tamplin L. Young, Yarborough and Prim. Forney Yarborough comes from Atlanta. He is the son of Forney Yarborough of the Auburn team of 1899, 1900, 1901, and they still tell of the senior Yarborough's prowess at the city of the plains.

Tony Canzoneri Takes Denver Lad

Chicago Stadium, Chicago, September 27.—(United News.)—Tony Canzoneri, the smiling little New York Italian, scored a technical knockout over Eddie Mack, Denver's fighting collegian, before a packed house here tonight.

The fight ended in the eighth round when Canzoneri got inside Mack's left hand with a series of rights and lefts to the jaw. Mack went down but refused to stay there despite his grogginess. He got up without taking a count and his dazed condition caused Referee Phil Collins to stop the fight.

New Chances.

Despite the lively ball there are more young pitchers ready for advancement in the South Atlantic than the league can remember in any other season.

ARGUMENT OVER SHARKEY RAGES

New York, September 27.—(AP)—The thrills that come when Sailor John Sharkey rages through a ring firing leather held a hangover thrill today for 42,879 of the faithful who paid $320,355.26 last night to see the Boston bomber knock out Tommy Loughran.

Wherever fandom gathered arguments arose as to what happened to Loughran in the third round when a terrific punch dropped him for a count of five but let him rise and lose on a technical knockout while standing senseless in a neutral corner gazing smilingly out in the astounded crowd. With Sharkey back home again in Boston, only Tommy himself could offer authoritative testimony and he hadn't the faintest idea of what actually happened.

Tommy did know, however, that he must start all over again in his quest of heavyweight honors, while Sharkey, now a $100,000 fighter," can wait until next March at Miami, Fla., to make his bid for the title Gene Tunney discarded. Loughran, despite his defeat, will be given a chance to redeem himself and will box either Phil Scott, the giant Briton; Jimmy Maloney, of Boston, or Otto Von Porat, the Chicago clouter, in the Garden November 22.

The elimination rounds to find Sharkey's opponent also will include Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City youngster now waging war in sensational fashion, and any other leading heavyweights who want action. Tuffy will box an opponent not yet selected in the Garden November 18 to start the ball rolling. Max Schmeling, the German who whipped Paulino Uzcudun, will not be sought unless he voluntarily returns from Europe and settles his difficulties with various boxing commissions.

Sharkey signed a contract for the Miami match when he agreed to terms for last night's go. Because of the high value now placed on his services he will not box at the Garden this winter.

Loughran, far from discouraged, will not return to the light-heavyweight division, where he retired as champion.

like me for a long time, but we later came to be good friends.

"Let me tell you something." Evers went on. "Huggins was a remarkable player. Despite the handicap of his size—he didn't weigh over 120—he could bump into big fellows and get away with it. He was as good a second-baseman as ever lived at making double plays.

"On the bases he was a wizard. He always got a big start on the pitcher and came into second like a shot. Huggins didn't know what fear was. He had the mind of a great manager when he was a young player. He did most of the thinking for the infield and in an attack."

Rabbit Listens.

An interested listener to this talk by Evers was Rabbitt Maranville. They had both just come from the shower, and their skins still sparkled with drops of water.

"You've forgotten the one thing that made Huggins famous—his strong point," said Maranville.

"What's that?"

"Bases on balls," replied the Rabbit. "He could think up more ways of getting on that base than anybody in my time. He'd get on two or three times a game. He made those pitchers so careful that when they did put one in the slot he would hit it. Yes, and he could hit, too."

Toughest Hurler.

Huggins always said the toughest pitcher he ever had to face was Howard Camnitz; the easiest, Joe McGinnity.

"That's funny, too," Huggins used to say, "because I always regarded McGinnity as one of the greatest pitchers in the world. Somehow, though, I always felt I could hit him, and that's probably why I did. Now Camnitz was not such a great pitcher as McGinnity, and yet I couldn't hit him to save my life."

Huggins also had good hitting luck against Mathewson, but he said that was largely because he felt so easy and free at the bat, knowing Matty would never hit him.

"Cousins."

Always Huggins took keen interest in discussing what the players call the "cousins" of baseball. Nearly every batter has some particular pitcher he can hit with ease, even though that pitcher may be a wizard against all others. They call these pitchers their "cousins."

"It's all psychology," Huggins maintained. "A batter picks himself out a 'cousin' in some game and becomes so strongly confirmed in the relationship—in his mind—that he keeps right on hitting him. The thought affects both batter and pitcher."

(Next: Development of players, among them Rogers Hornsby, who started out with Huggins, and Huggins' aversion to umpires.)

VANDY MEETS OLE MISS

a sophomore, is playing one tackle and Dick Abernathy, an end last fall, is at the other. He has Pat Kerwin, another sophomore, at one of the flanks. Roy Gibson is the other end. He is a holdover from the 1928 list of reserves.

With that layout your Uncle Daniel hopes to fool around and stop Homer Hazel's line attack. He then hopes to fool around and get over a touchdown or so. Leonard, a Nashville boy, is a natural halfback with a lot of fine footwork and the like. Parker is another good running back. These two will carry the offensive burden.

It has been raining in Nashville but the reports declared clear weather in the bag for Saturday.

No, sir, the conference has never seen a show like this. By tonight one of the boys will be sitting on the outside looking on the inside. And October is still a few days away.

This game is the greatest gamble yet. Oh, my, yes.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN — No. 36

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Fierce and terrible was the battle that followed. Terrified at sight of a black man and a white fighting in company with a panther and huge, fierce apes, the savages at last were slain or put to flight. All but one fellow, who fell a prisoner into the hands of Tarzan. To him the ape-man promised liberty in return for information about Rokoff and his party.

The cowardly Rokoff's men appeared to have more fear of the giant white man and his strange companions than even the blacks themselves. The last that had been seen of them they were paddling strongly upstream intent upon escaping the Beasts of Tarzan. So once more Tarzan of the Apes, with his hideous pack, took up his search for the ape-man's son and the pursuit of his abductor.

For weary days they followed through an almost uninhabited country. After the battle the little band had been reduced in numbers. Now, with Akut, there were but five great apes, and Sheeta was there—and Mugambi and Tarzan. The ape-man no longer even heard rumors of the three who had preceded Rokoff—the white man and the woman and child. Perhaps, already, they had perished, tragic victims of the terrible jungle.

The persisting hope that the child MIGHT be his was enough, however, to keep the ape-man hot upon the trail. And he was almost certain that Rokoff would be in similar pursuit. But nowhere along the way could he gain definite information. He held up every native he came across and submitted each one to a careful cross-examination. None had heard of the white woman and child, although nearly all had had dealing (to their sorrow!) with the Russian and his cruel band. The ape-man was puzzled.

Mark Twain, delightful American, is the hero of the dramatic sketch to be broadcast over WSB and the WEAF coast-to-coast network this evening at 7 o'clock. This will be the fourth in the series of Lyric Famous Challenges, a series of which in its few weeks on the air has developed into one of the most arrestingly unusual in the history of radio drama.

No more familiar or inviting figure could be brought before the radio audience than the lovable personality of Mark Twain. His life, his manner, his works—all combine to produce a veritable challenge. As a writer, as a lecturer, as a human being in his way of life, he was always the wieldee of a challenge. Because his challenges were mostly clothed in kindly fashion, they were noe the less real, as many commentators who nowadays devote themselves to biography, have discovered.

The father of Huckleberry Finn, the man who always dressed in white, the author who smoked 30 cigars a day and his writing while in bed; he challenged critics, doctors, arbiters of etiquetet and all sorts of mass-institutions. The sketch of him for the radio public should go over with a bang.

TELEVISION USED FOR DIAGNOSIS ACROSS OCEAN

Buenos Aires, September 27.—(United News.)—Diagnosis by television and consultation by means of radio telephone have been accomplished between here and Berlin, opening new vistas for trans-Atlantic cooperation between medical and surgical specialists.

Pictures of the eyes of a young Berlin man suffering from kidney disease were transmitted by radio to Dr. Castex, noted optical surgeon, by Dr. Lijo Pavia, Argentine expert in Berlin.

Then, when Pavia took up the receiver to outline the history of the case by radio telephone, Dr. Castex told him it would not be necessary as he had seen enough to agree with the diagnosis of Berlin specialists. The history was given him, however, and the two men consulted briefly.

The transmission of pictures and the history of the case, together with the diagnosis, took only 27 minutes.

BUILDING OF BIG WIRELESS TOWERS BEGUN IN FLORIDA

West Palm Beach, Fla., September 27.—(AP)—Construction of the Mackay Radio and Telephone Company wireless station, which the builders claim will be the largest station between New York and South America, has begun near Jupiter, Fla., it was announced today.

The plant is to include towers 300 feet high and 900 feet apart. The builders claim that reinforced concrete foundations and all steel work will insure construction guaranteed to withstand any coastal storm.

SOLON'S DAUGHTER TO BECOME BRIDE OF CONGRESSMAN

Washington, September 27.—(AP)—Announcement was made here today of the engagement of Miss Alva Seger, daughter of Representive and Mrs. George N. Seger, of Passaic, N. J., to Frederick H. Dominick, representative from South Carolina.

Representative Seger is president of the City Trust Company, of Passaic, and former mayor. Miss Seger was graduated from the Maryland College for Women.

The marriage will take place in Washington in December.

PERFECT RECORD SENDS STUDENTS TO SEE PRESIDENT

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 27.—(AP)—Sixty-four students of the Adult Night Schools, organized here to combat illiteracy, will leave on a trip to Washington, D. C., Saturday morning, the reward for perfect attendance. Local citizens subscribed a fund to pay all expenses of the one-time illiterates.

A visit with President Hoover at 12:45 Monday is the high light of the trip. The American Red Cross at the capital will have charge of the entertainment of the Chattanooga visitors. The address of welcome to the visitors will be delivered by Judge John Barton Payne. Senators McKellar and Brock, of Tennessee, and Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, director of the national literary crusade, will also speak.

The party will be led by Hamilton county school officials.

SIX CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH IN FARM HOME

Danforth, Me., September 27.—(AP)—Six children, ranging in age from two to eight years, were burned to death today when fire destroyed the farm home of Llellyn Munsey in West Danforth.

The house was on the outskirts of Danforth. Early today the father of the family left for a nearby farm where he was engaged in potato picking. Shortly afterwards Mrs. Munsey, after lighting the kitchen stove, left for her work at a neighboring house and the children were alone.

WAGGONER FILES NOT GUILTY PLEA TO FRAUD CHARGE

New York, September 27.—(AP)—Charles D. Waggoner, bank president of Telluride, Colo., today pleaded not guilty to a federal indictment charging mail fraud in connection with the manipulations by which he defrauded six New York banks of $500,000.

Waggoner, failing to raise the bail, was returned to the federal house of detention.

POWER OF PRESIDENT DEBATED IN SENATE

Vote on Hoover's Rights in Tariff Fight Is Expected.

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, September 27.—(AP)—With both sides claiming final victory, the controversial flexible provision of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was the storm center of senate debate today for another six hours.

The administration group wants to continue permitting the president to readjust tariff rates after investigation by the tariff commission, its gaunt spokesman, chairman of the finance committee, expects that policy to be upheld by a comfortable margin. He said he hoped to obtain a vote Monday, and believes at least six democrats will join the republican regulars in favor of the flexible principle favored by President Hoover.

As evidence that the minority and republican independents hope to bring about repeal of the clause, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee, said he was ready for a vote today but that Smoot asked for additional time.

New Line of Strategy.

Senator Simmons adopted a new line of strategy by opposing a substitute for the amendment he offered recently to repeal the flexible provisions. By it he hopes to have the first vote on his proposal instead of that offered by Senator Smoot, which would strike out the house language dealing with the subject and virtually restore that of the present law.

The difference between the two amendments is that Smoot's would continue to delegate the power to the president to change duties, while Simmons' would make the president merely the medium for transferring tariff commission reports to congress. The proposals also are at variance slightly with relation to commission procedure.

Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority leader, and Connally, democrat, Texas, led the opposition to the flexible provisions in the day's debate, while Senators Fess, Ohio, and Gillett, Massachusetts, republicans, spoke for the proponents.

Although doubting the wisdom of a president voicing his opinion of legislation pending in congress, the republican whip stoutly defended President Hoover's action in issuing a statement urging retention of the flexible principle in the bill.

He said he probably would have advised against the course had he been consulted, however.

Surprise, at, Least.

Fess also took cognizance of the assertion of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, that the unanimous decision of the supreme court upholding the constitutionality of the flexible tariff policy was a "surprise to say the least."

"Anyone who harangues against that decision by the supreme court will not get very far in the good opinion of the people," Fess maintained gravely.

Robinson denied the soundness of the argument that the flexible clause constituted a remedy for prompt correction between sessions of duties fixed by congress. He argued that the provision had never proved a quick method of providing emergency tariff relief and never would, so long as the basis used was the equalization of differences in cost of production.

The minority leader disagreed with Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, that the real issue before the senate was whether the flexible principle should be continued or a "slow and tedious process" of congress relied upon to provide quick duty changes when deemed necessary.

The constitution, Senator Connally contended, never intended that the president should exercise legislative power.

No Power of Taxation.

"It did not give him the power of taxation," he insisted. "The constitution refused to surrender that power 140 years ago. As a representative of the people I refuse to surrender it now."

He described the flexible provision as a "progression backward" instead of forward, as contended by Fess, who, he said was "usually in agreement with the White House."

Senator Gillett said that if the tariff commission had made a "few brilliant reports, correcting glaring defects" in the law, the present opposition probably would not be so vigorous.

"Some machinery," he argued, "is necessary to correct the inequalities inherent in every tariff law."

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, an opponent of the provision, suggested it might be possible to amend the law so that recommendations of the commission for increases or decreases should be made to congress—with the provision that no amendments to the law could be introduced except on the rate or rates in question, thus eliminating the possibility of "opening the door" to a general revision.

"I am inclined to acquiesce to that suggestion," Gillett said. "I am in favor of keeping the power in congress if results can be produced."

LIEUT. WILLIAMS, OF COAST GUARDS, DIES SUDDENLY

Mobile, Ala., September 27.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander William Williams, of the United States coast guard division at Stanford, Conn., dropped dead at a local hotel here today while he was on a three-month leave of absence.

Plane Flies Five Miles Minus Pilot

Havre, Mont., September 27.—(AP)—A small monoplane, which took off without a pilot, flew five miles and broke only a propeller in landing, is the chief topic of conversation among attaches of the Havre airport.

Clarence Hendrickson, student pilot, had some trouble starting the motor of the ship. He opened the throttle slightly, spun the prop, and the plane started down the field. Hendrickson dashed for the cabin and in attempting to close the throttle opened it wider. The plane darted away, leaving the pilot sprawled on the ground.

The small craft, airport attaches said, gained altitude, flew at least five miles, making several graceful banks, and landed in an open space adjacent to the airport.

MISS ROWBOTHAM TO BE INTRODUCED AT RECEPTION

Parents Will Entertain At Brookhaven Home, Oct. 23

Mrs. George Walter Rowbotham will introduce her debutante daughter, Miss Ruth Rowbotham, at a reception Wednesday afternoon, October 23, at Llwyn, her home on Brookhaven drive. Invitations will be issued to the married set of society, with the debutante coterie assisting in entertaining and including Misses Leila Mason, Myra Boynton, Peggy Poindexter, Littel Funkhouser, Grace Powell, Frances Howard, Helen Beasley, Frances Spalding, Boots Walker, Helena Callaway, Marion Wolff, Jane Dillion, Adair McCauley, Elizabeth and Mary Dodd, Lena Knox, Sarah Law, Phoebe Ellis, Frances Barnett, Catherine Howell, Catherine Norcross, Martha Worth Rogers, Augusta Porter, Boyce Lokey, Margaret Keiley, Betty Davison, Susette Heath and Elizabeth Branch. Sally Pearson, Adeline Winston, Eugenia Morris and Roalind Kress, of New York city. Mrs. W. P. Heath and D. P. McCarley, life-long friends of Mrs. Rowbotham, whose daughters, Misses Susette Heath and Adair McCauley are attractive members of the 1929-30 Debutante Club, and Mrs. Emerson Ham, of Bowdon, and Mrs. Charles F. Evans, sister of the hostess, will preside at the tea table.

After spending six years at Lasell seminary in Auburndale, Mass., Miss Rowbotham was graduated from this famous educational institution last June, returning thereafter to Atlanta to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rowbotham, whose only child she is, who had been in residence for several years in New Orleans, La., where they moved in exclusive social circles. She has had the cultural advantages of extensive travel, and besides having charm and blond beauty, she is endowed with graciousness of manner, poise and intellect, for Miss Rowbotham received her diploma as a first honor graduate in home economics at Lasell seminary. Sometime during the winter season, after the Christmas holidays are over here and Mardi Gras festivities begin in New Orleans, Miss Rowbotham will journey to that city, accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rowbotham, to make her coming-out bow among former friends in that city, who have signified their intention of entertaining in honor of this attractive Atlanta deb.

Pi Pi Club To Hold Meeting.

The Pi Pi Club meets Wednesday, October 2, with Miss Lula Corker at her home on Fairview road, at 3 o'clock. The officers are Misses Frances Boykin, president; Jane McMillan, vice president; Marguerite Anderson, secretary, and Frances Clarke, treasurer. The pledges are Misses Julian Boykin, Margaret Jones, Ruth Gayle, Edith Chapman, Dorothy Ewing and Laura Smith.

Miss Lena Knox Honors Miss Foote.

Miss Lena Knox was hostess yesterday at a bridge-luncheon at her home on Piedmont avenue, honoring Miss Sarah Foote, bride-elect. Miss Knox was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. Cecil Powell. The guests included Misses Foote, Augusta Porter, Marion Peacock, Hannah Sterne, Sarah Law, Frances Barnett, Boyce Lokey, Catherine Norcross and her guest, Miss Dorothy Strangewood, of Sylvester Ga.; Alice Gayle, Myra Boynton, Frances Howard, Martha Worth Rogers, Helena Callaway, Katherine Howell and Billie Johnson.

Miss Cooper Weds Mr. York In Athens, Ga.

Athens, Ga., September 27.—The wedding of Miss Lucile Cooper, of Athens, and James Walter York, of Atlanta, was solemnized last Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Gordon, on Harris street, the spacious living room where the guests assembled being artistic in decorations of ferns and lovely fall flowers. Rev. Stanley R. Grubb, pastor of the Christian church, officiated.

The bride was gowned in an ensemble of brown chiffon velvet. She is a young woman of gracious charm and unusual talents. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cooper, of Gainesville, Fla. Mr. York is connected in a responsible capacity with the Central of Georgia Railroad in Atlanta and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. York, of Marietta.

Mr. and Mrs. York will make their home at 1485 Gordon street, Atlanta, upon their return from a wedding trip through Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Mell Marchman, and Miss Wreathie Hunter, of Greensboro, Ga.

Oakhurst P.-T. A. To Present Play.

Oakhurst P.-T. A. will present the spectacular Mother Goose play, "The Wedding of Jack and Jill," in the school auditorium today, with a matinee at 2:30 o'clock and the evening performance at 8 o'clock. The famouse Mother Goose characters in their quaint costumes give a most colorful setting to the play. Music and dancing will be featured. One hundred children will take part. The play is ably directed by Mrs. Edwin Glenn Gilbert, professional dramatic coach. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Geo. L. Word, Jr., And Miss Greenaway To Wed in N. Y.

The wedding of Miss Gladys Greenaway, of Houston, Texas, to George L. Word, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y., formerly of Atlanta, will take place in New York city Saturday, October 5, at the Little Church Around the Corner, with the Rev. W. Harold Weigle officiating.

The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her brother, William Roy Greenaway. Mrs. Lester W. Coffin, of Rockville Centre, the bride-elect's sister, will be matron of honor. Miss Marjorie Ahrens, also of Rockville Centre, will be maid of honor. Herman Glass, of Buffalo, will act as best man.

The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride-elect's sister, Mrs. Lester Coffin, after which Mr. Word and his bride will leave for Buffalo, N. Y., where they will make their home. Mr. Word is a graduate of Georgia Tech and a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Miss McCullough Is Entertained.

Miss Virginia Branch was hostess at luncheon yesterday at the Atlanta Athletic Club, complimenting Miss Ruth McCullough, a bride-elect. Covers were placed for Misses McCullough, Branch, Julia McCullough, Anna Knight, Sarah White, Elizabeth Cole, Pattie Morgan and Mrs. Clifford Chestnut. Later in the afternoon, Miss McCullough and her bridesmaids were entertained at an informal tea by Miss Mary Smith at her home one East Pace's Ferry road.

Study Classes To Be Organized.

Mrs. Rose M. Davis has returned from her vacation and is opening her winter's program. This program includes a course of study in the lessons of Emma Curtis Hopkins, beginning Wednesday, October 4, at 8 o'clock in the studio of the Azoth Library Association, room 560 Grand Theater building. Miss Davis will meet those desiring personal interviews Tuesday mornings from 12 to 1 o'clock. The Wednesday morning class in the Biltmore hotel has been reopened and will be continued as usual.

Quota Club Holds Meeting.

The Atlanta Quota Club met Monday evening at the Atlanta Woman's Club, Dr. Elizabeth Broad, president, presiding. Mrs. Betty Reynolds Cobb delivered an address on "The Life and Work of Miss Martha Berry," whom the club recently elected to honorary membership. Miss Margaret Battle, soprano, accompanied by her sister, Miss Helen Battle, featured the musical program. The club, which is a woman's organization similar to the Rotary Club, was recently organized in Atlanta.

Little Maurice Connally Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Garner Connally entertained at a party last Thursday, honoring her little daughter, Maurice Connally, on her first birthday. The table was overlaid with a blue embroidered cover with deep lace; a rose Jack Horner pie making an attractive centerpiece. The ribbons running to the little guests' places held tiny favors. Candles were at each end of the table and Mother Goose figures were placed on the table. Pink and blue crepe paper butterflies held the miniature place cards, and the lights were covered with shades in pink and blue colors, with graceful fringe hanging from the center. The exquisite birthday cake was cut at the side table, and the cake was elaborately decorated with little pink roses, the center one holding a tiny candle. A page was set aside in the honor guest's memory book for the autographs of her little guests. Mrs. Connally was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Maurice Hatch Cook.

The guests numbered Grogan Shelor, Jr., Shirley Newton, Mary Lon Shippey, Billy Dick Kiker, Bobbie Holt, Rosemarie, Betty B. and H. I. Sweatman, Jr. The grown-ups were: Mrs. Frank Gillespie, Mrs. Addie Carlstead, Mrs. J. J. Kennedy, Mrs. Marcus Holt, Mrs. R. D. Kiker, Mrs. Grogan Shelor, Mrs. I. O. Newton, Mrs. W. W. Shippey and Mrs. H. I. Sweatman.

The "reducing diet" that stole her beauty

SHE was one girl who was going to be slim and beautiful—so she began a strenuous reducing diet. She counted calories. She shunned this and sought for that. But, all the time, she was missing something every diet should have. In the dishes she so carefully selected there was scarcely any roughage. Constipation gained a foothold. Her looks suffered as is often the case with constipated persons. She had headaches and her complexion became sallow.

Thousands of women and men are paying the price of diets which are lacking in bulk. Constipation continues to poison the system. No other evil is more widespread. It often ends with serious trouble and disease.

By adding Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to any diet, the ideal roughage is obtained to relieve and prevent constipation.

ALL-BRAN does not add fat to the body. It just sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Its regular use restores health and above all priceless beauty and charm.

No pills nor drugs can play the part of ALL-BRAN in a reducing diet. Their dose has to be constantly increased and they do not produce the natural results that ALL-BRAN does.

Don't trifle with pills

You will like the appetizing nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. It can be enjoyed in many ways. In soups. On salads. Soaked in orange, prune or fruit juice. As a cereal with milk or cream. Delicious with honey added. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily — in chronic cases with every meal.

If you write us we will gladly send you a valuable booklet on the subject of safe reducing. It contains many approved diet suggestions which promote beauty as they help you reduce. Grocers everywhere sell ALL-BRAN. Be sure to get the genuine—made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars.

GUARANTEED!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Nurse Tells how Cardui helped her

MRS. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes:

"I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 55 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can.

"I would advise any woman, who is weakly and in a run-down condition, to try Cardui, but not to expect one bottle to make her well. I take two or three bottles a year, now, and I feel fine."

The junior department meets Friday evening, October 4, at 8 o'clock. This group is composed of 45 boys and girls, with Matt Vansant as president, Catherine Howard, vice president; Heath Merrill, secretary, and Herbert Clark, treasurer.

Mrs. Harry Hill, program chairman, has secured Judge Virlyn B. Moore as the speaker for the meeting to be held October 11. His subject will be "Law Enforcement."

The Friday afternoon teas will continue through the winter months. Friday, October 4, the garden committee will act as hostess. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Walter R. Lamb, chairman, at Main 2514-J, or Mrs. L. A. Hollingsworth, at Main 1557-W.

On the advice of the finance committee Mrs. G. H. Howard, chairman, the treasurer, Mrs. O. F. Kauffman, has been instructed to take up two extra notes on the club property the first of November. This has been made possible through the summer activities of the club.

The regular meeting of the executive board was held Wednesday, September 25, following a luncheon served by the cooking class. Mrs. Edward H. Smith announced a meeting of the Smoke Abatement League for Tuesday, October 1, at 12 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. W. D. Marshall gave an interesting account of a visit to the Alto hospital, she asked for books for the white and colored children's wards. Mrs. M. Herzberg, music chairman, gave a brief outline of the play "Athaliah," to be presented by the Fifth District and the Delphian Society on October 15. Mrs. Frank Miller, director of the play, sent a request for additional voices, especially alto. Mrs. W. H. Bradley, of 1132 Oglethorpe avenue, was received into the club as a new member.

Damrosch Club Holds Meeting.

Atlanta Pastors Attend Better Films Luncheon

Urgent necessity for supervised motion picture programs for young people featured the Better Films luncheon Thursday at the Hotel Ansley, attended by a large number of Atlanta pastors, and by 90 members and guests. The ministers came as guests of members of the committee to hear and take part in a program devoted to the subject of "The Use of Motion Pictures By the Churches," the first of a series of educational programs sponsored by the Atlanta Better Films Committee, for the fall and winter meetings.

Talks were made by Dr. Louie Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church; Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, of the Central Congregational; Dr. Wilkie Collins, of the Wesley Memorial; Dr. Marvin Franklin, of Park Street Methodist; Dr. Lovein, evangelist; Mr. McCluskey, of the Kirkwood Baptist; Dr. Gerald Culberson, West End Christian; Rev. S. T. Senter, of the First Methodist, and others. Mrs. Earl Quillian talked on "Shakespeare and the Movies." Reports of the chairmen showed important work being carried on, the extension, speakers' bureau, and work in the community theater districts being featured. Mrs. Newton C. Wing, president, announced that the October luncheon would be Presidents' Day with the presidents of the 75 organizations represented as special guests.

New Era Club Holds Meeting.

The New Era Study club met at the home of Mrs. S. C. Orr, Wednesday morning. The club has chosen for its program this year: "Atlanta, Past and Present." The subject for the afternoon, "Pioneer Builders of Atlanta" was presented by Mrs. F. M. Akers. The "Marseillaise," was sung in French by little Miss Margie McNaughton, granddaughter of Mrs. Orr. A traveling committee which will arrange for trips during the year, to points of interest in the city, was appointed.

Mrs. Orr was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Mrs. Lee McNaughton. The guest of the afternoon was Mrs. H. D. Couts, a former member of the club.

West End Club News Is of Interest.

The West End Woman's Club met Wednesday afternoon at the clubhouse with the president, Mrs. L. M. Ahern, presiding. Mrs. C. M. Settle, first vice president, presided over the board meeting which was held preceeding the regular meeting. Mrs. Alice C. Means was appointed chairman of the membership committee with Mrs. Zach Layfield as co-chairman, Mrs. Frank Stewart and Mrs. L. M. Ahern completing the committee. Arrangements have been made for a luncheon to be given at the clubhouse Monday, October 8, by the membership committee.

Mrs. W. G. Baskin, chairman of the scholarship committee, announces the following scholarships have been obtained and will be awarded at the next regular meeting of the club. One is from the Sullivan School of Dancing at 585 Peachtree street, another from Miss Boyd's School of Dancing at 378 Angier avenue, and three from the Herzberg Studio of String Instruments, 556 Howell place. Applications may be addressed to Mrs. W. G. Baskin, 1669 Rogers avenue, S. W. A half scholarship to Woodberry hall presented to the club by Miss Rosa Woodberry has been awarded to Miss Ruth Layfield.

Mrs. C. M. Cole introduced Miss Bessie J. Cook as a new member. Mr. R. L. Ellis, vice president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, spoke in behalf of greater Atlanta day of the Southeastern Fair, which will be Tuesday, October 8.

Dr. Curry presented the club with a steam cooker and invited the ladies out to a luncheon Monday, September 30, at the clubhouse. A lecture will be given at 10 o'clock and lunch will be served at 12 free of charge and all who are interested are invited to attend.

At the style review and bridge-tea given recently by Mrs. J. J. Edwards, secretary, and Mrs. O. A. Harbin, parliamentarian, the models displayed the beautiful costumes furnished by Rich, Inc. The following ladies were models: Mesdames Zach Layfield, W. N. Ponder, Julia Harbin, O. A. Harbin, J. J. Edwards, and Miss Maria Osborn. Mrs. Zack Layfield was presented with a beautiful mahogany end table for securing the largest number of tables for the party, and Mrs. W. N. Ponder was given a cake for getting the second largest.

On Wednesday evening, September 25, the South Fulton Federations of Clubs met at the clubhouse. Several prominent men in civic affairs gave interesting talks, included B. S. Barker, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Ed. H. Inman, Walter Stewart, J. A. Reynolds, of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Allan Couch, Everett Millican, and Dr. McIntosh Burns, newly elected president of the board of education. Miss Dorothy Brogdon gave several piano selections, and little Miss Gloria Matthews gave two song and dance numbers. Mrs. L. M. Ahern and her reception committee served refreshments.

Mrs. Ben T. Jerome will sponsor a bridge-luncheon on Wednesday, October 2, at 10:30 o'clock. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Jerome, West 3479, or Mrs. L. M. Ahern, Main 2411.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

PETER WISHES HE HAD KEPT STILL.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

You'll find it is the law of fate
That vain regrets are all too late.
—Peter Rabbit.

Little Mrs. Peter had joined Peter Rabbit outside the Briar-patch. In the Briar-patch, Flip the Terrier was whining and yelping as the brambles were scratching him. He had just chased little Mrs. Peter out and he was trying to make his way out himself.

"Now you're done it, Peter Rabbit!" said little Mrs. Peter crossly. "If you had kept still he never would have found us and he wouldn't have tried to get in there."

Peter chuckled. "Don't worry, my dear," said he. "This is fun. When he comes out, we go in. When he goes in, we come out. I haven't had so much fun for a long time. You just stay with me. By and by he'll get tired and give up and go away."

"Just the same, I don't like it," protested little Mrs. Peter. "Who's that coming across the Green Meadows?"

Little Mrs. Peter's voice had a startled note in it and Peter turned quickly to look. "As I live, it is Bowser the Hound!" he exclaimed. "Now, what is that fellow coming over here for? Well, there's one thing about it, he can't get into the dear Old Briar-patch."

"No," retorted little Mrs. Peter, "but he can stay on the outside while that other dog is inside. Then what are we going to do?"

Peter scratched a long ear with a long hindfoot. He was already beginning to wish that he had kept still in the first place. "Perhaps," said he hopefully, "Bowser won't come 'way over here."

But Bowser did. He had heard the barking of Flip and he had come over to investigate. Now, Bowser dearly delights to hunt Peter Rabbit, but Bowser is wise. He knows very well that he cannot get into the dear Old Briar-patch and not get his long ears torn by brambles and his face scratched. He knows, too, that inside the Briar-patch he cannot move around freely. So never has he bothered Peter Rabbit when Peter was safely at home. But this was different. Flip was inside the Briar-patch and Flip was small. Bowser was quick to see that two of them might do what one couldn't do alone.

"He is out" barked Flip in return. "There's another Rabbit with him."

"That must be Mrs. Peter," replied Bowser. Where are they?"

So Bowser started around the dear

"Now you have done it, Peter Rabbit," said Little Mrs. Peter crossly.

Old Brier-patch and in a moment or two his wonderful nose had found the fresh scent of Peter and little Mrs. Peter. "Bow, wow, wow!" roared Bowser, as he took up their trail. Peter and little Mrs. Peter ran around to the other side of the dear Old Briar-patch, but just then Flip poked his head out in front of them. They turned to run back, but there was Bowser coming around the end of the dear Old Briar-patch. Flip scrambled out. Peter and Mrs. Peter were now between Flip and Bowser. How Peter did wish that he had kept perfectly still when Flip had first appeared!

Miss Thelma Holt Weds Mr. Neville.

The marriage of Miss Thelma Holt and Rae N. Neville was solemnized Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother in College Park. Rev. Wallace Rogers performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few friends. A program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Ellen Keener, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was used as the processional.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white satin with a close fitting bodice and a full skirt of lace trimmed with pearls. Her veil was arranged with a double bandeau of orange blossom sprays. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and swansonia, with streamers of satin ribbon. Miss Martha Holt, the maid of honor and only attendant, wore a gown of yellow taffeta with a full skirt of uneven hemline. She carried an arm bouquet of ophelia roses. After an informal reception Mr. and Mrs. Neville left for a motor trip to points of interest in Florida.

Mrs. Neville is the daughter of Mrs. C. H. Holt, of College Park. She is a very popular young woman and is well known in church and educational circles in Atlanta and throughout the south. Mr. Neville, who for the past few years has made his home in California, is well known in the south. He is connected with the Electrical Research Company.

Mother of Eight Boys

"I read an ad in the newspaper and I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I will recommend this medicine to any woman who is in bad shape like I was. I used to get so tired after a few hours' work that I was even afraid in my own house in the daytime. I didn't care if I lived or died. I have given birth to eight boys and I feel strong right after, since I have taken the Compound."

Catarrh Is Terrible Drain on Vitality

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with chronic catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that catarrh interferes with natural breathing thus preventing proper oxygenation and purification of the blood by the lungs and also absolutely prevents, restful, refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to all germ infections such as colds, coughs, pneumonia, etc.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remedies that have been tested for the relief of catarrh, none has given such uniformly successful results to the physician or attained such popular favor as the prescription of Dr. Runion, known to your druggist as Runion's White Wonder Salve. Applied in the nostrils, morning and night, "White Wonder" gives quick and most delightful relief. Clean, greaseless and absolutely stainless, White Wonder is a perfect example of the finest pharmaceutical art,—a joy and comfort to everyone who suffers with nasal catarrh.

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

INSTALLMENT XXX.

A HINT.

Jabez Malleron, like everybody else, had believed that Doug Harris had been killed.

In his very thorough organization no single member was wasted. Marthe Perraile, having played her part in the abduction of her young mistress, was not allowed to remain idle. It was part of her duty to report by telephone the name of every caller at the flat. He had been advised of Rason's coming—advised 20 minutes later that Lord Dorling had arrived.

For the moment, when he was shown into Warren's room he noticed his host seemed a little more preoccupied than usual.

"Ah, my dear Warren, busy as usual, I see. My little bit of news would have kept, but my own day was broken through having to attend the bedside of a dying client, and I though I might as well break into yours."

"Your interruptions, my dear Malleron, are the most important moments in my career."

"Elegant, my dear sir, elegant!" He glanced towards the door. "Er—in the hall I happened to meet that very charming youngster—Lord Dorling. A pity the old man died before his time, leaving a spirited young fellow."

"I've never known you waste a hint, Malleron," he said carefully.

"One gives a hint—when one cannot give evidence," Malderon gave back. "But the odd little coincidence struck me. I had come in to give you a tiny item about that furniture firm in Bond street in which you are interested, Grnun. They're going bankrupt. A great pity. They were clients of my father, but for the last generation or two we've lost sight of them. But I heard about the bankruptcy from quite a different source."

"I would like to know where young Dorling comes into all this," said Warren, a trifle impatiently.

"The professional relationship of solicitor and client is a very sacred one," he said unctuously. "If I allowed myself the least elasticity in this matter, would I be of any use to you, my dear Warren?"

Warren was thinking quickly. Here unmistakably was a hint from Malleron that young Dorling was connected with the dope trade. If he knew enough to give a hint it was ten to one he knew the whole story.

He would have turned the conversation, but checked himself. Secrecy, he thought, was becoming an obsession with him. He discovered himself carrying secrecy beyond all reason. Malleron might be useful to him in this matter as he had been useful in so many others. Besides, what harm could there be in confiding in Malleron, the friend of judges, the eminent solicitor, in the confidence of most of the leading men in public life.

"Dorling has been got hold of by—them," he said gruffly.

"I'm glad you know it, Warren. I couldn't have added to my hint."

"Now that I have told you, perhaps you will give me the benefit of your advice. The thing presents several knotty legal problems. I've only known it myself for half an hour."

Ten minutes later he had told Jabez Malleron everything that he himself knew about Dorling.

"Of course, there's no difficulty in my not handing him over to the authorities," finished Warren. "I can use my discretion there without any misgivings. The question is, can I stand in on this fantastic bargaining which he is proposing to undertake? He is almost hysterical about it—he firmly believes that if I send him back to Dartmoor this afternoon he can still bargain with the gang. There's no doubt they've impressed him."

Jabez Malleron was sitting upright in his armchair. At that moment he looked for all the world like a judge.

"My dear sir, there's no need for any kind of bargain," he said sharply.

"You see a way out?"

"This chart! Has he taken any copies of it?"

"He didn't say so."

"Where is it?"

Naturally, he wouldn't tell me."

"Him! Where would you or I put such a document if we didn't know any better? In the bank, of course!"

"A bank will never hand over anything—until ordered to do so by a judge," said Malleron. "Too late to get an order today. Leave it in my hands and you shall have that chart by this time tomorrow."

"I hadn't thought of that—I hadn't thought of the bank at all."

"You are tired, my friend. You will leave it in my hands?"

"Most certainly."

"By the way, young Dorling is in this flat, isn't he?" As the other gave assent he went on: "Send for him, my dear Warren."

Warren touched a bell.

"I'm in an extremely awkward posision, Malleron. He wanted to marry my daughter, as you will have guessed by now. I've known him since he was a child."

"Leave the talking to me," said Malleron, wearing now the indulgent air of a family solicitor.

Malleron, seeing this, came straight to the point.

"You are surprised to see me here, Lord Dorling. I don't know whether Mr. Warren happened to mention that I am associated with him in some small measure—on the purely legal side of his work. And we have just been discussing this rather difficult position in which you find yourself."

Dorling stiffened. He suspected that he would be subjected to further coercion. Never for one moment did the faintest suspicion cross his brain that he stood in the presence of the almost legendary chief of the gang.

"If Mr. Warren has told you the full facts you will realize there is very little to discuss," he said curtly.

"Come, come, my dear sir, you speak as if we had a different object in view. To get Miss Warren back and lay these fellows by the heels—that, I think, is a purpose common to the three of us."

"My object, first and last, is to get Miss Warren back," said Dorling.

"Yes, yes—by offering them this chart you've made. Did it occur to you that they must suspect the existence of a copy?"

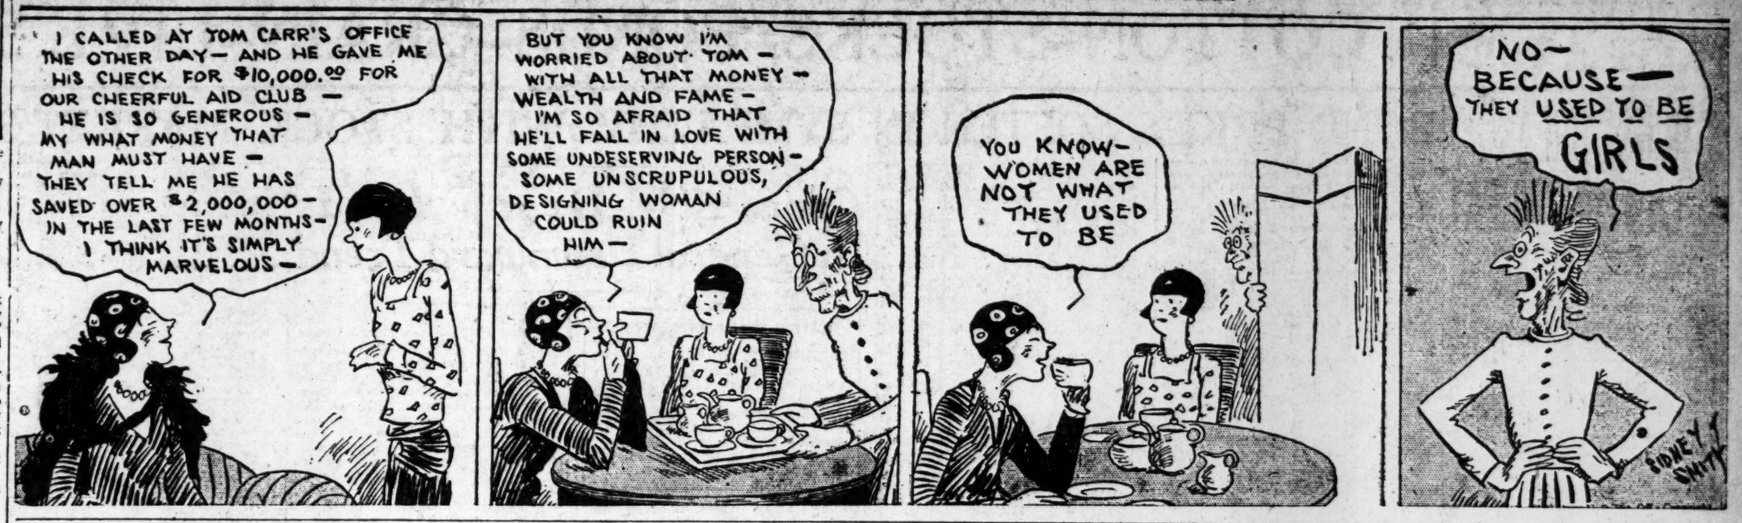

"They may. I don't expect a walkover in dealing with them. From what I've seen of them, Mr. Malleron, they're a very strange crowd—they have a sort of sense of contract. They would keep a bargain—and expect me to do the same. I shall have to get them to take my word for it that there are no copies."

"H'm! Before I go any further, try to understand this, Lord Dorling. I think I have partly persuaded Mr. Warren"—he turned to Warren with an old world bow—"to offer you no immediate interference in your own plans. You are the only one of us who has come in direct contact with these people and you may understand their methods better than we do. The few questions I want to ask you now are only based on our desire to find out what chances you have of success?"

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN,
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, September 27.—(AP)—Jolted by stock market weakness and by sharp falling off in European demand for wheat from North America, wheat values here underwent material downturns today. Reports of large-sized purchasing of flour at Minneapolis were of only transient effect as a counterbalance. On the other hand, North American clearances of wheat and flour this week were announced as being less than half as much as a year ago, with London today reporting that a cargo of No. 1 hard winter wheat afloat had been sold at 7 cents per bushel under the price of Chicago December delivery.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1 1-2 cent to 2 1-2 cents below yesterday's finish. Corn closed 7-8 cent to 2 3-8 cents down. Oats 1-2 cent to 1 3-8 cents off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 20 cents.

A stock market depression made itself chiefly felt in the wheat pit as the day drew to an end. It was at this stage also that news about death of trans-Atlantic demand for North American wheat was most in evidence, total European buying today being estimated at but 200,000 bushels.

In addition, considerable notice of a Liverpool cotton market failure that involved a member of the Chicago Board of Trade was taken by wheat speculators here. Final quotations on wheat at Liverpool, however, were firm, and news of rain in Australia, which had acted as a bearish factor, was more or less offset by trade estimates indicating 13,000,000 bushels less wheat yield in the Canadian prairie provinces than had been shown by official figures. In the late dealings, nevertheless, friends of higher prices were handicapped by word that North American wheat export business from July 1 to date has been only 78,768,000 bushels, compared with 126,012,000 bushels for the corresponding time last year, and that stocks of grain abroad are sufficient to last importing countries for some time.

Increased rural offerings, both of old and new corn, did a good deal to pull the corn market down. Freer selling from the country tended also to depress oats.

Provisions were responsive to weakness of grain.

Total bond sales (par value), $8,478,000.

New York, September 27.—(AP)—Bond prices continued soft today, as was natural from the weakness of stocks. Convertibles showed the greatest depression, developing net losses of 1 to more than 7 points, although sales at the lower levels were only nominal.

The two communication company debentures led the decline in the stock option department. American Telephone 4 1-2s finished at 211, the lowest of the day and 7 1-2 points below the Thursday close, while International Telephone 4 1-2s showed a 7-point drop.

American International 5 1-2s, Commercial Investment Trust 5 1-2s, Atchison 4s, American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s and the Alleghany Corporation issues sagged 1 to 1 1-2 points. American Natural Gas 6 1-2s, which carry stock purchase warrants, were an exception in the share feature list, advancing 4 1-2 points on small trades.

Rails ruled slightly earlier in contrast to the firmer tone of yesterday, but interest was largely confined to the more speculative issues. Seaboard Air Line and Seaboard All Florida bonds showed pronounced strength, the former advancing from 3-4 to 1 1-2 under the stimulus of good buying. Erie 4s were close to the year's minimum on a minor recession.

Industrials displayed heaviness. Bethlehem Steel 5 1-2s lost half a point; Chile Copper 5s dipped a major fraction, and Pressed Steel Car 5s of 1933 lost 2, touching the new low of 83. Oil company bonds were uniformly lower.

There was some selling of foreign bonds, which sent British United Kingdom 4s down 1 3-4 points to the new low of 80 on a minor transaction. Argentine issues eased and several of the utilities in this section finished in lower ground.

Trading in United States government liberties and treasuries was on a small scale and prices moved irregularly. Time money was firm and, although the official quotation was 9 to 9 1-4 per cent for all maturities, it was reported that no offerings were made below the higher rate.

Radio Securities

Radio broadcasting has now entered the field of big business. Statistics recently compiled by the Columbia Broadcasting System show that $9,660,614 was spent for radio broadcast advertising in 1928, over two coast-to-coast systems.

This compares with $3,832,510 spent over the same systems one year before.

These figures do not take into account what was paid to the local broadcasting stations for local work. Nor does it take into account the additional amount of $640,332 paid for political broadcasts during the last year.

The figures from the department of commerce show that there are 1,137 broadcasting stations throughout the world and 630 of these—about 55 per cent—are located in the United States.

Important: Readers of The Atlanta Constitution are invited to submit questions of a general financial nature. Whenever practical or expedient these will be confidentially answered.

Weakness Laid to Loan Gain; Utility Group Suffers Most

New York, September 27.—(AP)—Prices on the new York Curb Market broke sharply today in the heavy liquidation for both accounts inspired by the unexpectedly large increase of $192,000,000 in federal reserve brokers' loans. A sprinkling of issues moved against the current trend, half a dozen to new high records, but the general list showed only feeble recovery, with final quotations generally around the lowest of the day.

Selling pressure was particularly severe in the public utility group, which has enjoyed the largest advance of any other group in the recent "bull" market. American & Foreign Power warrants, American Gas & Electric, American Light & Traction, Electric Bond & Share, International Superpower, Northern States Power A. Standard Power & Light and Tampa Electric all closed at net declines of 4 to nearly 8 points. Losses of a point or two were quite common in that group. Middle West Utilities common ran up 35 points on a few sales and Commonwealth Power broke 20 1-2.

Investment trust issues also were liquidated freely on the theory that the market value of their holdings had been seriously impaired by the sharp decline in prices during the past week. Recently offered issues were the hardest hit, the Blue Ridge, Shenandoah and Prince & Whitely issues dropping to new low levels for the year, some of them well below the prices at which they were offered for public subscription. Goldman Sachs trading dropped 4 points.

Further selling also cropped out in the aviation group, with a break of 18 1-4 points in Aviation Corporation of America to a new low level for the year at 29 5-8 as the outstanding feature. Oils also were liquidated freely, with selling stimulated by unofficial reports that the California restriction law would not prove effective in curtailing produc on.

New peak prices for the year were established by Colgate Palmolive, Dow Chemical issues, Superheater and a few others. United States A dropped 8 1-2 points to a new low at 33.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady with no change at 18.20. Sales, 600; receipts, 396; shipments, 16; stocks, 8,940.

New York, September 27.—(AP)—The cotton market was only moderately active today and prices fluctuated within a range of 8 to 10 points. An early decline to 18.58 for December under southern hedging and liquidation was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering, but after selling up to 18.62, the price eased off again. December closed at 18.55 compared with 18.58 at the close of the previous day, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 2 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points and the active months soon showed net losses of about 4 to 7 points under southern and local selling. The latter was probably promoted by indifferent Liverpool cables and a growing hope that the tropical storm would not reach the Florida coast.

Trade interests were active buyers as prices worked down toward the 18 1-2c level for December contracts, however, and offerings became light after the early selling had been absorbed. Prices steadied in consequence and there were rallies during the middle of the day on covering and some buying which may have been influenced by the rains in the eastern belt and the heavy precipitation in Georgia.

October contracts advanced from 18.45 to about 18.51 while March sold up from 18.81 to 18.90, making the active months about net unchanged to 4 points higher, but the buying tapered off at these figures, and the market eased off again in the late trading.

The failure of the eastern belt rains to have a more stimulating effect on demand was probably a disappointment to early buyers which led to some liquidation or reselling, while there was also a little more southern selling toward the close. Last prices were within a point or two of the lowest on most positions.

Announcement that a Liverpool cotton firm had suspended payment, made at the opening of the local market, was considered without apparent effect on the day's trading.

Liverpool cables said that hedge selling and liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling in the market there and reported that the futures commitments of the suspended firm were considered unimportant.

Exports today were 16,541 bales, making 824,049 so far this season. Port receipts 75,382; United States port stocks 1,164,518.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET SLUGGISH.

New Orleans, September 27.—(AP)—The cotton market was sluggish today with limited trading and narrow price fluctuations. Such trend as developed was moderately downward, but there was no aggressive selling, the decline being due largely to hedge selling and lack of speculative support.

After an opening decline of 7 to 10 points the market rallied, recovering the loss, but later eased off again to lows 8 to 10 points under the previous close. December declined from a high at 18.44 to 18.35 and closed at 18.37 for a net loss of 8 points. The general market closed steady at net losses of 3 to 10 points.

Liverpool came in 1 to 2 points lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 3 to 7 points. Prices eased off further after the start on favorable weather in the belt and hedge selling until October traded at 18.15, December at 18.35 and January 18.46, 7 to 10 points below the previous close.

The market then rallied on covering due to some bullish private crop reports and heavy rains in the Carolinas, but hedge selling was again in evidence as well as some selling by ring traders on the failure of the storm to reach the Florida coast. October at the lowest traded at 18.14, December 18.35 and January 18.43, 8 to 10 points under the previous close.

The close was a shade above the lows with October at 18.19, down 3 points net, and December at 18.37 and January 18.45, 8 points net lower.

Receipts 74,177; for week 375,588; for year 1,645,754; last year 1,443,307. Exports 10,039; for week 110,994; for season 796,305; last season 816,952. Stocks 1,169,216; last year 1,018,266. MORE RAILROADS REPORT BIG GAINS IN NET INCOMES

New York, September 27.—(AP)—Substantial increases in the August net operating income over that for the corresponding month last year were reported today by several of the country's largest railroad systems. Prominent among them was that of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, which showed an increase of close to $2,000,000. The Baltimore & Ohio, however, reported a decrease in excess of $600,000.

Among the roads reporting today were:

Railroad—	1929	1928
Atchison	$8,543,670	$6,343,677
New York Central	6,737,209	6,049,326

Total sales, 4,591,590 shares.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

New York, September 27.—(AP)—Under the dark shadow of towering brokers' loans the stock market experienced one of the most drastic declines of the year today. The efforts of pool operators, who have frequently been able to send stocks sharply higher in the face of large increases in the loan total, were like straws in the storm of selling, which carried scores of issues down 5 to 35 points.

The only factor mitigating the severity of the break was the volume of trading, which was held to fairly moderate limits. Only 4,591,590 shares changing hands. Although professional short selling was undoubtedly in large volume, there was such a flood of real liquidation that short covering in the final transactions caused but negligible rallies from the day's lowest levels.

The increase of $192,000,000 shown by last night's weekly brokerage loan figures, was wholly unexpected, and in many quarters regarded as unaccountable save on the theory that stock has been passing from strong hands into marginal accounts, and the speculative structure thereby weakened. Furthermore, Wall Street dislikes nothing so much as bad news which appears without warning.

The market was able to maintain its equilibrium in the face of the increase in the London discount rate yesterday largely because it had been forwarned by several weeks.

Worst Since August.

The break was the most severe since the collapse during the first session after the New York federal reserve bank put up its rate to 6 per cent last August, according to the standard statistics.

Associated Press price indices for today showed the index of 20 utilities dropped 10.6 points, as compared to 14.4 then, the index of 50 industrials, 6-6. As compared to 7.2, and that of 20 rails 3, as compared to 4.

There was practically nothing in the day's news of an adverse nature, save for the brokerage loan figures. Confirmed bulls tried to explain away the figures on the bases of the large volume of new financing. Traders generally have become reconciled to rising loans accompanying rising prices, but sharply rising loans to the accompaniment of sagging prices, has been highly perplexing.

During the past four weeks federal reserve loan figures show an increase of $614,000,000. During the period covered by the figures, the price index of 50 industrials has dropped 18.7 points, than of the 20 rails, 7.6 points, while only that of the 20 utilities has gone forward, showing a gain of nearly 27 points.

There was no change in the money market today. Call money holdings at 9 per cent, and time money scare at 9 to 9 1-4. News bearing upon trade and industry appearing during the day was generally satisfactory.

Steel Sells Heavily.

U. S. Steel was heavily sold, sagging more than 9 points to 223 1-2, and closing at 226. Such issues as Allied Chemical, American and Foreign Power, American Can, American Telephone, Anaconda, A. M. Byers, Columbus Gas, Consolidated Gas, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Johns Manville, Macy, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Public Service of New Jersey, Republic Steel, Simmons, and Westinghouse Manufacturing, closed from about 5 to 12 points lower.

Motors continued to sag, several, including Chrysler and Studebaker reaching new 1929 lows, and General Motors getting within less than a point of its minimum. In the rails, Chesapeake Corporation, sold at a new low for the year at 78 3-4. Oils sagged moderately.

Auburn Auto had one of its characteristically wide movements, dropping 35 points and ralling. Columbian Carbon lost 17 and Commercial Solvents 15 points.

A handful of utilities and specialties was bid up violently in a desperate move by bulls. Standard Gas was sent up about 25 points to a new peak, then lost about a third of its gain. American Water Works rose 14 points to a new peak at 199, and closed at 195.

Commodities were somewhat heavy. Wheat lost about 2 cents a bushel on poorer export demand, and corn lost a cent and more. Cotton was quiet, and closed a little lower.

Foreign Exchanges moved in narrow ranges, Sterling slipping back a little, while the French franc was firmer. Renewed weakness of Sterling on Paris was ascribed to withdrawals of French balances in London for month end requirements. The Canadian dollar rallied to 99.32 cents.

STERCHI BROS. STORES SHOW BUSINESS GAIN

Further Increase Is Expected With Progress of Season.

Sterchi Bros. Stores, Inc., announces it is entering its most active selling season, and its sales forces are busy. Further increase is expected as the autumn progresses, in keeping with the usual experience of merchandising businesses.

The volume of retail sales continues to run ahead of a year ago, and profits are also making a gain. Net income for the first six months of 1929 was $341,736.77, compared with $306,042.49 for the same period in 1928, a gain of 11.4 per cent. This gain may be exceeded in the later months of the year, for on August 1, 1929, the company was operating 55 stores compared with 50 at the beginning of the year.

It would now be premature to predict actual results per share for the full year of 1929, though in the past the company's aggressive merchandising policies have produced steady gains. There are 200,000 shares of common stock outstanding and listed on the New York Curb Exchange. In 1928 the company earned, after federal taxes and preferred dividends, $3.01 per common share, compared with $2.23 in 1927.

Sterchi Bros. Stores common stock has been persistently strong during recent months, and is currently selling at about 32. This may be due, in part at least, to the fact that a large amount of the outstanding stock is owned by officers and employes of the company. The floating supply of stock is considered to be relatively small.

The present dividend basis is $1.20 per share, which is slightly less than 40 per cent of last year's earnings. While the company is doubtless using its surplus earnings to excellent advantage in the opening of additional stores, it has in the past been its policy to set aside a conservative portion of net for dividends, and a continued gain in earnings may well justify some consideration of dividend increase.

This business was founded in 1901 though it is only within the past year that the common stock has been listed in New York. Since listing the price range has varied from 26 to 33. Even at the highest level attained thus far, the stock is selling at a much less number of times earnings than that of chain stores generally, many of which have been less consistent in their growth of sales and net earnings.

Speculation Blamed For Money Problems Business Now Faces

New York, September 27.—(AP)—Dun's Review tomorrow will say:

Near the close of a quarterly period which has been distinguished by various economic phenomena, strictly commercial trends were eclipsed by significant financial and speculative movements. The unusual aspects of international monetary conditions have been emphasized by the raising of the English rediscount rate a full 1 per cent to a point above the local figure, while the tension here has been further evidence by the continued high charges for both call and time loans. Recent depression in foreign securities prices, notably at London, was a factor in the renewed conspicuous weakness at New York, but strong banking support relieved the nervousness and unsettlement.

The recurring disturbances apparently have originated within the markets themselves, for the general trade situation has retained its equilibrium with steadiness remaining one of its chief characteristics. Despite another excess of declines in Dun's list, no pronounced tendency toward lower wholesale quotations has developed, and the easing in steel products, which has caused comment, is scattered.

Market Gossip

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, September 27.—A steady stream of hedging came into the market today. It held steady, rising a little late in the afternoon.

An important factor was the statement from a private bureau that its reports show safe bolls are slightly less than a year ago but that the number of smal bolls which should mature into cotton under ordinary conditions is only half what it was last year. This bureau says its condition figures and boll index indicates that yield may be between 146 and 149 pounds an acre. Speculative buying appeared to be of moderate volume, but trade interests were reported to have bought. Hedging may force prices some lower. Market is developing good resisting powers.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, September 27.—The market today was rather quiet but maintained a generally steady tone owing to the volume of trade buying being ample to absorb hedge offerings. Further heavy rains in Georgia contributed to the steadiness of the market. It's action today suggests a comparatively narrow trading affair pending some fresh bullish incentive.

Should anything occur to revive the speculative demand cotton might easily score a good advance.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New York, September 27.—Torrential rains from the Atlantic coast to the mountain foothills of South Carolina and Georgia have done unestimable damage to the remainder of the cotton crop.

Still the market is unresponsive. The story is this:

Hedge selling continues regularly as each day comes and goes and manufactures are stubbornly maintaining their position of buying on recessions. Between the two the market is conspicuously and phenomenally steady.

It is our opinion that purchases around current quotations will prove a good investment in the long run.

January Liverpool due, 9.85.

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, September 27.—A market already much harassed by recent unfavorable developments was called upon to absorb the effects of an unexpectedly large increase in brokers' loans.

Essentially, the outlook for the stock market depends, in our opinion, on the industrial situation and, in this connection, the most recent developments, while somewhat less favorable, have been far from conclusively adverse.

Further caution will be necessary and weak accounts might be lightened on a technical rebound to which the market now appears entitled. Otherwise we see no reason for sacrificing sound issues which have suffered in the recent severe reaction.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, September 27.—(Special.)—Probably for the first time this year the market took serious cognizance of an increase in brokers' loans. The circumstances surrounding this latest gain of $192,000,000 were so unfavorable that it could scarcely do otherwise.

A substantial reduction in the loan account is necessary before rallies can be anything better than temporary affairs, based on short covering, constructive operations in the minority of strongly situated issues and misguided buying of most of the others. One thing, however, might be pointed out which is that so far on this decline there have not been two successive days of acute weakness. This may or may not have a significance so far as the market outlook for the next day or two is concerned.

BLYTH & CO.

New York, September 27.—The market today had to assimilate another bitter dose in the form of a sixth consecutive increase in brokers' loans.

A cautious attitude still appears as the only reasonable policy to pursue. The rate of decline established in yesterday's retreat was too abrupt to be maintained. The tendency of the market to carry itself in either direction to an unwarranted degree might well cause the list to lose further ground in the immediate future. As stated in previous letters the list should be considered guilty until it has given adequate grounds for the proof of its innocence.

JACKSON BROS., BOESEL & CO.

New York, September 27.—We are seeing a real liquidation in the stock market.

There are some big utility deals under way and the stock affected may be classed as exceptions even in a downward trend. We refer particularly to Electric Bond & Share, American Water Works, and Standard Gas & Electric. Rumors link these three companies together, and American Water Works is regarded as most out of line. Electric Bond & Share recently took over Electric Investors, which already owns a large block of American Water Works. Electric Power Associates is also mentioned and the "A" and common stocks of this company, which owns large blocks of both American Water Works and Standard Gas & Electric, should logically move in sympathy with these stocks.

Strength in the Pacific coast stocks, Pacific Lighting, Pacific Gas & Electric and Southern California Edison, which we understand are scheduled for eventual merger, is very favorable to Stone & Webster, which has big holdings in each.

Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK.

New York, September 27.—The cottonseed oil market was active and irregular today, closing 16 points lower to 2 points higher. The issuance and circulation of an unexpectedly large amount of tenders, 5,200 barrels, resulted in urgent liquidation of October and forced the spot month into new low ground for the season. The distant months held relatively steady owing to a lack of hedge pressure and buying against sales of October.

Sales 14,400 barrels. Prime crude 7.75; prime summer yellow spot 9.00; October closed 9.11; December 9.38; January 9.45; March 9.61; May 9.75.

NEW ORLEANS.

DAY IN FINANCE

By
R. L. BARNUM

Money Situation Furnishes Grounds for Much Thought on the Part of Well-Informed Wall-Streeters; Swing of Loans to "Others" One Question.

New York, September 27.—With the help of strong banking support the stock market was able at the opening yesterday to hurdle the advance in the Bank of England rediscount rate, but it was unable at the opening today to take the overnight unexpected news of the $192,000,000 further increase in brokers' loans. Prices opened down from 1 to 7 points, the last named in American Telephone and Telegraph.

There was some support of the stock market at the opening but this was withdrawn in the early trading, allowing the stock market to take care of itself. What then happened was that many stop-loss orders were reached in the decline.

Weakness in the motor shares started heavy selling in the stock market that ran to noon without a halt. Studebaker opened down 4 points. General Motors opened down a fraction at 68 5-8 and then dropped before noon to 67 1-2 or only slightly above the 1929 low made at 66 1-4. The year's high is 91 3-4. Chrysler opened down a fraction to 60 1-2 and then declined in the early trading to a new 1929 low of 58 against the year's high of 135. The unfavorable outlook for the automobile industry for the remainder of the year or before the annual automobile show starts was responsible for the renewed selling of automobile shares.

In withdrawing support those behind the market evidently concluded that lower prices were ahead and that it would be better to withdraw buying orders until a lower price level was reached. The opinion is growing in the financial district here that high money is beginning to hurt general trade. Prices declined in the last hour.

Some public utilities shares again ignored weakness in the stock market elsewhere. American Water Works was up 10 points in the early trading and Standard Gas, which closed last night up 19 1-2 points at 219, advanced early today to 243.

Money Is Problem.

Informed Wall Street realizes that a situation exists in the money market, contemplation of which does not make for an easy frame of mind. Call money here in Wall Street loaned on stock exchange collateral has touched 10 per cent repeatedly this week. Time money on the same collateral running until the turn of the year cannot be obtained at 9 1-4 per cent. The rediscount rate of the federal reserve bank here, 6 per cent, is within 1 per cent of the high touched in the worst of the war and after-war inflation period. The Bank of England has just advanced its rediscount rate to within 1-2 of 1 per cent of the high for the war and after-war inflation period. The 7 per cent rediscount rate established by the Bank of England and the federal reserve bank here in 1920 foreshadowed rapidly approaching world-wide deflation.

With the existing open market rates for call and time money and the rediscount rates of the Bank of England and the federal reserve bank here in mind, the average man in the street is bewildered to find that the reserve ratio of the federal reserve system reported today, stands at 73.8 per cent against 68.5 a year ago, and against 40.9 at this time of year in 1920. In 1920 total bills and securities held by the federal reserve system were at the peak for all time at $3,422,000,000. Today this item stands at only $1,375,000,000 against $1,517,000,000 a year ago and the $3,422,000,000 for 1920. Clearly the existing reserve ratio and the outstanding borrowings of member banks from the federal reserve banks do not indicate any credit strain. What then is the explanation for the existing high rediscount rate and high open market rates for call and time money?

Reason for Rates

The explanation is found in the fact that frozen inventories and frozen business loans as well as stock market inflation figured in the $3,422,000,000 total bill and security holdings of the federal reserve banks in 1920, whereas recently the bull stock market has enabled business to finance itself through the sale of stock to the public. The federal reserve banks only lend to member banks on liquid commercial paper and on government securities. The law does not permit the federal reserve banks to lend to the member banks on stock exchange collateral. Hence the existing high reserve ratio of the federal reserve system and the comparatively small outstanding rediscounts of the federal reserve banks.

At this point we are getting down to the real situation in the money market that is disturbing the frame of mind of informed Wall Street. The weekly statement of brokers' loans for the federal reserve banks in this district, just published, covering the loans made by the member banks for their own account, for the account of out-of-town banks and for the account of "others," meaning corporations and individuals, shows an increase of $192,000,000 compared with a week ago to a new high of $6,761,000,000. This is an increase of $807,000,000 in six weeks; an increase of $1,219,000,000 in three months; a jump of $2,236,000,000 in a year; an increase for a year at the rate of the past three months of $5,000,000,000.

Of this total of $6,761,000,000 no less than 95 per cent is in call money against 70 per cent under normal conditions. Of this total of $6,761,000,000 no less than $3,860,000,000, or 57 per cent, is being loaned to the stock market by "others," including corporations and investment trusts that are raising money through the sale of their shares to the big outside public.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the federal reserve system and the member banks lost control of the call money market that feeds the stock market because of the growing total of call loans made by "others." For the past few years the stock market has been able to laugh at the warnings of the federal reserve and conservative member bankers over steadily increasing the country's credit in speculation in stocks selling at increasingly inflated prices. To informed Wall Street, however, for some time it has become increasingly plain that the stock market has become more and more dependent on "others." Within a year loans made by the banks are up only $376,000,000, less than 15 per cent, while the loans of "others" are up $1,859,000,000, or over 90 per cent. What would happen in the money market first and then in the stock market if "others" undertook to sell stocks and call loans at the same time?

Government Board Ready To Defend Cotton Estimates

Washington, September 27.—(United News.)—The crop reporting board is prepared to deny allegations of Ivy Shannon, New Orleans statistician, that the September cotton crop estimate was from 300,000 to 500,000 bales too high, it was learned at the department of agriculture today.

It was stated at the office of W. F. Callender, chairman of the crop reporting board, that the department will stand by its official forecast. At the request of Texas senators, who transmitted the Shannon complaint, the board is preparing a statement outlining its position. Mr. Callender has held several conferences with Secretary Hyde preliminary to its preparation.

Although it was stated that the board makes changes in its methods from time to time in the interest of improved forecasting, reports that the department is using a higher par system which takes into consideration boll weevil destruction and weather conditions, were declared without foundation.

Fifty Atlantans Plan To Attend Legion Convention

The Atlanta post of the American Legion will be represented by 50 delegates at the annual convention of the national organization when it meets in Louisville, Ky., from September 30 to October 3, it was announced here Friday.

Under the direction of Drum Major H. W. Mabry, the drum and bugle corps of Atlanta Post No. 1 will make the trip to the convention and will participate in the grand parade scheduled for Tuesday. The local delegation plans to depart at 7:38 o'clock Sunday, C. C. Perry, business manager, announced Friday.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, September 27.—Business failures in this country during the week totaled 428, an increase of 68 over last week's total, R. G. Dunn & Co., reports. Failures for the corresponding week last year totaled 400.

Negotiations whereby the Republic Iron & Steel Co. will purchase the Union Drawn Steel Co., of Cleveland, were said today to have been virtually completed.

The Chesapeake & Ohio railroad has ordered 53,480 tons of rails for its 1930 requirements, of which the Bethlehem Steel Corporation will furnish 16,273, Inland Steel Company 10,047, Illinois Steel Company 18,604, and the Carnegie Steel Company 8,556. The Illinois Steel Company also has received an order for 5,475 tons from the Hocking Valley railway.

Financing for Associated Telephone Utilities Company in the form of a new issue of $50,000 shares of $6 cumulative no-par preferred stock, with common stock purchase warrants, is planned for next week. Proceeds from the sale of the stock will be used to pay in part for the acquisition of the company's properties and for other corporate purposes.

Prices on merchant steel bars and shapes declined $1 a ton in the open market at Youngstown today to $1.90 from $1.95 per hundred weight. The reduction brings the price in line with the Pittsburgh market.

Rayon production in the United States for this year will reach a total of 131,325,000 pounds, it is estimated in the current issue of Textile World. The total output for the first seven months was placed at 72,880,000 pounds. The estimated total for 1929 will exceed last year's production by more than 33,000,000 pounds.

Sugar.

New York, September 27.—There was no change in the raw sugar market today and while the single selling agency in Cuba continues to decline bids, buyers are able to satisfy their near-by requirements from holders of uncontrolled sugars. The only sale reported today was 10,000 bags of Cuban from store to a local refiner at 4.08.

Raw futures were irregular, but in the main generally steady, owing to the continued firmness in the spot market and unfavorable crop advices from abroad. The opening was 1 point lower to 2 points higher with near months lower under liquidation as a result of the circulation of 7 October notices, while the later months were steady on covering and European buying. This buying may have been promoted by private advices from Europe claiming that as a result of the recent drought the European beet sugar crop would be reduced to about 8,000,000 tons, as against earlier estimates of around 8½ million tons and last year's outturn of 8,337,000 tons.

Following the call offerings increased and prices declined under liquidation, with active positions selling 2 to 4 points below the previous close. Reports of unsettlement in the Cuban cabinet and the reported failure of a London board of trade house may have caused some of this liquidation, but offerings were soon absorbed and the market firmed up again in the late trading with the closing 3 points higher on October and unchanged to 2 points lower on later deliveries. Approximate sales 73,100 tons. December closed 2.36, January 2.34, March 2.35, May 2.37, July 2.43, September 2.49.

Refined was unchanged at 5.50 for fine granulated. Withdrawals against old contracts were quite liberal, but no new business was reported.

Harris Library Is Bequeathed To Georgia Tech

Macon, Ga., September 27.—(AP)—The 2,000-volume library of the late Nathaniel E. Harris, former governor, is bequeathed to the Georgia School of Technology in the will probated here today.

The will also provides for the expenditure of $500 to place a bronze bust of former Governor Harris in the institution of which he had been considered the founder.

The widow and a son, General Walter A. Harris, of Macon, were named executors of the estate, most of which goes to the children.

JOHN D. WALKER CASE POSTPONED IN HANCOCK COURT

Sparta, Ga., September 27.—(Special)—The case of John D. Walker, former Sparta banker, which was scheduled for trial at this term of Hancock superior court on a charge of alleged embezzlement of the city of Sparta sinking fund bonds, was carried over until the next term of court. Attorneys for Mr. Walker were on hand at this term of court and expected to enter a plea of former jeopardy, if the case was called for trial.

It is claimed by his attorneys that Mr. Walker has already been tried in federal court and set free on the same charge which is pending against him in the state courts. The Macon trial, which consumed a week during last May, was attended by a number of Sparta witnesses and attorneys.

UNSCATHED IN WAR, VET LOSES FINGERS IN AUTO EXPLOSION

Union City, Ga., September 27.—(AP)—After serving unscathed through the War Between the States, J. A. Moss, 76-year-old veteran, had three fingers blown from his left hand in an automobile explosion here today.

QUITMAN LOSES GAS STATION SUIT

Quitman, Ga., September 27.—(Special)—The supreme court has ruled against the city of Quitman in its efforts to restrict the building of filling stations in the main business sections of Screven street. L. S. Price was refused a building permit for a filling station on the corner of Washington and Screven streets, on the ground that it would create a traffic menace.

The Price lot is across the street from the Hotel General Quitman and it was reported at the time this matter came up that if Mr. Price won out another corner lot, the Walker building next to the hotel, would also be converted into a filling station.

TERRELL HOG SALE PLANNED THURSDAY

Dawson, Ga., September 27.—(Special)—Farmers of Terrell county are making big preparation for the co-operative hog sale to be held in Dawson next Thursday, October 3, and it is expected that an even larger sale than the last, when five carloads of fine hogs were sold at $10.30 per hundred for number ones, will be held.

The present price is nothing like as high as that received at the last sale, as during the past week co-operative sales have not been much more than $9 per hundred, with a few rare instances of a price as high as $9.25.

County Agent A. E. Gibson urges farmers to sell only the best grade of hogs, and by all means to sell nothing that will not grade number one.

VALDOSTA LEGION INSTALLS OFFICER

Valdosta, Ga., September 27.—(Special)—Dr. E. H. Anderson was installed as commander of the American Legion, Post 13, at the regular meeting tonight. Dr. Anderson succeeds James D. Gould.

Commander Anderson will announce his list of standing committees as soon as he can complete the list.

Dry Goods.

New York, September 27.—Cotton goods markets were steady with fairly active conditions ruling in gray goods. Mills reported considerable trading in rayon and cotton dress goods and woven specialties. Prices were unchanged. Fancy coatings were in fair demand in wool goods markets. Burlaps were easier on cables from Calcutta with spots and afloats quiet and subject to bids. Renewed demand for all silk satins was current in silk fabric markets. Spot raw silks were quiet and unchanged.

STATUS OF POLL TAX PUT UP TO HARDMAN

Dr. Duggan Asks If $500,000 Will Be Additional Sum Available to Schools.

The question of whether or not the $500,000 of poll tax money should be a charge against the regular appropriation or constitute an additional sum available to the common schools will be submitted to Governor L. G. Hardman by Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of education.

The announcement was made Friday following a meeting of the state board of education. Dr. Duggan stated that he is now preparing a brief which he will present to the governor in support of his contention that the fund should not be included in the regular appropriation of $5,003,000.

The state board at its meeting adopted a revised plan for the distribution of the equalization fund of approximately $2,000,000.

To Benefit 153 Counties.

Under the new plan, while it maintains the principal features of the old, 153 counties will benefit instead of 148 as formerly. The money will be distributed in 12 monthly installments instead of in seven.

Dr. Duggan said that this will enable him to send the money to the counties as rapidly as it comes into the treasury. The next payment, which will be of two months' monies, will be made the latter part of next week, when approximately $335,000 will be distributed.

Resolutions were adopted by the board in appreciation of the services of Dr. E. J. Forrester, of Sparta, and Miss Katherine Dozier, of Gainesville, whose terms as members have expired.

The matter of the poll tax distribution did not come up for direct discussion. Dr. Duggan stated that as it was to be submitted to the governor for consideration he did not wish to place the chief executive in the position of having to pass on it before it was submitted to him.

Members Concur.

It was discussed informally, however, with other members of the board. Dr. Duggan stated that they concurred in his decision to contest the opinion of the attorney-general holding that the money was a charge against the general educational fund.

Mr. Napier's opinion, he said, was based principally on the theory that a clause appearing in a similar act of 1919 made the poll tax money a charge against the regular appropriation. Similar provisions were made in acts of 1921 and 1923.

The old provision, though it has not appeared in subsequent acts, has not been repealed. Mr. Napier contends it is general in its nature and still applicable, while Dr. Duggan believes it applied only for those years for which it was enacted.

MARSHAL'S SALES.

ARGUMENTS REMAIN IN HALL-LAVARRE SUIT

Contest for Operating Control of Paper To Go to Judge Today.

Macon, Ga., September 27.—(AP)—Five hours of argument by attorneys remained tonight before placing of the Hall-Lavarre newspaper suit in the hands of Judge Bascom S. Deaver in federal court here.

Three hours of argument were made yesterday and today about the same amount of time was consumed by George S. Jones for Harold Hall, Ellsworth Hall for William Lavarre, and Scott Russell for Hall. When Mr. Russell completed his argument court adjourned until tomorrow.

Hall is pleading for equal operating control of the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle, the Spartanburg, S. C. Herald and Journal, and the Columbia, S. C. Record. Lavarre contends Hall was an employe. The papers were bought with approximately $870,000, supplied by the International Paper Company.

Trial of the case started here on August 22, and testimony was concluded yesterday.

BRITISH INDUSTRY NOW ON UPGRADE, EXPERT DECLARES

Homer S. Fox, assistant commercial attache of the department of commerce in London, addressing the regular meeting of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club at the Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon, declared that unemployment conditions in Great Britain were not nearly as bad as painted, and that generally speaking, British industries are on the upgrade.

In discussing possibilities of American trade in England, Mr. Fox pointed out that it already amounted to four-fifths of the total of our entire South America trade and that there are still possibilties of increasing it. He sited footstuffs and raw materials as the principal articles which can find a ready market there.

He urged that American business men consider England as a foreign country despite the seeming similarities. In this way, he stated, it can readily be seen that different advertising methods are necessary and there will not be a temptation to let national advertising in the United States care for over seas trade as well.

QUARTET SINGING SLATED SUNDAY FOR BELL'S MILL

Gainesville, Ga., September 27.—(Special.)—A quartette singing will be held Sunday at Bell's Mill, four miles from here, it was announced here today by Congressman Thomas M. Bell, proprietor of the resort. Inclement weather at a similar singing last Sunday lessened crowds and was responsible for the decision to hold a second affair the coming Sunday.

Exercises will be in charge of Rev. L. L. Bennett, of Oakwood, and the following quartettes will participate in the singing: Rainbow, of New Holland; Walka, of Walka Mountain; Mt. Vernon, of Murrayville, and the St. Paul church quartet of Gainesville.

Children Are Barred By Law From Suing For Mother's Death

Adult children cannot maintain suit for the death of their parents where their father survived the mother but died before suit was instituted, it was ruled Friday by the Georgia supreme court.

Herbert R. Hood and others asked $3,000 damages against the Southern railway, alleging that their mother, Mrs. Beulah R. Hood, was killed by a train at Oakdale in September, 1926.

On trial in Cobb county the railroad introduced a demurrer, setting up the grounds ruled on by the supreme court Friday. From the decision there an appeal was taken.

The unusual nature of the question was pointed out by Chief Justice Russell in the opinion.

"It would seem strange," he said, "under the language of the law involved in this case, that it would be possible for one to be guilty of the tortious homicide of a mother and that by the death of a father before a suit could be brought, any action could be entirely eliminated.

"However, in my conception of my duty and under the clear language of the provision adverted to I am constrained to concur in the negative answer in this case."

ALLEN WILL ASK HARDMAN TO SAVE LIFE OF MERRITT

The fight of attorneys to save the life of Alvin E. Merritt, who is under sentence to die next Friday for an attack upon an Atlanta woman, will be continued as long as any resource is left, H. A. Allen, of counsel for Merritt, said Friday. Allen stated that he had tried to make an engagement with Governor Hardman Friday but had been unsuccessful.

The attorney said that he would carry the case direct to Governor Hardman regardless of the decision of the state prison board, the board having turned the condemned man's plea down. He expects to obtain a hearing early next week.

Allen said that he did not know whether Governor Hardman was the sole recourse left to Merritt, and that he might attempt some other move if the governor refuses to act.

First 1929 Dove Season To Close September 30

The state department of game and fish has called special attention to the close of the dove season on the last day of September, making it unlawful to shoot doves from October 1 to November 20. The dove season reopens November 20 and closes finally January 31, it was explained.

Legal hunting seasons, under Georgia laws, are:

Quail, November 20 to March 14.

Doves, September 1 to 30, and November 20 to January 31 (same as federal law).

Wild turkey, November 20 to March 1.

Summer or wood duck, state, September 1 to April 1, but federal law prohibits shooting wood duck at any time.

Migratory duck, state, September 1 to April 1; federal, November 1 to January 31.

Woodcock, state, September 1 to January 1; federal, December 1 to December 31.

Snipe, November 1 to January 31.

Marsh hens, September 1 to November 30.

Cat squirrel, November 20 to March 1.

Deer, male only, November 1 to December 31.

Wild pheasant, grouse and fox squirrel protected to November 20, 1930, and none may be shot until that date.

It is unlawful to shoot deer at all in the following counties: Dade, Dawson, Catoosa, Chattooga, Fannin, Gilmer, Gordon, Habersham, Lumpkin, Murray, Pickens, Rabun, Stephens, Towns, Union, Walker, White, Whitfield.

Faced With Arrest, Woman Tries Suicide With Dose of Poison

Faced with arrest on charge of forgery, Mrs. Margaret Nash, of a Lakewood avenue address, attempted to "end it all" with a dose of poison Friday morning, according to police reports. Mrs. Nash was rushed to Grady hospital by Deputy Sheriffs Whatley and Jordan, who called at the residence to make the arrest. The officers were asked to wait at the door, the woman going into a back room, where she took the poison dose.

Mrs. Nash, who is named in three indictments returned on September 20, charging forgery, was taken to Fulton tower following emergency treatment at the hospital. At the tower she declared she would "finish the job" at the first opportunity, jailers reported. She is being held under $1,000 bond.

Mrs. Nash was on probation for two years as a result of previous indictments on the same charge. She was claimed to have forged account slips at a local clothing store.
